Larson Office, Nathan Linked By Phone Calls

Oliphant Lectured By Probe Chairman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Tax scandals investigators produced evidence tonight that long distance phone calls were made from the office of Jess Larson, high government official, to Frank Nathan, who has been named in an alleged $500,000 shakedown plot.

Adrian Dewind, counsel for a House investigating committee, presented the evidence of calls between Larson's office and New York and Miami. He said they were charged to Larson, who is head of the General Services Administration, the government's "housekeeping" agency.

But Nathan, in the witness chair, swore he couldn't remember such calls. He said they might have come from an assistant to Larson.

Abraham Teitelbaum, a former attorney for Capone mobsters, has charged Nathan and another man with trying to shake him down to fix his tax troubles. He said the two claimed to be in league with a "clique" of high Washington officials. He said they mentioned a man named "Larson" as one of the clique.

Larson Says He Called Nathan

Nathan in earlier testimony had denounced the shakedown story as a "filthy lie."

Tonight Larson told a reporter he had telephoned Nathan "probably a half dozen" times during June and July "to get him straightened out on the fact that he couldn't get me or my representatives to help him peddle oil." He added that he had already told the committee all about it.

Larson, appearing before the committee recently, called upon it in the "name of almighty God" to stop such smearing of government officials. He emphatically denied knowing anything of such a "clique."

He declared he knew Nathan as a man about town who kept bobbing up and sort of making a nuisance of himself. He said he tried his best to shoo Nathan away and had put his name on a "referred list," similar to a list of suspicious persons.

He said these efforts to get rid of Nathan started back in 1948.

The evidence produced today was that a phone call to Nathan from Larson's office was made as late as July, 1951.

Present Phase Of Probe Ends

Nathan suggested the possibility that the calls might have been made by Al Snyder, Larson's assistant, whom Nathan identified as a good friend.

"The only thing I can think of was oil deals," Nathan said, recalling that previously he had tried to obtain all sorts of "deals" in Washington and had communicated numerous times in the past with Larson about oil.

"I swear I don't remember those calls," he said. "I really don't."

"You don't want to remember, do you?" asked Byrnes (R-Wis).

"Yes, I do. I promise I do," the witness answered.

Patient Kills Doctor, Then Takes Own Life

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14—A 60-year-old patient shot and killed Dr. O. Draper Helps, 70, in his office today, then killed himself.

Police identified the assailant as Daniel Boudouvis, a semi-retired restaurant operator who had been under treatment for a year. He died in City Hospital an hour after the shooting.

The motive was not determined.

Police Lt. James Treanor quoted Miss Lucy A. Pehlps, 70, the doctor's cousin, as saying Boudouvis fired at the physician, then turned the gun on himself.

Compromise On Two Key Issues Indicated As Truce Talks Resume

Three European Nations Alerted For Truce Duty

Probably Will Serve On Inspection Teams

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Joint Chiefs of Staff have authorized Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway to propose Sweden, Norway and Switzerland as members of international truce inspection teams in Korea, if and when, armistice negotiations reach the point for such a proposal.

The State Department has notified each of those governments and has asked their views on the matter. Officials believe they will agree to serve.

Responsible authorities said the action was of a precautionary nature and did not mean the United States government feels that an agreement with the Communist command on a Korean cease-fire is necessarily imminent.

Envoys Are "Alerted"

Assistant Secretary of State John D. Hickerson called in the Swiss, Swedish and Norwegian envoys to Washington yesterday. In the words of one official, he "alerted them" on the possibility that their governments may be asked to assign officers to serve on the inspection teams in event of an armistice.

Hickerson also was reported to have advised the envoys that, theoretically at least, agreement on remaining truce problems could be reached quickly. He stressed, however, that there were still tremendous obstacles.

Might Extend Deadline

Actually there appears to be real hope among officials here that a truce may be agreed to in a matter of weeks. But it is considered quite uncertain whether agreement can be reached within the remaining 13 days of the 30-day period for establishing a cease-fire on the Nov. 27 battle line. If necessary, authorities here believe, the deadline of Dec. 27 could be extended provided there is sufficient reason at the time for believing that an extension would result in a solution of remaining truce problems.

Estranged Mate Held In Shooting Of Pretty Wife

Took Her Own Life, Entertainer Says

BOSTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The pretty young wife of a theatrical performer was found shot through the head in her bed today—a few hours after she had telephoned police asking their help in getting a gun away from her estranged husband.

The victim was red-haired Dorothy M. Sowder, 26, mother of two boys aged 7 and 8. In 1946 she competed for the beauty title of "Miss Washington, D. C." and might have won, friends said, except the judges disqualified her as a married woman. Her death occurred a day before her younger son's seventh birthday.

Husband Is Held

Police held her husband, Edwin M. Sowder, 43, Washington, an unemployed entertainer and former baseball player, on suspicion of murder.

Sowder, who does a trick-horse act with an Arabian stallion, told detectives his wife took her own life.

"She fired one shot into her head. That's the whole story," Police Lt. Joseph F. Fallon, head of the homicide squad, quoted him as saying.

But records at the West Roxbury (Boston) police station showed Mrs. Sowder telephoned there Wednesday night and inquired what police could do about taking a gun away from her husband. The desk officer's advice was not recorded.

Had Filed Divorce Suit

Sowder said he came to Boston from Washington on Wednesday to attempt a reconciliation. That was the day Mrs. Sowder filed suit for divorce in Suffolk County Probate Court.

The six-foot-three husband was identified as a former athlete who played football at Columbia (Tenn.) Military Academy and baseball at Little Rock, Ark., with Bill Dickey, former New York Yankees catcher.

Sumner T. Pike Quits AEC Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Sumner T. Pike, last remaining member of the original Atomic Energy Commission, resigned today.

President Truman, in an exchange of letters given out at the White House, expressed "utmost regret" that the 60-year-old Maine Republican is stepping out.

The letters disclosed that Pike had sought to resign Oct. 31, at the end of his fifth year of service, but had agreed at the President's request to stay on until Dec. 15.

There was no immediate indication whom Mr. Truman might choose to fill out the five-man commission.

Pike said there was "no specific reason" for his move and he had "no plans at all." He was in retirement when he was called to take the commission post in November, 1946, at the time the civilian board took over the atomic energy program from the Army's Manhattan District.

U. N. May Ease POW Stand If Reds Turn Over Prisoner List

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Dec. 15 (AP) — Allied and Communist truce negotiators return to Panmunjom today amid indications of cautious compromise on two thorny issues—prisoner exchange and troop rotation.

Twelve days remain to meet the agreed-upon Dec. 27 deadline for an armistice.

Friday's talks produced these two developments which could lead to some agreement:

1. An Allied spokesman said the United Nations delegation would be "more receptive" to discussing bulk exchange of prisoners, providing the Reds produce a "reasonably accurate" total figure of war prisoners they are believed to hold.

Reds Give Ground

2. The Communist delegation gave ground on the U. N. desire to continue home rotation of troops during an armistice.

On the prisoner issue, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, Allied spokesman, said Allied negotiators would "listen with more favor" to Communist demands for an all-for-all exchange should the Reds produce a list.

"We have no intention of withholding prisoners simply because we have more than they do," Nuckols added.

He said the Reds disclosed Friday for the first time that they had in the Panmunjom conference tent a list of prisoners, but appeared to be "holding it up in an attempt to force the United Nations command into agreement on the bulk exchange...."

U. S. Alerts Three Nations

On the truce supervision question, it was disclosed in Washington that the United States has alerted three nations—Sweden, Norway and Switzerland—that they may be approached to provide "non-belligerent" behind-the-lines inspection teams—in event of an armistice.

The Allies have indicated they might accept a Communist proposal for inspection by representatives of non-belligerent nations, but other points were in dispute.

Even with the condition set forth, Friday's was the first hint of Allied willingness to talk about turning loose all prisoners on both sides as asked by the Communists.

Allies Lose Three Planes

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, Dec. 15 (AP) — U. S. Sabre jets destroyed one red-nosed MIG-15 Friday and damaged three, but Communists ground fire downed three Allied fighters, the Fifth Air Force reported.

On the battlefront, an Allied raiding party shot up Communist positions in the western sector northwest of Korangpo. Light patrol contact was reported elsewhere.

Warships and carrier planes pounded Northeast Korea coastal supply lines.

Forty-eight American Sabres clashed with more than 100 MIGs in a 25-minute dogfight over Northwest Korea — one of two air battles Friday. One MIG was listed as shot down and two damaged in the first fight and a third damaged in a smaller afternoon clash.

The Air Force reported all Sabres returned safely to base.

However, it said Communist anti-aircraft fire knocked down an F-80 Shooting Star, F-84 Thunderjet and a propellor-driven F-51 Mustang.

Carroll Indicted On Tax Charges

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 14 (AP) — James J. Carroll, St. Louis gambler, was indicted today by a federal grand jury which charged he failed to file income tax returns on betting payments of nearly $2,000,000.

Carroll was named in two indictments listing 104 counts.

One true bill of 101 counts listed individuals from all parts of the country who had won horse race and election wagers totaling $1,813,160. The other charged that Carroll failed to make returns reflecting these payments for 1948, 1949 and 1950.

Carroll, known for years as a betting commissioner, operated in St. Louis but in July, 1950, there were reports he had discontinued his betting and odds making business.

He appeared last spring before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee and claimed that his huge income was for "advice and investment" for a gambling undertaking. He estimated his income from that source at $100,000 annually "some years."

Threat Of Steel Walkout Causes "Great Concern"

Mediator Declares Time Getting Short

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 14 (AP)—There is "great concern" in government circles over the possibility of a nationwide steel strike New Year's Day, a top federal mediator said today.

"Time is getting short," declared Clyde Mills after he and mediator Walter A. Maggaiolo took a quick glance at progress of contract talks between the million-member CIO United Steelworkers and U. S. Steel Corp., bellwether of the industry.

The union's contract expires at midnight Dec. 31. A strike can begin one minute later.

Mediators Meet Stephens, Murray

The two-man mediation team conferred privately with Vice President John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel. Then after a luncheon session with Steelworkers President Philip Murray, the mediators declared:

"The possibility of a steel strike poses a very serious situation because of the economic effect it would have, in addition to its effect on our defense effort. There is a great concern over the possibilities of a work stoppage."

The mediators, sent here by Cyrus Ching, chief of the Federal Mediation Service, added:

"Mr. Ching decided to have a look at the negotiations and we came here to get a picture of them. Now, we're going back to Washington and decide what steps we can take toward preventing a work stoppage."

Negotiations To Continue

The mediators indicated Ching may have a statement after they report, probably on Sunday.

Neither Murray nor Stephens commented on their meetings with the mediators. Instead, they continued to lead their negotiating teams at the bargaining tables.

Another negotiating session was scheduled for 10 a. m. (EST) tomorrow if weather permits. Pittsburgh was blanketed with up to five inches of snow today.

The mediators said that although the situation is growing increasingly serious, continuance of negotiations is at least a hopeful sign toward ultimate settlement.

Motorist Trapped 45 Minutes In Icy Water

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—James Thomas Dunn alternately shouted and prayed for 45 minutes today while trapped in his car which skidded on icy pavement, plunged down an embankment and overturned in a Forest Park lagoon.

Weak from shock and numbed by the icy water, Dunn was unable to open a door. Six policemen formed a human chain to rescue him after a passing motorist noticed the car, resting on its top in about three feet of water. He wasn't seriously injured but was treated for exposure.

He is 75; she's 71. Mrs. Larkin has worn the same skates since she was nine.

Eden, Egyptian Envoy Confer

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Egyptian Ambassador Abdel Fattah Amr Pasha talked for an hour tonight in an effort to cool inflamed relations between their countries, but diplomatic sources indicated they made no progress.

No new proposals were put forward, one source said, dispite hints that Britain—sitting tight militarily in the disputed Suez Canal zone—was in conciliatory mood.

The formal reason for the meeting was Amr Pasha's desire to notify Britain officially of his recall to Cairo, but the gesture broadened into a discussion that ranged over the field of embittered British-Egyptian relations.

Amr Pasha has been recalled by his government—a move that falls just short of a diplomatic break. The Egyptian embassy will continue to function under a charge d'affaires.

Pair Freed In Death Of Hospital Patient

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Dec. 14 (AP)—Two attendants at the Eastern Shore State Hospital today were cleared of manslaughter charges in the death of an elderly patient.

Magistrate Charles H. Gibson ruled in a preliminary hearing today that there was no grounds for the charges against John Abbott, 25, and Earl Gonder, 32.

The men had been temporarily suspended from the institution pending the results of the hearing.

The patient, 64-year-old Harry S. Burns, Denton, died in the hospital Dec. 2., two days after a struggle with Gonder and Abbott.

Jessup Urges Russia To Join Arms Discussion

Bid Made On Basis Of Revised Program

PARIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup today urged Russia to join negotiations on a program of disarmament laid down in revised Western proposals designed to go as far as possible to meet Russian demands.

There is no indication when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky will deliver Russia's answer.

Jessup told the United Nations Political Committee the West knows fundamental differences still exist between the West and Russia on disarmament and much work must be done.

Accept "Difficulties"

"We do not blink at the difficulties," he said.

He said the new version of the Western proposals takes as a basis for a start the resolution on atomic control and other decisions on arms regulation adopted by previous general assemblies. The Russians oppose those decisions, but Jessup said the West does not accept the view "that all of the hard work, the discussions and decisions of the past five years should be thrown aside and that we should start all over again."

Agreement Important

"Our common agreement (by the Big Four powers) on the point that the General Assembly should establish a new (disarmament) commission to carry the work forward is important," Jessup said, "because genuine progress toward disarmament is likely to be possible only when the commission has worked out the details of the program.

"We hope it will then become apparent to the Soviet Union that there is nothing in the program inimical to its best interests, or inconsistent with the independence and security of the Soviet union or any other state."

Barkley Is Optimistic

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Vice President Barkley returned today from a Far Eastern trip saying he is "hopeful and optimistic" that a truce will be signed in Korea.

Crime-Buster, Truman Will Confer Soon

Tonight Is Deadline For Drastic Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Judge Thomas F. Murphy, towering New York crime-buster, is coming to Washington to confer with President Truman amid reports that he will play a key role in a drive to quash corruption in the government.

Murphy had an appointment with Mr. Truman today, but was unable to keep it because a snow storm halted air traffic here.

The New Yorker is now expected to see the President tomorrow or Monday.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman moved closer to the Saturday night deadline he set for drastic action in the nationwide tax scandals. New demands arose for Cabinet dismissals and hints of new sensations developed on Capitol Hill.

Secrecy Covers Moves

Tight secrecy covered most of the preliminary steps that are expected to lead to a White House announcement—by tomorrow night at the latest—of a crackdown by the President. Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that action could be expected this week.

The general expectation is that the President will set up a special anti-corruption commission or agency, perhaps modeled on the Truman investigating committee which he headed as a senator during World War II.

Mr. Truman told newsmen then that the executive branch of the government—his own bailiwick—had tracked down all cases of wrongdoing in the administration long before they were aired on Capitol Hill.

The President consulted with Chairman King (D-Calif) of the House Inquiry Committee at the White House today, but neither King nor the White House would comment on what they discussed.

Truman, Perlman Confer

Informants said King planned to advise the President on the corrective action Mr. Truman indicated he will take to sweep out "wrongdoers". Such people, the President said, "have no house with me no matter who they are or how big they are."

The President also held a long conference with Solicitor General Philip Perlman, who presumably would advise on legal aspects of a cleanup program.

Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short told reporters today he couldn't make any prediction about when the announcement on White House action would come.

Another White House visitor today was Sen. Anderson (D-NM) who told newsmen after a half-hour talk with the President that he is confident Mr. Truman will take drastic steps to clean house.

Airline Strike Set Monday Morning

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Wage talks broke down tonight and the CIO transport workers abruptly called a strike for Monday morning against Pan American World Airways.

The strike threat apparently caught the company by surprise. However, it said it can keep its planes aloft by filling the Strikers' Shoes with supervisory employes.

The union said a walkout of 5,800 ground and flight service employes would tie up Pan American's overseas service "from Calcutta to Japan."

However, the Korean airlift would not be affected, the union added.

Pan American flies troops to and from Korea. It also operates some hospital ships.

Snowstorm Stalls Thousands Of Autos, Cancels Airline Flights, Delays Trains

[By The Associated Press]

A vast snowstorm, with numbing cold lurking in its wake, struck the midwest and North Atlantic states Friday, stalling thousands of motorists, cancelling plane flights and delaying train service. Some schools were closed.

Highways leading from major cities were clogged for miles into surrounding suburbs as wheels spun on automobiles unequipped with chains.

At New York's LaGuardia Field, 61 flights were cancelled even before the snow fell. Ten international flights were cancelled or diverted at Idlewild airport.

The plane cancellations threw a heavier burden on the railroads. Normally crowded weekend trains from New York were jammed last night.

The weather caused some train delays but railroads reported service close to normal.

New York City, Philadelphia, Newark, N. J., and Trenton, N. J., had terrific traffic jams.

Skidding automobiles and trucks snarled traffic in most cities.

In the Philadelphia area there was one of the worst taffic jams in history. The snow approached six inches before turning to rain.

Only 3.3 inches fell in the New York City area before turning to rain, but this was enough to tie up motorists for hours in the great parkway systems leading through Long Island and Westchester.

In New Jersey, snow blanketed the entire state.

Highways from Baltimore and Washington leading into Western Maryland were closed by heavy snow. The traffic tieup in Baltimore was termed the worst in the city's history. Stalled cars jammed the downtown section. Some city buses and surface line cars still were operating. Workers and school children alike were stranded in buildings by the snow and lack of transportation.

High winds accompanied the snow in most areas. In the Plains States, winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour whipped the flakes into drifts.

Wanger Free On $5,000 Bail In Shooting Of Wife's Agent; Romance Angle Denied

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 14 (AP)—A shaken Walter Wanger left jail today, 18 hours after shooting his wife's agent. But he didn't go home.

At their $150,000 mansion was Joan Bennett, the glamorous grandmother. She says only business, not romance, brought her and Jennings Lang together in a parking lot last night, where the jealous movie producer twice wounded the younger Lang.

"I shot him because he broke up my home," the white-haired, 57-year-old Wanger was quoted by Police Chief Clinton Anderson.

"If Walter thinks there is any romance between us, he is wrong," said Miss Bennett, 41. Lang, 39, is in a hospital, where doctors say he will recover.

Miss Bennett's attorney, Grant Cooper, told newsmen later a divorce had been discussed by the star and her husband because of Wanger's recent financial worries and nervous condition.

Lang, in his first statement—issued by his wife Pam to newsmen at the hospital—said:

"I am bewildered by the unfortunate and unprovoked event that has occurred. I have represented Miss Bennett for many years as her agent and can only state that Walter Wanger misconstrued what was solely a business relationship. Since there are families and children concerned, I hope that this whole regrettable incident can be forgotten as quickly as possible."

The dapper Wanger, released on $5,000 bail after a night in jail, jumped nervously as photographers' bulbs flashed.

Lang, married and the father of two children, was under opiates and still too weak to be questioned by police, hospital attendants reported. The agent underwent delicate surgery for a .38 pistol bullet wound in the groin. A second bullet barely grazed him.

Wanger was freed on a writ of habeas corpus, returnable next Thursday. He and his attorney, Jerry Giesler conferred briefly in the latter's office, but the attorney said no immediate statement is planned.

District Attorney S. Ernest Roll indicated a charge of felonious assault will be filed against Wanger.

Weather Forecast

U. N. May Ease POW Stand If Reds Turn Over Prisoner List

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Dec. 15 (AP) — Allied and Communist truce negotiators return to Panmunjom today amid indications of cautious compromise on two thorny issues—prisoner exchange and troop rotation.

Twelve days remain to meet the agreed-upon Dec. 27 deadline for an armistice.

Friday's talks produced these two developments which could lead to some agreement:

1. An Allied spokesman said the United Nations delegation would be "more receptive" to discussing bulk exchange of prisoners, providing the Reds produce a "reasonably accurate" total figure of war prisoners they are believed to hold.

Reds Give Ground

2. The Communist delegation gave ground on the U. N. desire to continue home rotation of troops during an armistice.

On the prisoner issue, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, Allied spokesman, said Allied negotiators would "listen with more favor" to Communist demands for an all-for-all exchange should the Reds produce a list.

"We have no intention of withholding prisoners simply because we have more than they do," Nuckols added.

He said the Reds disclosed Friday for the first time that they had in the Panmunjom conference tent a list of prisoners, but appeared to be "holding it up in an attempt to force the United Nations command into agreement on the bulk exchange...."

U. S. Alerts Three Nations

On the truce supervision question, it was disclosed in Washington that the United States has alerted three nations—Sweden, Norway and Switzerland—that they may be approached to provide "non-belligerent" behind-the-lines inspection teams—in event of an armistice.

The Allies have indicated they might accept a Communist proposal for inspection by representatives of non-belligerent nations, but other points were in dispute.

Even with the condition set forth, Friday's was the first hint of Allied willingness to talk about turning loose all prisoners on both sides as asked by the Communists.

Allies Lose Three Planes

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, Dec. 15 (AP) — U. S. Sabre jets destroyed one red-nosed MIG-15 Friday and damaged three, but Communists ground fire downed three Allied fighters, the Fifth Air Force reported.

On the battlefront, an Allied raiding party shot up Communist positions in the western sector northwest of Korangpo. Light patrol contact was reported elsewhere.

Warships and carrier planes pounded Northeast Korea coastal supply lines.

Forty-eight American Sabres clashed with more than 100 MIGs in a 25-minute dogfight over Northwest Korea — one of two air battles Friday. One MIG was listed as shot down and two damaged in the first fight and a third damaged in a smaller afternoon clash.

The Air Force reported all Sabres returned safely to base.

However, it said Communist antiaircraft fire knocked down an F-80 Shooting Star, F-84 Thunderjet and a propellor-driven F-51 Mustang.

Carroll Indicted On Tax Charges

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 14 (AP) — James J. Carroll, St. Louis gambler, was indicted today by a federal grand jury which charged he failed to file income tax returns on betting payments of nearly $2,000,000.

Carroll was named in two indictments listing 104 counts.

One true bill of 101 counts listed individuals from all parts of the country who had won horse race and election wagers totaling $1,813,160. The other charged that Carroll failed to make returns reflecting these payments for 1948, 1949 and 1950.

Carroll, known for years as a betting commissioner, operated in St. Louis but in July, 1950, there were reports he had discontinued his betting and odds making business.

He appeared last spring before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee and claimed that his huge income was for "advice and investment" for a gambling undertaking. He estimated his income from that source at $100,000 annually "some years."

Threat Of Steel Walkout Causes "Great Concern"

Mediator Declares Time Getting Short

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 14 (AP)—There is "great concern" in government circles over the possibility of a nationwide steel strike New Year's Day, a top federal mediator said today.

"Time is getting short," declared Clyde Mills after he and mediator Walter A. Maggaiolo took a quick glance at progress of contract talks between the million-member CIO United Steelworkers and U. S. Steel Corp., bellwether of the industry.

The union's contract expires at midnight Dec. 31. A strike can begin one minute later.

Mediators Meet Stephens, Murray

The two-man mediation team conferred privately with Vice President John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel. Then after a luncheon session with Steelworkers President Philip Murray, the mediators declared:

"The possibility of a steel strike poses a very serious situation because of the economic effect it would have, in addition to its effect on our defense effort. There is a great concern over the possibilities of a work stoppage."

The mediators, sent here by Cyrus Ching, chief of the Federal Mediation Service, added:

"Mr. Ching decided to have a look at the negotiations and we came here to get a picture of them. Now, we're going back to Washington and decide what steps we can take toward preventing a work stoppage."

Negotiations To Continue

The mediators indicated Ching may have a statement after they report, probably on Sunday.

Neither Murray nor Stephens commented on their meetings with the mediators. Instead, they continued to lead their negotiating teams at the bargaining tables.

Another negotiating session was scheduled for 10 a. m. (EST) tomorrow if weather permits. Pittsburgh was blanketed with up to five inches of snow today.

The mediators said that although the situation is growing increasingly serious, continuance of negotiations is at least a hopeful sign toward ultimate settlement.

Motorist Trapped 45 Minutes In Icy Water

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—James Thomas Dunn alternately shouted and prayed for 45 minutes today while trapped in his car which skidded on icy pavement, plunged down an embankment and overturned in a Forest Park lagoon.

Weak from shock and numbed by the icy water, Dunn was unable to open a door. Six policemen formed a human chain to rescue him after a passing motorist noticed the car, resting on its top in about three feet of water. He wasn't seriously injured but was treated for exposure.

Eden, Egyptian Envoy Confer

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Egyptian Ambassador Abdel Fattah Amr Pasha talked for an hour tonight in an effort to cool inflamed relations between their countries, but diplomatic sources indicated they made no progress.

No new proposals were put forward, one source said, dispite hints that Britain—sitting tight militarily in the disputed Suez Canal zone—was in conciliatory mood.

The formal reason for the meeting was Amr Pasha's desire to notify Britain officially of his recall to Cairo, but the gesture broadened into a discussion that ranged over the field of embittered British-Egyptian relations.

Amr Pasha has been recalled by his government—a move that falls just short of a diplomatic break. The Egyptian embassy will continue to function under a charge d'affaires.

Pair Freed In Death Of Hospital Patient

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Dec. 14 (AP)—Two attendants at the Eastern Shore State Hospital today were cleared of manslaughter charges in the death of an elderly patient.

Magistrate Charles H. Gibson ruled in a preliminary hearing today that there was no grounds for the charges against John Abbott, 25, and Earl Gonder, 32.

The men had been temporarily suspended from the institution pending the results of the hearing.

The patient, 64-year-old Harry S. Burns, Denton, died in the hospital Dec. 2., two days after a struggle with Gonder and Abbott.

Jessup Urges Russia To Join Arms Discussion

Bid Made On Basis Of Revised Program

PARIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup today urged Russia to join negotiations on a program of disarmament laid down in revised Western proposals designed to go as far as possible to meet Russian demands.

There is no indication when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky will deliver Russia's answer.

Jessup told the United Nations Political Committee the West knows fundamental differences still exist between the West and Russia on disarmament and much work must be done.

Accept "Difficulties"

"We do not blink at the difficulties," he said.

He said the new version of the Western proposals takes as a basis for a start the resolution on atomic control and other decisions on arms regulation adopted by previous general assemblies. The Russians oppose those decisions, but Jessup said the West does not accept the view "that all of the hard work, the discussions and decisions of the past five years should be thrown aside and that we should start all over again."

Agreement Important

"Our common agreement (by the Big Four powers) on the point that the General Assembly should establish a new (disarmament) commission to carry the work forward is important," Jessup said, "because genuine progress toward disarmament is likely to be possible only when the commission has worked out the details of the program.

"We hope it will then become apparent to the Soviet Union that there is nothing in the program inimical to its best interests, or inconsistent with the independence and security of the Soviet union or any other state."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Vice President Barkley returned today from a Far Eastern trip saying he is "hopeful and optimistic" that a truce will be signed in Korea.

Crime-Buster, Truman Will Confer Soon

Tonight Is Deadline For Drastic Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Judge Thomas F. Murphy, towering New York crime-buster, is coming to Washington to confer with President Truman amid reports that he will play a key role in a drive to quash corruption in the government.

Murphy had an appointment with Mr. Truman today, but was unable to keep it because a snow storm halted air traffic here.

The New Yorker is now expected to see the President tomorrow or Monday.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman moved closer to the Saturday night deadline he set for drastic action in the nationwide tax scandals. New demands arose for Cabinet dismissals and hints of new sensations developed on Capitol Hill.

Secrecy Covers Moves

Tight secrecy covered most of the preliminary steps that are expected to lead to a White House announcement—by tomorrow night at the latest—of a crackdown by the President. Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that action could be expected this week.

The general expectation is that the President will set up a special anti-corruption commission or agency, perhaps modeled on the Truman investigating committee which he headed as a senator during World War II.

Mr. Truman told newsmen then that the executive branch of the government—his own bailiwick—had tracked down all cases of wrongdoing in the administration long before they were aired on Capitol Hill.

The President consulted with Chairman King (D-Calif) of the House Inquiry Committee at the White House today, but neither King nor the White House would comment on what they discussed.

Truman, Perlman Confer

Informants said King planned to advise the President on the corrective action Mr. Truman indicated he will take to sweep out "wrongdoers". Such people, the President said, "have no house with me no matter who they are or how big they are."

The President also held a long conference with Solicitor General Philip Perlman, who presumably would advise on legal aspects of a cleanup program.

Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short told reporters today he couldn't make any prediction about when the announcement on White House action would come.

Another White House visitor today was Sen. Anderson (D-NM) who told newsmen after a half-hour talk with the President that he is confident Mr. Truman will take drastic steps to clean house.

Airline Strike Set Monday Morning

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Wage talks broke down tonight and the CIO transport workers abruptly called a strike for Monday morning against Pan American World Airways.

The strike threat apparently caught the company by surprise. However, it said it can keep its planes aloft by filling the Strikers' Shoes with supervisory employes.

The union said a walkout of 5,800 ground and flight service employes would tie up Pan American's overseas service "from Calcutta to Japan."

However, the Korean airlift would not be affected, the union added.

Pan American flies troops to and from Korea. It also operates some hospital ships.

Snowstorm Stalls Thousands Of Autos, Cancels Airline Flights, Delays Trains

[By The Associated Press]

A vast snowstorm, with numbing cold lurking in its wake, struck the midwest and North Atlantic states Friday, stalling thousands of motorists, cancelling plane flights and delaying train service. Some schools were closed.

Highways leading from major cities were clogged for miles into surrounding suburbs as wheels spun on automobiles unequipped with chains.

At New York's LaGuardia Field, 61 flights were cancelled even before the snow fell. Ten international flights were cancelled or diverted at Idlewild airport.

The plane cancellations threw a heavier burden on the railroads. Normally crowded weekend trains from New York were jammed last night.

The weather caused some train delays but railroads reported service close to normal.

New York City, Philadelphia, Newark, N. J., and Trenton, N. J., had terrific traffic jams.

Skidding automobiles and trucks snarled traffic in most cities.

In the Philadelphia area there was one of the worst taffic jams in history. The snow approached six inches before turning to rain.

Only 3.3 inches fell in the New York City area before turning to rain, but this was enough to tie up motorists for hours in the great parkway systems leading through Long Island and Westchester.

In New Jersey, snow blanketed the entire state.

Highways from Baltimore and Washington leading into Western Maryland were closed by heavy snow. The traffic tieup in Baltimore was termed the worst in the city's history. Stalled cars jammed the downtown section. Some city buses and surface line cars still were operating. Workers and school children alike were stranded in buildings by the snow and lack of transportation.

High winds accompanied the snow in most areas. In the Plains States, winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour whipped the flakes into drifts.

Wanger Free On $5,000 Bail In Shooting Of Wife's Agent; Romance Angle Denied

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 14 (AP)—A shaken Walter Wanger left jail today, 18 hours after shooting his wife's agent. But he didn't go home.

At their $150,000 mansion was Joan Bennett, the glamorous grandmother. She says only business, not romance, brought her and Jennings Lang together in a parking lot last night, where the jealous movie producer twice wounded the younger Lang.

"I shot him because he broke up my home," the white-haired, 57-year-old Wanger was quoted by Police Chief Clinton Anderson.

"If Walter thinks there is any romance between us, he is wrong," said Miss Bennett, 41. Lang, 39, is in a hospital, where doctors say he will recover.

Miss Bennett's attorney, Grant Cooper, told newsmen later a divorce had been discussed by the star and her husband because of Wanger's recent financial worries and nervous condition.

Lang, in his first statement—issued by his wife Pam to newsmen at the hospital—said:

"I am bewildered by the unfortunate and unprovoked event that has occurred. I have represented Miss Bennett for many years as her agent and can only state that Walter Wanger misconstrued what was solely a business relationship. Since there are families and children concerned, I hope that this whole regrettable incident can be forgotten as quickly as possible."

The dapper Wanger, released on $5,000 bail after a night in jail, jumped nervously as photographers' bulbs flashed.

Lang, married and the father of two children, was under opiates and still too weak to be questioned by police, hospital attendants reported. The agent underwent delicate surgery for a .38 pistol bullet wound in the groin. A second bullet barely grazed him.

Wanger was freed on a writ of habeas corpus, returnable next Thursday. He and his attorney, Jerry Giesler conferred briefly in the latter's office, but the attorney said no immediate statement is planned.

District Attorney S. Ernest Roll indicated a charge of felonious assault will be filed against Wanger.

Weather Forecast

MURPHY MAY AID SCANDAL PROBE

Oliphant Lectured By Probe Chairman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Tax scandals investigators produced evidence tonight that long distance phone calls were made from the office of Jess Larson, high government official, to Frank Nathan, who has been named in an alleged $500,000 shakedown plot.

Adrian Dewind, counsel for a House investigating committee, presented the evidence of calls between Larson's office and New York and Miami. He said they were charged to Larson, who is head of the General Services Administration, the government's "housekeeping" agency.

But Nathan, in the witness chair, swore he couldn't remember such calls. He said they might have come from an assistant to Larson.

Abraham Teitelbaum, a former attorney for Capone mobsters, has charged Nathan and another man with trying to shake him down to fix his tax troubles. He said the two claimed to be in league with a "clique" of high Washington officials. He said they mentioned a man named "Larson" as one of the clique.

Larson Says He Called Nathan

Nathan in earlier testimony had denounced the shakedown story as a "filthy lie."

Tonight Larson told a reporter he had telephoned Nathan "probably a half dozen" times during June and July "to get him straightened out on the fact that he couldn't get me or my representatives to help him peddle oil." He added that he had already told the committee all about it.

Larson, appearing before the committee recently, called upon it in the "name of almighty God" to stop such smearing of government officials. He emphatically denied knowing anything of such a "clique."

He declared he knew Nathan as a man about town who kept bobbing up and sort of making a nuisance of himself. He said he tried his best to shoo Nathan away and had put his name on a "referred list," similar to a list of suspicious persons.

He said these efforts to get rid of Nathan started back in 1948.

The evidence produced today was that a phone call to Nathan from Larson's office was made as late as July, 1951.

Present Phase Of Probe Ends

Nathan suggested the possibility that the calls might have been made by Al Snyder, Larson's assistant, whom Nathan identified as a good friend.

"The only thing I can think of was oil deals," Nathan said, recalling that previously he had tried to obtain all sorts of "deals" in Washington and had communicated numerous times in the past with Larson about oil.

"I swear I don't remember those calls," he said. "I really don't."

"You don't want to remember, do you?" asked Byrnes (R-Wis).

"Yes, I do. I promise I do," the witness answered.

Patient Kills Doctor, Then Takes Own Life

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14—A 60-year-old patient shot and killed Dr. O. Draper Helps, 70, in his office today, then killed himself.

Police identified the assailant as Daniel Boudouvis, a semi-retired restaurant operator who had been under treatment for a year. He died in City Hospital an hour after the shooting.

The motive was not determined.

Police Lt. James Treanor quoted Miss Lucy A. Pehlps, 70, the doctor's cousin, as saying Boudouvis fired at the physician, then turned the gun on himself.

Compromise On Two Key Issues Indicated As Truce Talks Resume

Three European Nations Alerted For Truce Duty

Probably Will Serve On Inspection Teams

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Joint Chiefs of Staff have authorized Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway to propose Sweden, Norway and Switzerland as members of international truce inspection teams in Korea, if and when, armistice negotiations reach the point for such a proposal.

The State Department has notified each of those governments and has asked their views on the matter. Officials believe they will agree to serve.

Responsible authorities said the action was of a precautionary nature and did not mean the United States government feels that an agreement with the Communist command on a Korean cease-fire is necessarily imminent.

Envoys Are "Alerted"

Assistant Secretary of State John D. Hickerson called in the Swiss, Swedish and Norwegian envoys to Washington yesterday. In the words of one official, he "alerted them" on the possibility that their governments may be asked to assign officers to serve on the inspection teams in event of an armistice.

Hickerson also was reported to have advised the envoys that, theoretically at least, agreement on remaining truce problems could be reached quickly. He stressed, however, that there were still tremendous obstacles.

Might Extend Deadline

Actually there appears to be real hope among officials here that a truce may be agreed to in a matter of weeks. But it is considered quite uncertain whether agreement can be reached within the remaining 13 days of the 30-day period for establishing a cease-fire on the Nov. 27 battle line. If necessary, authorities here believe, the deadline of Dec. 27 could be extended provided there is sufficient reason at the time for believing that an extension would result in a solution of remaining truce problems.

Estranged Mate Held In Shooting Of Pretty Wife

Took Her Own Life, Entertainer Says

BOSTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The pretty young wife of a theatrical performer was found shot through the head in her bed today—a few hours after she had telephoned police asking their help in getting a gun away from her estranged husband.

The victim was red-haired Dorothy M. Sowder, 26, mother of two boys aged 7 and 8. In 1946 she competed for the beauty title of "Miss Washington, D. C." and might have won, friends said, except the judges disqualified her as a married woman. Her death occurred a day before her younger son's seventh birthday.

Husband Is Held

Police held her husband, Edwin M. Sowder, 43, Washington, an unemployed entertainer and former baseball player, on suspicion of murder.

Sowder, who does a trick-horse act with an Arabian stallion, told detectives his wife took her own life.

"She fired one shot into her head. That's the whole story," Police Lt. Joseph F. Fallon, head of the homicide squad, quoted him as saying.

But records at the West Roxbury (Boston) police station showed Mrs. Sowder telephoned there Wednesday night and inquired what police could do about taking a gun away from her husband. The desk officer's advice was not recorded.

Had Filed Divorce Suit

Sowder said he came to Boston from Washington on Wednesday to attempt a reconciliation. That was the day Mrs. Sowder filed suit for divorce in Suffolk County Probate Court.

The six-foot-three husband was identified as a former athlete who played football at Columbia (Tenn.) Military Academy and baseball at Little Rock, Ark., with Bill Dickey, former New York Yankees catcher.

Sumner T. Pike Quits AEC Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Sumner T. Pike, last remaining member of the original Atomic Energy Commission, resigned today.

President Truman, in an exchange of letters given out at the White House, expressed "utmost regret" that the 60-year-old Maine Republican is stepping out.

The letters disclosed that Pike had sought to resign Oct. 31, at the end of his fifth year of service, but had agreed at the President's request to stay on until Dec. 15.

There was no immediate indication whom Mr. Truman might choose to fill out the five-man commission.

Pike said there was "no specific reason" for his move and he had "no plans at all." He was in retirement when he was called to take the commission post in November, 1946, at the time the civilian board took over the atomic energy program from the Army's Manhattan District.

Magistrate Charles H. Gibson ruled in a preliminary hearing today that there was no grounds for the charges against John Abbott, 25, and Earl Gonder, 32.

The men had been temporarily suspended from the institution pending the results of the hearing.

The patient, 64-year-old Harry S. Burns, Denton, died in the hospital Dec. 2., two days after a struggle with Gonder and Abbott.

Jessup Urges Russia To Join Arms Discussion

Bid Made On Basis Of Revised Program

PARIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup today urged Russia to join negotiations on a program of disarmament laid down in revised Western proposals designed to go as far as possible to meet Russian demands.

There is no indication when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky will deliver Russia's answer.

Jessup told the United Nations Political Committee the West knows fundamental differences still exist between the West and Russia on disarmament and much work must be done.

Accept "Difficulties"

"We do not blink at the difficulties," he said.

He said the new version of the Western proposals takes as a basis for a start the resolution on atomic control and other decisions on arms regulation adopted by previous general assemblies. The Russians oppose those decisions, but Jessup said the West does not accept the view "that all of the hard work, the discussions and decisions of the past five years should be thrown aside and that we should start all over again."

Agreement Important

"Our common agreement (by the Big Four powers) on the point that the General Assembly should establish a new (disarmament) commission to carry the work forward is important," Jessup said, "because genuine progress toward disarmament is likely to be possible only when the commission has worked out the details of the program.

"We hope it will then become apparent to the Soviet Union that there is nothing in the program inimical to its best interests, or inconsistent with the independence and security of the Soviet union or any other state."

Barkley Is Optimistic

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Vice President Barkley returned today from a Far Eastern trip saying he is "hopeful and optimistic" that a truce will be signed in Korea.

Crime-Buster, Truman Will Confer Soon

Tonight Is Deadline For Drastic Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Judge Thomas F. Murphy, towering New York crime-buster, is coming to Washington to confer with President Truman amid reports that he will play a key role in a drive to quash corruption in the government.

Murphy had an appointment with Mr. Truman today, but was unable to keep it because a snow storm halted air traffic here.

The New Yorker is now expected to see the President tomorrow or Monday.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman moved closer to the Saturday night deadline he set for drastic action in the nationwide tax scandals. New demands arose for Cabinet dismissals and hints of new sensations developed on Capitol Hill.

Secrecy Covers Moves

Tight secrecy covered most of the preliminary steps that are expected to lead to a White House announcement—by tomorrow night at the latest—of a crackdown by the President. Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that action could be expected this week.

The general expectation is that the President will set up a special anti-corruption commission or agency, perhaps modeled on the Truman investigating committee which he headed as a senator during World War II.

Mr. Truman told newsmen then that the executive branch of the government—his own bailiwick—had tracked down all cases of wrongdoing in the administration long before they were aired on Capitol Hill.

The President consulted with Chairman King (D-Calif) of the House Inquiry Committee at the White House today, but neither King nor the White House would comment on what they discussed.

Truman, Perlman Confer

Informants said King planned to advise the President on the corrective action Mr. Truman indicated he will take to sweep out "wrongdoers". Such people, the President said, "have no house with me no matter who they are or how big they are."

The President also held a long conference with Solicitor General Philip Perlman, who presumably would advise on legal aspects of a cleanup program.

Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short told reporters today he couldn't make any prediction about when the announcement on White House action would come.

Another White House visitor today was Sen. Anderson (D-NM) who told newsmen after a half-hour talk with the President that he is confident Mr. Truman will take drastic steps to clean house.

Airline Strike Set Monday Morning

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Wage talks broke down tonight and the CIO transport workers abruptly called a strike for Monday morning against Pan American World Airways.

The strike threat apparently caught the company by surprise. However, it said it can keep its planes aloft by filling the Strikers' Shoes with supervisory employes.

The union said a walkout of 5,800 ground and flight service employes would tie up Pan American's overseas service "from Calcutta to Japan."

However, the Korean airlift would not be affected, the union added.

Pan American flies troops to and from Korea. It also operates some hospital ships.

Snowstorm Stalls Thousands Of Autos, Cancels Airline Flights, Delays Trains

[By The Associated Press]

A vast snowstorm, with numbing cold lurking in its wake, struck the midwest and North Atlantic states Friday, stalling thousands of motorists, cancelling plane flights and delaying train service. Some schools were closed.

Highways leading from major cities were clogged for miles into surrounding suburbs as wheels spun on automobiles unequipped with chains.

At New York's LaGuardia Field, 61 flights were cancelled even before the snow fell. Ten international flights were cancelled or diverted at Idlewild airport.

The plane cancellations threw a heavier burden on the railroads. Normally crowded weekend trains from New York were jammed last night.

The weather caused some train delays but railroads reported service close to normal.

New York City, Philadelphia, Newark, N. J., and Trenton, N. J., had terrific traffic jams.

Skidding automobiles and trucks snarled traffic in most cities.

In the Philadelphia area there was one of the worst taffic jams in history. The snow approached six inches before turning to rain.

Only 3.3 inches fell in the New York City area before turning to rain, but this was enough to tie up motorists for hours in the great parkway systems leading through Long Island and Westchester.

In New Jersey, snow blanketed the entire state.

Highways from Baltimore and Washington leading into Western Maryland were closed by heavy snow. The traffic tieup in Baltimore was termed the worst in the city's history. Stalled cars jammed the downtown section. Some city buses and surface line cars still were operating. Workers and school children alike were stranded in buildings by the snow and lack of transportation.

High winds accompanied the snow in most areas. In the Plains States, winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour whipped the flakes into drifts.

Wanger Free On $5,000 Bail In Shooting Of Wife's Agent; Romance Angle Denied

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 14 (AP)—A shaken Walter Wanger left jail today, 18 hours after shooting his wife's agent. But he didn't go home.

At their $150,000 mansion was Joan Bennett, the glamorous grandmother. She says only business, not romance, brought her and Jennings Lang together in a parking lot last night, where the jealous movie producer twice wounded the younger Lang.

"I shot him because he broke up my home," the white-haired, 57-year-old Wanger was quoted by Police Chief Clinton Anderson.

"If Walter thinks there is any romance between us, he is wrong," said Miss Bennett, 41. Lang, 39, is in a hospital, where doctors say he will recover.

Miss Bennett's attorney, Grant Cooper, told newsmen later a divorce had been discussed by the star and her husband because of Wanger's recent financial worries and nervous condition.

Lang, in his first statement—issued by his wife Pam to newsmen at the hospital—said:

"I am bewildered by the unfortunate and unprovoked event that has occurred. I have represented Miss Bennett for many years as her agent and can only state that Walter Wanger misconstrued what was solely a business relationship. Since there are families and children concerned, I hope that this whole regrettable incident can be forgotten as quickly as possible."

The dapper Wanger, released on $5,000 bail after a night in jail, jumped nervously as photographers' bulbs flashed.

Lang, married and the father of two children, was under opiates and still too weak to be questioned by police, hospital attendants reported. The agent underwent delicate surgery for a .38 pistol bullet wound in the groin. A second bullet barely grazed him.

Wanger was freed on a writ of habeas corpus, returnable next Thursday. He and his attorney, Jerry Giesler conferred briefly in the latter's office, but the attorney said no immediate statement is planned.

District Attorney S. Ernest Roll indicated a charge of felonious assault will be filed against Wanger.

Hungary Ends Rationing; Prices Of Goods Soar

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 5 (By air mail) (AP)—Abolition of rationing, announced suddenly by the chief of this Communist-governed country, Vice Premier Matyas Rakosi, has come as a distinct surprise to the people.

The prices of many consumer goods, including primary foodstuffs, were raised simultaneously. Wages and salaries were increased, but to a lesser extent.

In this land of plenty, there was rationing during the war and it continued after 1945. Step by step rationing was abolished and the free market system restored by 1949. But in 1950 housewives were vexed by the lack of goods on the market. Prices went up. Hoarders were convicted and black marketing flourished. When the government introduced rationing again in January, 1951, it came as a relief. At least the housewife could count on receiving rationed quantities at reasonable prices. The press said rationing was a deadly blow to speculators. The strange thing is that the same comment is made now, when rationing is lifted.

Everything seemed all right for the new austerity until last summer, when a new phenomenon surprised both housewives and economists.

Peasants, grocers and agricultural cooperatives were permitted to sell some of the rationed foodstuffs openly on the legal black—or free-market at exorbitant prices, such as 30 forints (about $2.50 at the Hungarian official exchange rate) per kilo (two pounds) of butter. Only a limited number of persons could afford to buy. Nonetheless, many manual workers and others in the low-pay class patronized the free market. The government then raised the argument that if people could afford to pay those prices in the free market, they could do so in state-owned food shops.

Iranian Reds Will Rebuild Headquarters

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 14 (AP)—Communists emerged again today, 10,000 strong, with announced plans to rebuild the Red "peace" headquarters that was wrecked and burned in riots last week.

Their emergence caused some surprise because Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's nationalist followers have had the streets to themselves for demonstrations since their bloody five-hour clash with the Reds Dec. 6.

The Communist Tudeh Party is outlawed, but it is expected to be an undercover factor in the national elections scheduled to start next Tuesday in the northern provinces adjoining Russian territory.

Salary Board OKs $40 Bonus Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — The Salary Stabilization Board ruled today that employers under its control may give their employes Christmas or year-end bonuses up to $40 this year even though they had not done so in prior years.

The bonus may be either "in cash or in kind."

Generally speaking, the board has jurisdiction over the pay of administrative, executive and professional workers and outside salesmen. The Wage Stabilization Board issued a similar bonus ruling last month.

Late today, it ended its questioning of Charles Oliphant, resigned general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau. Oliphant sat white-faced as Chairman King (D-Calif) roundly scored government officials who accept "lavish entertainment."

Oliphant had just finished testifying that he once rode from Washington to Philadelphia for a football game in a private railroad car and met a "Mr. McBride" whose son "was alleged to own Continental (racing) Press." He said he didn't know whether the car was McBride's.

Before he left the witness chair, Oliphant disclosed that Henry W. Grunewald, Washington man of mystery, once told him he was helping Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) on a tax case said to involve "at least six figures."

The case was against H. H. Klein of Baltimore, Oliphant said, and involved a jeopardy tax assessment.

Mother's Grueling Trip To See Son Finally Completed

MOUNT GILEAD, O., Dec. 14 (AP) —Mrs. Mary Anderson—a mother who wanted to spend Christmas with her son — braved a 425-mile bus trip, five days in police custody and five days without a drug that keeps her alive.

But, she made it.

So, she sat in the Cleveland bus station, a forlorn figure — without money, without insulin which she takes daily and too frightened to tell police about her condition.

For five days, police cared for the woman in city jail. They tried to reach the son through Sheriff George E. Mosier of Morrow County. The son, prevented from making the trip to Cleveland by car trouble, wired money to his mother.

Still without insulin, Mrs. Anderson quietly climbed aboard another bus. She reached Mount Gilead last night.

Briton, Stenog Shot By Czechs

VIENNA, Dec. 14 (AP) — Prague radio said tonight that Czechoslovak secret police wounded and then arrested a British embassy officer and a woman stenographer as they allegedly were engaged in espionage activities in a forbidden area outside Prague.

The broadcast heard here said Robert Neil Gardner, second secretary in the British embassy, and Miss Daphne Gregory Maine, an embassy stenographer, were shot by the police as they attempted to escape arrest. They were taken to police headquarters, the radio said.

It added the Czechoslovakia has dispatched a note of protest to the British embassy, demanding the immediate recall of the two.

(A British Foreign Office spokesman in London said no official word of the incident had yet been received there.)

He made the statement to a group of friends and newsmen after delivering a speech at the annual banquet of the Anne Arundel County Farm Bureau.

Tallulah Authorized Ex-Maid To Raise Her Checks, Lawyer Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — Tallulah Bankhead's former personal maid admitted today she raised the actress' checks—but said her mistress authorized it.

The admission came through Fred G. Moritt, defense attorney for 59-year-old Mrs. Evyleen R. Cronin, on trial on 32 counts of forgery and grand larceny.

The white-haired Mrs. Cronin, a former vaudeville hoofer, lost her job when the check-hiking case broke last year.

Morrit asked the court to instruct the jury that check raising is forgery "unless it is done under the authority of the person who issued the checks."

Judge Harold L. Stevens refused, however.

The defense attorney gave no clue as to why a person would want his own checks raised, rather than writing them out originally for a greater amount.

Two Egyptians Slain By British

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 14 (AP) — A British patrol killed two Egyptians and wounded another Thursday night when they were caught cutting cables near Port Said, a British military spokesman said tonight.

On the other side, two Egyptian employes of the British embassy were reported held on charges "of inciting Suez Canal zone workers to return to the zone" in defiance of a boycott movement by Egyptian nationalists.

The British spokesman said the two were beaten by a crowd which accused them of being "spies and traitors," and then were dragged to a nearby police station.

The Egyptians have reported 118 of their people killed and 438 wounded in clashes since Egypt denounced her treaties with Britain in mid-October. The British list 22 British soldiers killed.

Hungary Ends Rationing; Prices Of Goods Soar

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 5 (By air mail) (AP)—Abolition of rationing, announced suddenly by the chief of this Communist-governed country, Vice Premier Matyas Rakosi, has come as a distinct surprise to the people.

The prices of many consumer goods, including primary foodstuffs, were raised simultaneously. Wages and salaries were increased, but to a lesser extent.

In this land of plenty, there was rationing during the war and it continued after 1945. Step by step rationing was abolished and the free market system restored by 1949. But in 1950 housewives were vexed by the lack of goods on the market. Prices went up. Hoarders were convicted and black marketing flourished. When the government introduced rationing again in January, 1951, it came as a relief. At least the housewife could count on receiving rationed quantities at reasonable prices. The press said rationing was a deadly blow to speculators. The strange thing is that the same comment is made now, when rationing is lifted.

Everything seemed all right for the new austerity until last summer, when a new phenomenon surprised both housewives and economists.

Peasants, grocers and agricultural cooperatives were permitted to sell some of the rationed foodstuffs openly on the legal black—or free-market at exorbitant prices, such as 30 forints (about $2.50 at the Hungarian official exchange rate) per kilo (two pounds) of butter. Only a limited number of persons could afford to buy. Nonetheless, many manual workers and others in the low-pay class patronized the free market. The government then raised the argument that if people could afford to pay those prices in the free market, they could do so in state-owned food shops.

Iranian Reds Will Rebuild Headquarters

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 14 (AP)—Communists emerged again today, 10,000 strong, with announced plans to rebuild the Red "peace" headquarters that was wrecked and burned in riots last week.

Their emergence caused some surprise because Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's nationalist followers have had the streets to themselves for demonstrations since their bloody five-hour clash with the Reds Dec. 6.

The Communist Tudeh Party is outlawed, but it is expected to be an undercover factor in the national elections scheduled to start next Tuesday in the northern provinces adjoining Russian territory.

Salary Board OKs $40 Bonus Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — The Salary Stabilization Board ruled today that employers under its control may give their employes Christmas or year-end bonuses up to $40 this year even though they had not done so in prior years.

The bonus may be either "in cash or in kind."

Generally speaking, the board has jurisdiction over the pay of administrative, executive and professional workers and outside salesmen. The Wage Stabilization Board issued a similar bonus ruling last month.

Larson Office

the present phase of its sensation-packed tax investigation tonight, and adjourned subject to the call of its chairman. The next business on its agenda is an inquiry into the internal revenue office at San Francisco, starting in January.

Late today, it ended its questioning of Charles Oliphant, resigned general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau. Oliphant sat white-faced as Chairman King (D-Calif) roundly scored government officials who accept "lavish entertainment."

Oliphant had just finished testifying that he once rode from Washington to Philadelphia for a football game in a private railroad car and met a "Mr. McBride" whose son "was alleged to own Continental (racing) Press." He said he didn't know whether the car was McBride's.

Before he left the witness chair, Oliphant disclosed that Henry W. Grunewald, Washington man of mystery, once told him he was helping Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) on a tax case said to involve "at least six figures."

The case was against H. H. Klein of Baltimore, Oliphant said, and involved a jeopardy tax assessment.

Mother's Grueling Trip To See Son Finally Completed

MOUNT GILEAD, O., Dec. 14 (AP) —Mrs. Mary Anderson—a mother who wanted to spend Christmas with her son — braved a 425-mile bus trip, five days in police custody and five days without a drug that keeps her alive.

But, she made it.

So, she sat in the Cleveland bus station, a forlorn figure — without money, without insulin which she takes daily and too frightened to tell police about her condition.

For five days, police cared for the woman in city jail. They tried to reach the son through Sheriff George E. Mosier of Morrow County. The son, prevented from making the trip to Cleveland by car trouble, wired money to his mother.

Still without insulin, Mrs. Anderson quietly climbed aboard another bus. She reached Mount Gilead last night.

Briton, Stenog Shot By Czechs

VIENNA, Dec. 14 (AP) — Prague radio said tonight that Czechoslovak secret police wounded and then arrested a British embassy officer and a woman stenographer as they allegedly were engaged in espionage activities in a forbidden area outside Prague.

The broadcast heard here said Robert Neil Gardner, second secretary in the British embassy, and Miss Daphne Gregory Maine, an embassy stenographer, were shot by the police as they attempted to escape arrest. They were taken to police headquarters, the radio said.

It added the Czechoslovakia has dispatched a note of protest to the British embassy, demanding the immediate recall of the two.

(A British Foreign Office spokesman in London said no official word of the incident had yet been received there.)

McKeldin Might Run As Taft's Teammate

GAMBRILLS, Md., Dec. 14 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin said last night that he would run as the Republican vice-presidential candidate on Sen. Robert A. Taft's (R-Ohio) ticket next year, "if I have the opportunity."

He made the statement to a group of friends and newsmen after delivering a speech at the annual banquet of the Anne Arundel County Farm Bureau.

Tallulah Authorized Ex-Maid To Raise Her Checks, Lawyer Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — Tallulah Bankhead's former personal maid admitted today she raised the actress' checks—but said her mistress authorized it.

The admission came through Fred G. Moritt, defense attorney for 59-year-old Mrs. Evyleen R. Cronin, on trial on 32 counts of forgery and grand larceny.

The white-haired Mrs. Cronin, a former vaudeville hoofer, lost her job when the check-hiking case broke last year.

Morrit asked the court to instruct the jury that check raising is forgery "unless it is done under the authority of the person who issued the checks."

Judge Harold L. Stevens refused, however.

The defense attorney gave no clue as to why a person would want his own checks raised, rather than writing them out originally for a greater amount.

King George Celebrates; Knights Two Doctors

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP) — King George VI celebrated his 56th birthday at a royal family luncheon today, then knighted two of the doctors who operated on his ailing lung Sept. 23.

At Buckington Palace the King personally invested C. Price Thomas and Geoffrey Marshall with the Insignia of Knights Commander of the Victorian Order.

Thomas is the surgeon who cut away all or part of the lung and Marshall is an expert on respiratory diseases.

Two Egyptians Slain By British

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 14 (AP) — A British patrol killed two Egyptians and wounded another Thursday night when they were caught cutting cables near Port Said, a British military spokesman said tonight.

On the other side, two Egyptian employes of the British embassy were reported held on charges "of inciting Suez Canal zone workers to return to the zone" in defiance of a boycott movement by Egyptian nationalists.

The British spokesman said the two were beaten by a crowd which accused them of being "spies and traitors," and then were dragged to a nearby police station.

The Egyptians have reported 118 of their people killed and 438 wounded in clashes since Egypt denounced her treaties with Britain in mid-October. The British list 22 British soldiers killed.

The Attorney General

Attorney General McGrath has defended "outside activities" of Justice Department personnel by saying that pay scales are so low that attorneys are forced to practice on the side or take "menial jobs" to meet living expenses. "I can't staff the department with lawyers that are competent to handle the business of the government on the present pay scales," McGrath told the King subcommittee investigating tax frauds.

The Attorney General testified that he had not recommended to the President that Assistant Attorney General Caudle be asked to resign. He knew of no complaints against Caudle until President Truman on November 16 ordered him at once to obtain Caudle's resignation for "outside activities."

McGrath himself briefly maintained "outside activities" after his appointment to the cabinet. As governor of Rhode Island and later U. S. senator, he had been a trustee of the Rhode Island Charities Trust, a tax-exempt foundation that played an important part in building the Textron Corporation in about five years from a $6 million-a-year to a $125-million-a-year business. His compensation from the trust was $15,000 a year.

McGrath was sworn in as attorney general on August 24, 1949, and resigned on that day as chairman of the Democratic National Committee. On September 2 Governor Pastore of Rhode Island announced that he had received McGrath's resignation as a trustee of the charities trust. The post was one of two that McGrath had said he would give up as incompatible with his new office. The other was the presidency of a bank in Rhode Island.

The office of attorney general has become increasingly important in recent decades. In a trifle more than half a century, six attorneys general have been named to the Supreme Court. McKenna was elevated to the Court in 1897, McReynolds in 1914, Stone in 1925, Murphy in 1940, Jackson in 1941, Clark in 1949. Three of the six attorneys general who have served under Democratic Presidents since 1933 have been promoted to the highest court.

The only rejection of a cabinet nomination by the Senate in the past 80 years came in 1925 when Calvin Coolidge wanted Charles B. Warren as his attorney general. The Senate twice voted down Warren's nomination (he had been connected with sugar corporations charged with violating the anti-trust laws) though several of the senators who voted "nay" said they would support him to head any department other than Justice.

In early years the attorneys general were expected to give only part-time attention to their government duties. Practicing law on the side, they provided their own working quarters when in Washington.

Congress in 1819 voted to pay the salary of a clerk for the attorney general, and in 1822 the attorney general and his one clerk were first given government quarters—a single room in the War Department building. For 65 years the attorneys general received smaller salaries than their cabinet colleagues.

Another Spain?

Dispatches bear out the assertion of General Vandenberg, after his inspection trip there, that the Chinese Communist air force is offering serious challenge to U. S. control of the air in Northwestern Korea. The growing number of MIGs and the recent show of strength with Russian-built twin-engined bombers point to an intensified aerial warfare that could become critical for U. S. fortunes in Korea.

Latest statistics on relative losses, when broken down and subjected to close examination, show that U. S. plane losses are not far behind those claimed to have been imposed on the Red air forces. Lieut. Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of the Far East Air Forces, does not conceal his concern.

If the Communists push their aerial warfare much farther and F-86 Saber jet reinforcements from the United States are not available, the Reds could weaken the U. S. interdiction campaign and build up jet airstrips in Eastern Korea. At present the F-86 is the one plane that can pursue or fight a MIG

General Vandenberg is aware of the Red air threat in Korea, a threat which General Douglas MacArthur clearly saw and which he wanted to combat by bombing Red air bases in Manchuria. But the desired aircraft which, in addition to F-86 jets, include support aircraft and high altitude fighters, are not rolling off production lines fast enough to meet the needs of the Korean War and European defense. The placid assumption that this country has unquestioned control of the air is being given rough handling in Korea.

But there is an even larger phase to the ominous Red air force performances in the Far East. It cannot be forgotten that the German Luftwaffe used the civil war in Spain as a convenient testing ground for planes, pilots and techniques that were afterward put to lethal use in the conquest of France and the bombing of Britain.

It is possible that the Soviet Union, furnishing MIGs to the Chinese Communists, is using the war in Korea for a similar purpose? Is this stepped-up Red aerial warfare a training and testing exercise for larger operations elsewhere? Is Korea another Spain?

These are possibilities which American strategic intelligence experts, on the highest level, are without doubt contemplating. There is a clearer concept in Washington of the strategic value of air power. The idea of "balanced forces," under which each of three Defense Department services would receive almost equal appropriations, is being abandoned.

Red air exploits in Korea prove that the U. S. needs more air power, more intensive research, more effective design. Performance of Red pilots is improving, but the superior competence of U. S. air personnel has not thus far been subjected to successful challenge.

Europe Lacks Interest

The Korean War continues with little hope for peace in the near future, except on terms which would entail turning all of Korea over to the Reds. While there are no actual hostilities in Western Europe, with Russian skirmishing in that sector devoted largely to taking American prisoners, preparation for defense against a possible Russian move is making little progress.

At a recent meeting of the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Rome the plan for the defense of Western Europe was again approved, but putting it into effect seems to depend largely on American troops, American air power and American money.

When members of Congress who have been in Europe report what they have seen and heard when Congress reconvenes that body may be a bit hard to sell on increased appropriations in behalf of nations which are dragging their feet. It is one thing to go to the aid of a willing nation, but something else to help people unwilling to help themselves.

How To Keep Well

Dizziness From Meniere's Syndrome

Meniere's syndrome is an ear disturbance in which dizziness, deafness, and head noises prevail. It is more annoying than serious yet often produces incapacity, particularly when vertigo is pronounced. We are coming closer to the solution of this problem and physicians assert that care is available.

The disorder has a tendency to come and go and in this respect differs from ear inflammations, such as labryinthitis, which have their day and then vanish. When dizziness strikes, the individual weaves from side to side and is unable to walk in a straight line. If the sensation is severe the only way to obtain relief is to stay in bed and remain as quiet as a mouse as even a change in position will bring on vertigo. To complicate matters "wooziness" is accompanied by nausea and vomiting while ringing sounds plague the deafened ears.

Dozens of treatments have been advocated, varying from sedatives to surgery. Time itself also is a good healer as the malady often disappears spontaneously. The more popular remedies include dramamine, restriction of fluids, and a low salt diet supplemented with tablets containing ammonium chloride. Histamine desensitization and niacin also have been used and the latter brings to mind a recent report by Dr. Miles Atkinson on this remedy. He believes, as many other physicians do, that Meniere's syndrome is associated with a disturbance in circulation. In pursuing this theory he found that the blood vessels were dilated in some victims and constricted in others. When attempting to find a suitable remedy, he discovered that niacin was helpful because it improved the circulation.

However, because niacin is a vitamin, he wondered whether Meniere's might not be related to a vitamin deficiency. Examination of the mouth, eyes, tongue, and skin of his patients showed that several exhibited signs of severe and sometimes profound changes usually associated with chronic vitamin deficiencies. These manifestations included cracking of the lips, redness and soreness of the tongue, diarrhea, skin spots, fatigue, palpitation, and nervousness. At any rate he was able to relieve dizziness in virtually every instance by administering large doses of vitamins. Niacin was employed either hypodermically into a vein or in capsules, or as tablets by mouth, when the blood vessels had to be dilated. A close relative of niacin—nicotinamide—was used when vasodilation was not deemed necessary. These individuals also received histamine injections in an effort to desensitize against the chemical.

All these remedies have been used for several years but the results have not been as startling as those reported by Atkinson. Some of the differences probably are due to errors in diagnosis. Several conditions mimic Meniere's syndrome because they also lead to dizziness and faintness. Epilepsy is one, as well as cerebral arteriosclerosis (softening of the brain). Nausea and vomiting coexist and Meniere's often is mistanen for a host of abdominal disorders. Heart attacks and high blood pressure are easily confused because of the accompanying dizziness.

BUTTERMILK

Mrs. T. P. writes: Is buttermilk just as nourishing to a pregnant woman as regular milk?

REPLY

Buttermilk is lower in calories and lacks the fat of whole milk but in general contains most of the proteins, carbohydrates, minerals, and vitamins (except A).

MEASURING METABOLISM

D. R. writes: Is there any other way except through a metabolism test to check on the activity of the thyroid gland?

REPLY

A study of the cholesterol level of the blood will give a clew and there are several older tests for metabolism other than the breathing test. These procedures were used in laboratories years ago and doubt if they are available for general use. My curiosity is aroused. Why can't you take the regular breathing test?

ARIDITY

L. M. writes: Could lack of moisture in the home cause a dry tongue?

REPLY

No, but it might be a contributing factor. Mouth breathing is one of the most common cause. In others, nervousness plays a role via the sympathetic nervous system. I assume you are not taking a medicine like atropine.

DAMPNESS AND T. B.

B. W. writes: Can a cured tuberculosis case remain healthy living near the shore where it is damp?

REPLY

Yes, because weather is not the chief consideration in tuberculosis. Rest, proper food, and the avoidance of strain and excesses are more important. At the risk of disappointing you, I might add that tuberculosis is arrested but never cured. The disease can be held in abeyance so long as a state of resistance is maintained.

Truman Got Favorable Report On Korean Truce At Joint Chiefs Meeting; U. S. Troops Could Stay In Korea Till "Hell Freezes Over"

WASHINGTON — Most of the world was intrigued over President Truman's much-publicized meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff following his return from Key West. However, it turned out to be pretty much routine after all. Highlight of the meeting was an optimistic assurance from Gen. Omar Bradley that a cease-fire could be worked out in Korea.

The nation's highest diplomatic and military chiefs were waiting in the cabinet room when President Truman strode in. He was grinning broadly. Shaking hands with everyone around the conference table, he reported that it was "good to be back," and asked how they liked his sun tan.

After that, he let the Joint Chiefs of Staff do most of the talking, and here is a brief, chronological account of what happened at the meeting which caused so much world-wide speculation.

The President sat back, listened intently and called for everyone's views. Occasionally, he bounced his fingers together reflectively, in a quick, impulsive gesture, and made such comments as: "That's a tough one."

General Bradley led off with a summary of the Korean situation. He reported that the Communists seemed to be ready to come to terms, that a cease-fire agreement could be worked out if both sides made concessions.

However, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air chief of staff, opposed making any major concessions. He was particularly adamant against allowing the Communists the right to build airfields during the cease-fire.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the Army chief of staff, vigorously opposed giving in to the Communists on troop rotation. The Chinese have proposed a freeze on all troops entering Korea, thus blocking replacements for combat veterans who have been promised the chance to go home on rotation. This would be a "blow to morale," Collins warned.

Silent Admiral

However, General Collins readily agreed that "minor concessions" on otherpoints should be made in order to win concessions from the Communists.

President Truman commented that no concessions should be granted that we "would later regret."

Least talkative of the Joint Chiefs was Admiral Fechteler, who made a short, half-minute speech in which he assured the President that the Navy is prepared to carry out "any mission any time any place."

For the Army's part, General Collins assured the President that the Army couldn't be blasted out of Korea, but could hold on "until hell freezes over."

Another concession discussed was that of giving in to the Communists on inspection teams behind the lines. We have been holding out for inspection by joint UN-Communist teams, but the Reds have been arguing for inspection by "neutral nations."

By neutral nations, the Communist negotiators said they meant Poland and Czechoslovakia. Later, however, they agreed that they would also consider Denmark, Sweden and Switzerland as "neutral nations." These three would be acceptable to us, and General Bradley proposed giving ground on this point. This has now been done.

The chief theme of the meeting was that a cease-fire agreement may be close at hand. All signs point to a settlement within the next 20 days. Some details will be left to iron out after the December 27 deadline.

Another matter that was discussed at the White House was the question of withdrawing UN troops from Korea altogether—after the armistice. However, the facts regarding this should not be made public now.

Brass Hat Christmas

Because the captain of the Navy amphibious landing craft USS New Kent lives not far from Baltimore, its crew will have to spend Christmas at Baltimore, despite the fact that many of their families live at the ship's home base—Norfolk.

Ordinarily Naval vessels tie up at their home base for Christmas. And because Norfolk has been the home base for the New Kent, many wives of the men and officers had moved to that city. However, Capt. Ronald Woodaman lives at Glencoe, Md., a suburb of Baltimore, so he is taking the ship to Baltimore for the holidays.

This means that half the officers and 68 of the enlisted men will have to travel back to Norfolk to spend Christmas with their families.

If I Were President

Harry Truman constantly complains to friends: "I can't get good men to come into the government."

What he doesn't realize is that few men want to risk scandal contamination by serving with mediocrities; though many would come in if the President cleaned house, began with a new slate.

There isn't a chance in the world that he'll appoint them, but here is a rollcall of a clean-up cabinet which some of Truman's friends prepared the other night while playing the game of "If I Were President":

FOR SPECIAL PROSECUTOR—Wily, dramatic ex-Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, once one of the Senate's greatest prosecutors.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FOR THE TAX DIVISION—Adrian De Wind, able chief counsel of the King Committee.

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN—Gen. Telford Taylor, the small-business administrator; or Joseph Borkin, the ex-Justice Department trustbuster. Both are intimately familiar with the giant Nazi business enterprises now being administered by the Custodian.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY—Randolph Paul, the brilliant former chief counsel of the Treasury.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE — Maury Maverick or Leon Henderson, both two-fisted crusaders with years of Washington know-how.

CHIEF COUNSEL OF THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE—Bruno Schachner, assistant counsel of the King Committee.

To create further confidence in the White House, Mr. Truman might substitute Paul Porter for Secretary Matt Connelly, who has no love for the graft probes.

Ike's Official Title

By MARK SULLIVAN

The official title of General Dwight D. Eisenhower is a military title, Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces in Europe. But his function is much broader than his title. In effect he is head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. As such he and NATO have an over-all objective, it is untiy of five (or possibly six) countries of Western Europe. The project contemplates military unity, an integrated army under a single command. It contemplates economic unity, the wiping out of tariff barriers and of separate currencies. It contemplates some degree of political unity, some form of over-all parliament; a kind of super-government.

To bring about this triple unity is the function to which General Eisenhower devotes himself, he has said that he gives as much time to governmental and economic matters as to military. In all three fields he encounters formidable difficulties. In effect he is asking countries to surrender parts of their sovereignties. Naturally there is reluctance on the part of leaders and peoples in the respective countries, sometimes stiff unwillingness. The project of a United States of Europe is still tentative.

Judgment of observers about General Eisenhower's conduct of his task is strongly favorable. This has been expressed in two sentences that are parallel. One is that General Eisenhower handles the job extremely well. The other, probably justified considering all the circumstances, is that no one else could do the job as well.

Relation To Politics

This brings up the relation of General Eisenhower to American politics, specifically to the Republican Presidential nomination for which he is put forward by a formidable movement led by important Republican leaders. While this movement goes on and grows it is practically certain that the project of unifying Western European countries cannot possibly be completed by the time the Republican national convention meets next June. Out of this condition arises a tangled mess of questions and speculations. Many of these come down to one question, is General Eisenhower willing to be a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination?

In the train of that question come corollary ones. Is it practicable for General Eisenhower, while head of so important a project as the unifying of Western European countries, to be simultaneously a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination? If he should resign from NATO, what would be the effect on the prospect of success for the project of unifying the countries of Western Europe?

Practicable Question

Conceivably General Eisenhower could continue as NATO head and remain silent about the Presidential nomination. The manager of the movement for nominating him, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge jr., says that General Eisenhower could continue as NATO head, and predicts that if he does the Republican national convention would nominate him. But if the Republicans should do this the question would arise in a new form, having to do with the election, as distinguished from the nomination. Would it be practicable for General Eisenhower to remain NATO head and simultaneously be the Republican candidate for the Presidency? That question may seem fantastic but it illustrates the complexities inherent in General Eisenhower's headship of NATO as related to actual or potential candidacy for the Presidency.

The project of unifying countries of Western Europe, so far as that can be looked upon as a thing apart, should not affect the standing of General Eisenhower with either Republican or Democratic voters. During decades past a union of European countries has been proposed from time to time as an ideal toward which the common attitude of Americans has been wish for success. In a traditional attitude of the American mind we thought of federation of European countries as similar to our own federal union of states, and we wished for spread of federation throughout the world much as we wished for spread of democratic government. That traditional attitude of blessing toward union of European countries is now strengthened by the fact that the projected union would be a buttress of defense for Western Europe and us against aggression by Russian Communism.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Nimitz Commission

Among President Truman's plans that failed is the Nimitz Commission, which was to have had supervision over the entire question of loyalty, or rather, disloyalty.

Because of Admiral Nimitz's deserved reputation, much confusion concerning this commission exists, the assumption generally being that the Admiral's loyalty or that of other members of the commission was brought into question. Actually, that was never so.

The issue at stake was the "conflict-of-interest" statutes as they applied to the members of the Nimitz Commission. If they were only advisers to the President, this principle would not apply; if they were to be officers of the United States, it did apply. The President may appoint any advisers he desires, but such advisers have limited authority. The President may accept or reject their advice. However, what the President desired was that members of this commission should be officers of the United States and yet be made exempt from the "conflict-of-interest" statutes. In a word, they should be given authority without responsibility.

In fact, if the Nimitz Commission were given such an exemption by act of Congress, the commission would have come into possession of authority which Congress never intended it should have. The President really wanted one kind of legislation to accomplish altogether another kind of purpose. In this he was defeated.

The President of the United States has, in our history, appointed many commissions and groups, advisory to the President. This is a satisfactory procedure for getting the best citizens, efficient and capable men and women, to serve for specific purposes without requiring them to give up their own businesses or affairs. The Nimitz Commission was the first instance of any President requesting legislation to exempt members of such commissions from "conflict-of-interest" statutes.

Senator Pat McCarran wrote President Truman to explain the law:

"The statutes which this bill would suspend have been a part of the criminal law for many years. Congress, in revising and codifying the criminal law, has had ample opportunity to delete these statutes from the law, but it has never done so. Members of the commission who appeared before the committee and the subcommittee acknowledged that these statutes constitute a necessary and desirable safeguard, and I think there can be no question on that score. I have heard no one state that these statutes ought to be removed from the body of the law. Yet the effect of repeated legislative exemptions of persons from the operation of the law serves only as a piecemeal destruction of the statutes. Continued erosion of a worthwhile statute by successive exemptions does not of itself justify other and further exemptions. . ."

Here is not a criticism of Admiral Nimitz but another conflict between the President and the Congress over authority. More and more, it would appear that the President and his advisers favor the parliamentary form of government in vogue in Great Britain.

Under that system, there is no written constitution and the will of parliament is paramount. The prime minister, actual head of the British government, is the leader of his party in the House of Commons. He does not run for the position of prime minister; he runs as a member of the House of Commons, the same as any other member.

Our form of government is very different. We have a written constitution with a vast body of decisions of the United States Supreme Court interpreting acts of Congress, as to their suitability, by the yardstick of the Constitution. Neither the Congress nor the President is a free agent. Enormous limitations have been placed upon them by the Constitution.

These limitations apparently Mr. Truman finds irksome. During his administration all sorts of devices have been used to evade Constitutional limitations upon the executive. One of those devices placed an American army in a war in Korea without the consent of Congress. That device called the Korean War a "police action," and gave the United Nations a control over American policy to which the Congress never agreed. It was never asked.

Of course, if the people of the United States want a parliamentary government, or a Fascist government, or a Communist government, they can pass a Constitutional amendment making the necessary changes. That was done with the Income Tax Amendment (the 16th), which turned this country toward socialism. But if the people do not amend or abolish our written constitution, it is up to public officials to abide by it, as they were sworn to do.

That was the issue involved in the failure of the Nimitz Commission.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman had an opportunity to strike while the iron was hot—to reflect the indignation of the country over the tax scandals. But he chose instead to adopt at his press conference a defensive mood — the same attitude which he has exhibited often in the past toward charges of wrongdoing leveled at his appointees.

The President has promised a new "clean-up" plan. Until he was ready to announce it, he would have been better advised not to argue the merits of the criticism that has been directed at various persons in his administration. The hint he has given that he will set up a special agency to ferret out corruption in the government and that it will be an agency of the executive branch of the government reporting to him will inevitably arouse suspicion that Mr. Truman wants to control such an investigating and prosecuting process.

But in all probability what is bothering Mr. Truman is the difficulty of punishing wrongdoing when there have been indiscretions and improprieties that are not actual violations of law.

It isn't a violation of law for an official of the government to have as his friends persons of questionable character.

It isn't a violation of law to mingle socially with persons who ask favors from the government. In fact, it isn't unlawful to let persons of influence come to government offices and give them time to discuss tax cases or anything else.

Neglect Of Duty

But it is, of course, improper, and, where there is a question of failure to prosecute where wrongdoing or tax frauds have been involved, neglect of duty is plain. Inefficiency and stupidity, however, and even failure to do a duty are not in themselves a violation of law that can be proved in a court and conviction obtained. These cases call for removal or dismissal, but they do not necessarily permit prosecution.

So when Mr. Truman talks of setting up a special agency with a board or commission of prominent men, he is thinking no doubt not only of some way to bring about prosecutions where there has been wrongdoing but of a way to ferret out the much larger group of persons who have been engaged in unethical, though lawful conduct.

Such an inquiry, if applied to the whole government, would take months, if not years, to get going. What is important to the Democratic administration is that something be done to offset the bad impression being created daily by the headlines and dispatches reporting the testimony before the congressional investigating committees.

Set Up Commissions

When Congress, through the House Un-American Activities Committee, exposed Communism inside the government, Mr. Truman set up a Loyalty Review Board and Departmental Loyalty Boards in response to a congressional mandate. He has hinted that he has something of the same kind of machinery in mind with respect to recent scandals.

But the Congress will have something to say about all this if the proposal is not satisfactory to public opinion. It would not seem plausible for the President to appoint a commission with power to investigate the White House itself, for instance, nor does it seem likely that such a commission would want the job of examining all the activities of officials with access to the White House and how they have performed their duties.

So, all in all, the proposed commission will probably have a limited task. The President evidently has determined to fight it out as if it were just another political battle and to point to the proposed board or committee or commission as an answer to those who feel that the administration should do something to clean house.

Mr. Truman is ready to prosecute anyone who has been guilty of law violation and he is ready to fire anyone proved to be engaging in activities outside the government that are of a compromising nature. But he isn't ready to fire political associates just because of the innuendoes contained in congressional testimony. Whether he can get away with such an attitude politically, and whether he has taken the very course that will insure headlines harmful to his party all through the campaign months of 1952, remains to be seen. But that's the risk Mr. Truman has assumed.

The Attorney General

Attorney General McGrath has defended "outside activities" of Justice Department personnel by saying that pay scales are so low that attorneys are forced to practice on the side or take "menial jobs" to meet living expenses. "I can't staff the department with lawyers that are competent to handle the business of the government on the present pay scales," McGrath told the King subcommittee investigating tax frauds.

The Attorney General testified that he had not recommended to the President that Assistant Attorney General Caudle be asked to resign. He knew of no complaints against Caudle until President Truman on November 16 ordered him at once to obtain Caudle's resignation for "outside activities."

McGrath himself briefly maintained "outside activities" after his appointment to the cabinet. As governor of Rhode Island and later U. S. senator, he had been a trustee of the Rhode Island Charities Trust, a tax-exempt foundation that played an important part in building the Textron Corporation in about five years from a $6 million-a-year to a $125-million-a-year business. His compensation from the trust was $15,000 a year.

McGrath was sworn in as attorney general on August 24, 1949, and resigned on that day as chairman of the Democratic National Committee. On September 2 Governor Pastore of Rhode Island announced that he had received McGrath's resignation as a trustee of the charities trust. The placid assumption that this country has unquestioned control of the air is being given rough handling in Korea.

But there is an even larger phase to the ominous Red air force performances in the Far East. It cannot be forgotten that the German Luftwaffe used the civil war in Spain as a convenient testing ground for planes, pilots and techniques that were afterward put to lethal use in the conquest of France and the bombing of Britain.

It is possible that the Soviet Union, furnishing MIGs to the Chinese Communists, is using the war in Korea for a similar purpose? Is this stepped-up Red aerial warfare a training and testing exercise for larger operations elsewhere? Is Korea another Spain?

These are possibilities which American strategic intelligence experts, on the highest level, are without doubt contemplating. There is a clearer concept in Washington of the strategic value of air power. The idea of "balanced forces," under which each of three Defense Department services would receive almost equal appropriations, is being abandoned.

Red air exploits in Korea prove that the U. S. needs more air power, more intensive research, more effective design. Performance of Red pilots is improving, but the superior competence of U. S. air personnel has not thus far been subjected to successful challenge.

Europe Lacks Interest

The Korean War continues with little hope for peace in the near future, except on terms which would entail turning all of Korea over to the Reds. While there are no actual hostilities in Western Europe, with Russian skirmishing in that sector devoted largely to taking American prisoners, preparation for defense against a possible Russian move is making little progress.

At a recent meeting of the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Rome the plan for the defense of Western Europe was again approved, but putting it into effect seems to depend largely on American troops, American air power and American money.

When members of Congress who have been in Europe report what they have seen and heard when Congress reconvenes that body may be a bit hard to sell on increased appropriations in behalf of nations which are dragging their feet. It is one thing to go to the aid of a willing nation, but something else to help people unwilling to help themselves.

Dizziness From Meniere's Syndrome

Meniere's syndrome is an ear disturbance in which dizziness, deafness, and head noises prevail. It is more annoying than serious yet often produces incapacity, particularly when vertigo is pronounced. We are coming closer to the solution of this problem and physicians assert that care is available.

The disorder has a tendency to come and go and in this respect differs from ear inflammations, such as labryinthitis, which have their day and then vanish. When dizziness strikes, the individual weaves from side to side and is unable to walk in a straight line. If the sensation is severe the only way to obtain relief is to stay in bed and remain as quiet as a mouse as even a change in position will bring on vertigo. To complicate matters "wooziness" is accompanied by nausea and vomiting while ringing sounds plague the deafened ears.

Dozens of treatments have been advocated, varying from sedatives to surgery. Time itself also is a good healer as the malady often disappears spontaneously. The more popular remedies include dramamine, restriction of fluids, and a low salt diet supplemented with tablets containing ammonium chloride. Histamine desensitization and niacin also have been used and the latter brings to mind a recent report by Dr. Miles Atkinson on this remedy. He believes, as many other physicians do, that Meniere's syndrome is associated with a disturbance in circulation. In pursuing this theory he found that the blood vessels were dilated in some victims and constricted in others. When attempting to find a suitable remedy, he discovered that niacin was helpful because it improved the circulation.

However, because niacin is a vitamin, he wondered whether Meniere's might not be related to a vitamin deficiency. Examination of the mouth, eyes, tongue, and skin of his patients showed that several exhibited signs of severe and sometimes profound changes usually associated with chronic vitamin deficiencies. These manifestations included cracking of the lips, redness and soreness of the tongue, diarrhea, skin spots, fatigue, palpitation, and nervousness. At any rate he was able to relieve dizziness in virtually every instance by administering large doses of vitamins. Niacin was employed either hypodermically into a vein or in capsules, or as tablets by mouth, when the blood vessels had to be dilated. A close relative of niacin—nicotinamide—was used when vasodilation was not deemed necessary. These individuals also received histamine injections in an effort to desensitize against the chemical.

All these remedies have been used for several years but the results have not been as startling as those reported by Atkinson. Some of the differences probably are due to errors in diagnosis. Several conditions mimic Meniere's syndrome because they also lead to dizziness and faintness. Epilepsy is one, as well as cerebral arteriosclerosis (softening of the brain). Nausea and vomiting coexist and Meniere's often is mistanen for a host of abdominal disorders. Heart attacks and high blood pressure are easily confused because of the accompanying dizziness.

BUTTERMILK

Mrs. T. P. writes: Is buttermilk just as nourishing to a pregnant woman as regular milk?

REPLY

Buttermilk is lower in calories and lacks the fat of whole milk but in general contains most of the proteins, carbohydrates, minerals, and vitamins (except A).

MEASURING METABOLISM

D. R. writes: Is there any other way except through a metabolism test to check on the activity of the thyroid gland?

REPLY

A study of the cholesterol level of the blood will give a clew and there are several older tests for metabolism other than the breathing test. These procedures were used in laboratories years ago and doubt if they are available for general use. My curiosity is aroused. Why can't you take the regular breathing test?

ARIDITY

L. M. writes: Could lack of moisture in the home cause a dry tongue?

REPLY

No, but it might be a contributing factor. Mouth breathing is one of the most common cause. In others, nervousness plays a role via the sympathetic nervous system. I assume you are not taking a medicine like atropine.

DAMPNESS AND T. B.

B. W. writes: Can a cured tuberculosis case remain healthy living near the shore where it is damp?

REPLY

Yes, because weather is not the chief consideration in tuberculosis. Rest, proper food, and the avoidance of strain and excesses are more important. At the risk of disappointing you, I might add that tuberculosis is arrested but never cured. The disease can be held in abeyance so long as a state of resistance is maintained.

Truman Got Favorable Report On Korean Truce At Joint Chiefs Meeting; U. S. Troops Could Stay In Korea Till "Hell Freezes Over"

WASHINGTON — Most of the world was intrigued over President Truman's much-publicized meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff following his return from Key West. However, it turned out to be pretty much routine after all. Highlight of the meeting was an optimistic assurance from Gen. Omar Bradley that a cease-fire could be worked out in Korea.

The nation's highest diplomatic and military chiefs were waiting in the cabinet room when President Truman strode in. He was grinning broadly. Shaking hands with everyone around the conference table, he reported that it was "good to be back," and asked how they liked his sun tan.

After that, he let the Joint Chiefs of Staff do most of the talking, and here is a brief, chronological account of what happened at the meeting which caused so much world-wide speculation.

The President sat back, listened intently and called for everyone's views. Occasionally, he bounced his fingers together reflectively, in a quick, impulsive gesture, and made such comments as: "That's a tough one."

General Bradley led off with a summary of the Korean situation. He reported that the Communists seemed to be ready to come to terms, that a cease-fire agreement could be worked out if both sides made concessions.

However, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air chief of staff, opposed making any major concessions. He was particularly adamant against allowing the Communists the right to build airfields during the cease-fire.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the Army chief of staff, vigorously opposed giving in to the Communists on troop rotation. The Chinese have proposed a freeze on all troops entering Korea, thus blocking replacements for combat veterans who have been promised the chance to go home on rotation. This would be a "blow to morale," Collins warned.

Silent Admiral

However, General Collins readily agreed that "minor concessions" on otherpoints should be made in order to win concessions from the Communists.

President Truman commented that no concessions should be granted that we "would later regret."

Least talkative of the Joint Chiefs was Admiral Fechteler, who made a short, half-minute speech in which he assured the President that the Navy is prepared to carry out "any mission any time any place."

For the Army's part, General Collins assured the President that the Army couldn't be blasted out of Korea, but could hold on "until hell freezes over."

Another concession discussed was that of giving in to the Communists on inspection teams behind the lines. We have been holding out for inspection by joint UN-Communist teams, but the Reds have been arguing for inspection by "neutral nations."

By neutral nations, the Communist negotiators said they meant Poland and Czechoslovakia. Later, however, they agreed that they would also consider Denmark, Sweden and Switzerland as "neutral nations." These three would be acceptable to us, and General Bradley proposed giving ground on this point. This has now been done.

The chief theme of the meeting was that a cease-fire agreement may be close at hand. All signs point to a settlement within the next 20 days. Some details will be left to iron out after the December 27 deadline.

Another matter that was discussed at the White House was the question of withdrawing UN troops from Korea altogether—after the armistice. However, the facts regarding this should not be made public now.

Brass Hat Christmas

Because the captain of the Navy amphibious landing craft USS New Kent lives not far from Baltimore, its crew will have to spend Christmas at Baltimore, despite the fact that many of their families live at the ship's home base—Norfolk.

Ordinarily Naval vessels tie up at their home base for Christmas. And because Norfolk has been the home base for the New Kent, many wives of the men and officers had moved to that city. However, Capt. Ronald Woodaman lives at Glencoe, Md., a suburb of Baltimore, so he is taking the ship to Baltimore for the holidays.

This means that half the officers and 68 of the enlisted men will have to travel back to Norfolk to spend Christmas with their families.

If I Were President

Harry Truman constantly complains to friends: "I can't get good men to come into the government."

What he doesn't realize is that few men want to risk scandal contamination by serving with mediocrities; though many would come in if the President cleaned house, began with a new slate.

There isn't a chance in the world that he'll appoint them, but here is a rollcall of a clean-up cabinet which some of Truman's friends prepared the other night while playing the game of "If I Were President":

FOR SPECIAL PROSECUTOR—Wily, dramatic ex-Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, once one of the Senate's greatest prosecutors.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FOR THE TAX DIVISION—Adrian De Wind, able chief counsel of the King Committee.

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN—Gen. Telford Taylor, the small-business administrator; or Joseph Borkin, the ex-Justice Department trustbuster. Both are intimately familiar with the giant Nazi business enterprises now being administered by the Custodian.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY—Randolph Paul, the brilliant former chief counsel of the Treasury.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE — Maury Maverick or Leon Henderson, both two-fisted crusaders with years of Washington know-how.

CHIEF COUNSEL OF THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE—Bruno Schachner, assistant counsel of the King Committee.

To create further confidence in the White House, Mr. Truman might substitute Paul Porter for Secretary Matt Connelly, who has no love for the graft probes.

Ike's Official Title

By MARK SULLIVAN

The official title of General Dwight D. Eisenhower is a military title, Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces in Europe. But his function is much broader than his title. In effect he is head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. As such he and NATO have an over-all objective, it is untiy of five (or possibly six) countries of Western Europe. The project contemplates military unity, an integrated army under a single command. It contemplates economic unity, the wiping out of tariff barriers and of separate currencies. It contemplates some degree of political unity, some form of over-all parliament; a kind of super-government.

To bring about this triple unity is the function to which General Eisenhower devotes himself, he has said that he gives as much time to governmental and economic matters as to military. In all three fields he encounters formidable difficulties. In effect he is asking countries to surrender parts of their sovereignties. Naturally there is reluctance on the part of leaders and peoples in the respective countries, sometimes stiff unwillingness. The project of a United States of Europe is still tentative.

Judgment of observers about General Eisenhower's conduct of his task is strongly favorable. This has been expressed in two sentences that are parallel. One is that General Eisenhower handles the job extremely well. The other, probably justified considering all the circumstances, is that no one else could do the job as well.

Relation To Politics

This brings up the relation of General Eisenhower to American politics, specifically to the Republican Presidential nomination for which he is put forward by a formidable movement led by important Republican leaders. While this movement goes on and grows it is practically certain that the project of unifying Western European countries cannot possibly be completed by the time the Republican national convention meets next June. Out of this condition arises a tangled mess of questions and speculations. Many of these come down to one question, is General Eisenhower willing to be a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination?

In the train of that question come corollary ones. Is it practicable for General Eisenhower, while head of so important a project as the unifying of Western European countries, to be simultaneously a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination? If he should resign from NATO, what would be the effect on the prospect of success for the project of unifying the countries of Western Europe?

Practicable Question

Conceivably General Eisenhower could continue as NATO head and remain silent about the Presidential nomination. The manager of the movement for nominating him, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge jr., says that General Eisenhower could continue as NATO head, and predicts that if he does the Republican national convention would nominate him. But if the Republicans should do this the question would arise in a new form, having to do with the election, as distinguished from the nomination. Would it be practicable for General Eisenhower to remain NATO head and simultaneously be the Republican candidate for the Presidency? That question may seem fantastic but it illustrates the complexities inherent in General Eisenhower's headship of NATO as related to actual or potential candidacy for the Presidency.

The project of unifying countries of Western Europe, so far as that can be looked upon as a thing apart, should not affect the standing of General Eisenhower with either Republican or Democratic voters. During decades past a union of European countries has been proposed from time to time as an ideal toward which the common attitude of Americans has been wish for success. In a traditional attitude of the American mind we thought of federation of European countries as similar to our own federal union of states, and we wished for spread of federation throughout the world much as we wished for spread of democratic government. That traditional attitude of blessing toward union of European countries is now strengthened by the fact that the projected union would be a buttress of defense for Western Europe and us against aggression by Russian Communism.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Nimitz Commission

Among President Truman's plans that failed is the Nimitz Commission, which was to have had supervision over the entire question of loyalty, or rather, disloyalty.

Because of Admiral Nimitz's deserved reputation, much confusion concerning this commission exists, the assumption generally being that the Admiral's loyalty or that of other members of the commission was brought into question. Actually, that was never so.

The issue at stake was the "conflict-of-interest" statutes as they applied to the members of the Nimitz Commission. If they were only advisers to the President, this principle would not apply; if they were to be officers of the United States, it did apply. The President may appoint any advisers he desires, but such advisers have limited authority. The President may accept or reject their advice. However, what the President desired was that members of this commission should be officers of the United States and yet be made exempt from the "conflict-of-interest" statutes. In a word, they should be given authority without responsibility.

In fact, if the Nimitz Commission were given such an exemption by act of Congress, the commission would have come into possession of authority which Congress never intended it should have. The President really wanted one kind of legislation to accomplish altogether another kind of purpose. In this he was defeated.

The President of the United States has, in our history, appointed many commissions and groups, advisory to the President. This is a satisfactory procedure for getting the best citizens, efficient and capable men and women, to serve for specific purposes without requiring them to give up their own businesses or affairs. The Nimitz Commission was the first instance of any President requesting legislation to exempt members of such commissions from "conflict-of-interest" statutes.

Senator Pat McCarran wrote President Truman to explain the law:

"The statutes which this bill would suspend have been a part of the criminal law for many years. Congress, in revising and codifying the criminal law, has had ample opportunity to delete these statutes from the law, but it has never done so. Members of the commission who appeared before the committee and the subcommittee acknowledged that these statutes constitute a necessary and desirable safeguard, and I think there can be no question on that score. I have heard no one state that these statutes ought to be removed from the body of the law. Yet the effect of repeated legislative exemptions of persons from the operation of the law serves only as a piecemeal destruction of the statutes. Continued erosion of a worthwhile statute by successive exemptions does not of itself justify other and further exemptions. . ."

Here is not a criticism of Admiral Nimitz but another conflict between the President and the Congress over authority. More and more, it would appear that the President and his advisers favor the parliamentary form of government in vogue in Great Britain.

Under that system, there is no written constitution and the will of parliament is paramount. The prime minister, actual head of the British government, is the leader of his party in the House of Commons. He does not run for the position of prime minister; he runs as a member of the House of Commons, the same as any other member.

Our form of government is very different. We have a written constitution with a vast body of decisions of the United States Supreme Court interpreting acts of Congress, as to their suitability, by the yardstick of the Constitution. Neither the Congress nor the President is a free agent. Enormous limitations have been placed upon them by the Constitution.

These limitations apparently Mr. Truman finds irksome. During his administration all sorts of devices have been used to evade Constitutional limitations upon the executive. One of those devices placed an American army in a war in Korea without the consent of Congress. That device called the Korean War a "police action," and gave the United Nations a control over American policy to which the Congress never agreed. It was never asked.

Of course, if the people of the United States want a parliamentary government, or a Fascist government, or a Communist government, they can pass a Constitutional amendment making the necessary changes. That was done with the Income Tax Amendment (the 16th), which turned this country toward socialism. But if the people do not amend or abolish our written constitution, it is up to public officials to abide by it, as they were sworn to do.

That was the issue involved in the failure of the Nimitz Commission.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman had an opportunity to strike while the iron was hot—to reflect the indignation of the country over the tax scandals. But he chose instead to adopt at his press conference a defensive mood — the same attitude which he has exhibited often in the past toward charges of wrongdoing leveled at his appointees.

The President has promised a new "clean-up" plan. Until he was ready to announce it, he would have been better advised not to argue the merits of the criticism that has been directed at various persons in his administration. The hint he has given that he will set up a special agency to ferret out corruption in the government and that it will be an agency of the executive branch of the government reporting to him will inevitably arouse suspicion that Mr. Truman wants to control such an investigating and prosecuting process.

But in all probability what is bothering Mr. Truman is the difficulty of punishing wrongdoing when there have been indiscretions and improprieties that are not actual violations of law.

It isn't a violation of law for an official of the government to have as his friends persons of questionable character.

It isn't a violation of law to mingle socially with persons who ask favors from the government. In fact, it isn't unlawful to let persons of influence come to government offices and give them time to discuss tax cases or anything else.

Neglect Of Duty

But it is, of course, improper, and, where there is a question of failure to prosecute where wrongdoing or tax frauds have been involved, neglect of duty is plain. Inefficiency and stupidity, however, and even failure to do a duty are not in themselves a violation of law that can be proved in a court and conviction obtained. These cases call for removal or dismissal, but they do not necessarily permit prosecution.

So when Mr. Truman talks of setting up a special agency with a board or commission of prominent men, he is thinking no doubt not only of some way to bring about prosecutions where there has been wrongdoing but of a way to ferret out the much larger group of persons who have been engaged in unethical, though lawful conduct.

Such an inquiry, if applied to the whole government, would take months, if not years, to get going. What is important to the Democratic administration is that something be done to offset the bad impression being created daily by the headlines and dispatches reporting the testimony before the congressional investigating committees.

Set Up Commissions

When Congress, through the House Un-American Activities Committee, exposed Communism inside the government, Mr. Truman set up a Loyalty Review Board and Departmental Loyalty Boards in response to a congressional mandate. He has hinted that he has something of the same kind of machinery in mind with respect to recent scandals.

But the Congress will have something to say about all this if the proposal is not satisfactory to public opinion. It would not seem plausible for the President to appoint a commission with power to investigate the White House itself, for instance, nor does it seem likely that such a commission would want the job of examining all the activities of officials with access to the White House and how they have performed their duties.

So, all in all, the proposed commission will probably have a limited task. The President evidently has determined to fight it out as if it were just another political battle and to point to the proposed board or committee or commission as an answer to those who feel that the administration should do something to clean house.

Mr. Truman is ready to prosecute anyone who has been guilty of law violation and he is ready to fire anyone proved to be engaging in activities outside the government that are of a compromising nature. But he isn't ready to fire political associates just because of the innuendoes contained in congressional testimony. Whether he can get away with such an attitude politically, and whether he has taken the very course that will insure headlines harmful to his party all through the campaign months of 1952, remains to be seen. But that's the risk Mr. Truman has assumed.

The Attorney General

Attorney General McGrath has defended "outside activities" of Justice Department personnel by saying that pay scales are so low that attorneys are forced to practice on the side or take "menial jobs" to meet living expenses. "I can't staff the department with lawyers that are competent to handle the business of the government on the present pay scales," McGrath told the King subcommittee investigating tax frauds.

The Attorney General testified that he had not recommended to the President that Assistant Attorney General Caudle be asked to resign. He knew of no complaints against Caudle until President Truman on November 16 ordered him at once to obtain Caudle's resignation for "outside activities."

McGrath himself briefly maintained "outside activities" after his appointment to the cabinet. As governor of Rhode Island and later U. S. senator, he had been a trustee of the Rhode Island Charities Trust, a tax-exempt foundation that played an important part in building the Textron Corporation in about five years from a $6 million-a-year to a $125-million-a-year business. His compensation from the trust was $15,000 a year.

McGrath was sworn in as attorney general on August 24, 1949, and resigned on that day as chairman of the Democratic National Committee. On September 2 Governor Pastore of Rhode Island announced that he had received McGrath's resignation as a trustee of the charities trust. The post was one of two that McGrath had said he would give up as incompatible with his new office. The other was the presidency of a bank in Rhode Island.

The office of attorney general has become increasingly important in recent decades. In a trifle more than half a century, six attorneys general have been named to the Supreme Court. McKenna was elevated to the Court in 1897, McReynolds in 1914, Stone in 1925, Murphy in 1940, Jackson in 1941, Clark in 1949. Three of the six attorneys general who have served under Democratic Presidents since 1933 have been promoted to the highest court.

The only rejection of a cabinet nomination by the Senate in the past 80 years came in 1925 when Calvin Coolidge wanted Charles B. Warren as his attorney general. The Senate twice voted down Warren's nomination (he had been connected with sugar corporations charged with violating the anti-trust laws) though several of the senators who voted "nay" said they would support him to head any department other than Justice.

In early years the attorneys general were expected to give only part-time attention to their government duties. Practicing law on the side, they provided their own working quarters when in Washington.

Congress in 1819 voted to pay the salary of a clerk for the attorney general, and in 1822 the attorney general and his one clerk were first given government quarters—a single room in the War Department building. For 65 years the attorneys general received smaller salaries than their cabinet colleagues.

Another Spain?

Dispatches bear out the assertion of General Vandenberg, after his inspection trip there, that the Chinese Communist air force is offering serious challenge to U. S. control of the air in Northwestern Korea. The growing number of MIGs and the recent show of strength with Russian-built twin-engined bombers point to an intensified aerial warfare that could become critical for U. S. fortunes in Korea.

Latest statistics on relative losses, when broken down and subjected to close examination, show that U. S. plane losses are not far behind those claimed to have been imposed on the Red air forces. Lieut. Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of the Far East Air Forces, does not conceal his concern.

If the Communists push their aerial warfare much farther and F-86 Saber jet reinforcements from the United States are not available, the Reds could weaken the U. S. interdiction campaign and build up jet airstrips in Eastern Korea. At present the F-86 is the one plane that can pursue or fight a MIG

General Vandenberg is aware of the Red air threat in Korea, a threat which General Douglas MacArthur clearly saw and which he wanted to combat by bombing Red air bases in Manchuria. But the desired aircraft which, in addition to F-86 jets, include support aircraft and high altitude fighters, are not rolling off production lines fast enough to meet the needs of the Korean War and European defense. The placid assumption that this country has unquestioned control of the air is being given rough handling in Korea.

But there is an even larger phase to the ominous Red air force performances in the Far East. It cannot be forgotten that the German Luftwaffe used the civil war in Spain as a convenient testing ground for planes, pilots and techniques that were afterward put to lethal use in the conquest of France and the bombing of Britain.

It is possible that the Soviet Union, furnishing MIGs to the Chinese Communists, is using the war in Korea for a similar purpose? Is this stepped-up Red aerial warfare a training and testing exercise for larger operations elsewhere? Is Korea another Spain?

These are possibilities which American strategic intelligence experts, on the highest level, are without doubt contemplating. There is a clearer concept in Washington of the strategic value of air power. The idea of "balanced forces," under which each of three Defense Department services would receive almost equal appropriations, is being abandoned.

Red air exploits in Korea prove that the U. S. needs more air power, more intensive research, more effective design. Performance of Red pilots is improving, but the superior competence of U. S. air personnel has not thus far been subjected to successful challenge.

DAMPNESS AND T. B.

B. W. writes: Can a cured tuberculosis case remain healthy living near the shore where it is damp?

REPLY

Yes, because weather is not the chief consideration in tuberculosis. Rest, proper food, and the avoidance of strain and excesses are more important. At the risk of disappointing you, I might add that tuberculosis is arrested but never cured. The disease can be held in abeyance so long as a state of resistance is maintained.

Truman Got Favorable Report On Korean Truce At Joint Chiefs Meeting; U. S. Troops Could Stay In Korea Till "Hell Freezes Over"

WASHINGTON — Most of the world was intrigued over President Truman's much-publicized meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff following his return from Key West. However, it turned out to be pretty much routine after all. Highlight of the meeting was an optimistic assurance from Gen. Omar Bradley that a cease-fire could be worked out in Korea.

The nation's highest diplomatic and military chiefs were waiting in the cabinet room when President Truman strode in. He was grinning broadly. Shaking hands with everyone around the conference table, he reported that it was "good to be back," and asked how they liked his sun tan.

After that, he let the Joint Chiefs of Staff do most of the talking, and here is a brief, chronological account of what happened at the meeting which caused so much world-wide speculation.

The President sat back, listened intently and called for everyone's views. Occasionally, he bounced his fingers together reflectively, in a quick, impulsive gesture, and made such comments as: "That's a tough one."

General Bradley led off with a summary of the Korean situation. He reported that the Communists seemed to be ready to come to terms, that a cease-fire agreement could be worked out if both sides made concessions.

However, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air chief of staff, opposed making any major concessions. He was particularly adamant against allowing the Communists the right to build airfields during the cease-fire.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the Army chief of staff, vigorously opposed giving in to the Communists on troop rotation. The Chinese have proposed a freeze on all troops entering Korea, thus blocking replacements for combat veterans who have been promised the chance to go home on rotation. This would be a "blow to morale," Collins warned.

Silent Admiral

However, General Collins readily agreed that "minor concessions" on otherpoints should be made in order to win concessions from the Communists.

President Truman commented that no concessions should be granted that we "would later regret."

Least talkative of the Joint Chiefs was Admiral Fechteler, who made a short, half-minute speech in which he assured the President that the Navy is prepared to carry out "any mission any time any place."

For the Army's part, General Collins assured the President that the Army couldn't be blasted out of Korea, but could hold on "until hell freezes over."

Another concession discussed was that of giving in to the Communists on inspection teams behind the lines. We have been holding out for inspection by joint UN-Communist teams, but the Reds have been arguing for inspection by "neutral nations."

By neutral nations, the Communist negotiators said they meant Poland and Czechoslovakia. Later, however, they agreed that they would also consider Denmark, Sweden and Switzerland as "neutral nations." These three would be acceptable to us, and General Bradley proposed giving ground on this point. This has now been done.

The chief theme of the meeting was that a cease-fire agreement may be close at hand. All signs point to a settlement within the next 20 days. Some details will be left to iron out after the December 27 deadline.

Another matter that was discussed at the White House was the question of withdrawing UN troops from Korea altogether—after the armistice. However, the facts regarding this should not be made public now.

Brass Hat Christmas

Because the captain of the Navy amphibious landing craft USS New Kent lives not far from Baltimore, its crew will have to spend Christmas at Baltimore, despite the fact that many of their families live at the ship's home base—Norfolk.

Ordinarily Naval vessels tie up at their home base for Christmas. And because Norfolk has been the home base for the New Kent, many wives of the men and officers had moved to that city. However, Capt. Ronald Woodaman lives at Glencoe, Md., a suburb of Baltimore, so he is taking the ship to Baltimore for the holidays.

This means that half the officers and 68 of the enlisted men will have to travel back to Norfolk to spend Christmas with their families.

If I Were President

Harry Truman constantly complains to friends: "I can't get good men to come into the government."

What he doesn't realize is that few men want to risk scandal contamination by serving with mediocrities; though many would come in if the President cleaned house, began with a new slate.

There isn't a chance in the world that he'll appoint them, but here is a rollcall of a clean-up cabinet which some of Truman's friends prepared the other night while playing the game of "If I Were President":

FOR SPECIAL PROSECUTOR—Wily, dramatic ex-Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, once one of the Senate's greatest prosecutors.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FOR THE TAX DIVISION—Adrian De Wind, able chief counsel of the King Committee.

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN—Gen. Telford Taylor, the small-business administrator; or Joseph Borkin, the ex-Justice Department trustbuster. Both are intimately familiar with the giant Nazi business enterprises now being administered by the Custodian.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY—Randolph Paul, the brilliant former chief counsel of the Treasury.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE — Maury Maverick or Leon Henderson, both two-fisted crusaders with years of Washington know-how.

CHIEF COUNSEL OF THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE—Bruno Schachner, assistant counsel of the King Committee.

To create further confidence in the White House, Mr. Truman might substitute Paul Porter for Secretary Matt Connelly, who has no love for the graft probes.

Ike's Official Title

By MARK SULLIVAN

The official title of General Dwight D. Eisenhower is a military title, Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces in Europe. But his function is much broader than his title. In effect he is head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. As such he and NATO have an over-all objective, it is untiy of five (or possibly six) countries of Western Europe. The project contemplates military unity, an integrated army under a single command. It contemplates economic unity, the wiping out of tariff barriers and of separate currencies. It contemplates some degree of political unity, some form of over-all parliament; a kind of super-government.

To bring about this triple unity is the function to which General Eisenhower devotes himself, he has said that he gives as much time to governmental and economic matters as to military. In all three fields he encounters formidable difficulties. In effect he is asking countries to surrender parts of their sovereignties. Naturally there is reluctance on the part of leaders and peoples in the respective countries, sometimes stiff unwillingness. The project of a United States of Europe is still tentative.

Judgment of observers about General Eisenhower's conduct of his task is strongly favorable. This has been expressed in two sentences that are parallel. One is that General Eisenhower handles the job extremely well. The other, probably justified considering all the circumstances, is that no one else could do the job as well.

Relation To Politics

This brings up the relation of General Eisenhower to American politics, specifically to the Republican Presidential nomination for which he is put forward by a formidable movement led by important Republican leaders. While this movement goes on and grows it is practically certain that the project of unifying Western European countries cannot possibly be completed by the time the Republican national convention meets next June. Out of this condition arises a tangled mess of questions and speculations. Many of these come down to one question, is General Eisenhower willing to be a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination?

In the train of that question come corollary ones. Is it practicable for General Eisenhower, while head of so important a project as the unifying of Western European countries, to be simultaneously a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination? If he should resign from NATO, what would be the effect on the prospect of success for the project of unifying the countries of Western Europe?

Practicable Question

Conceivably General Eisenhower could continue as NATO head and remain silent about the Presidential nomination. The manager of the movement for nominating him, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge jr., says that General Eisenhower could continue as NATO head, and predicts that if he does the Republican national convention would nominate him. But if the Republicans should do this the question would arise in a new form, having to do with the election, as distinguished from the nomination. Would it be practicable for General Eisenhower to remain NATO head and simultaneously be the Republican candidate for the Presidency? That question may seem fantastic but it illustrates the complexities inherent in General Eisenhower's headship of NATO as related to actual or potential candidacy for the Presidency.

The project of unifying countries of Western Europe, so far as that can be looked upon as a thing apart, should not affect the standing of General Eisenhower with either Republican or Democratic voters. During decades past a union of European countries has been proposed from time to time as an ideal toward which the common attitude of Americans has been wish for success. In a traditional attitude of the American mind we thought of federation of European countries as similar to our own federal union of states, and we wished for spread of federation throughout the world much as we wished for spread of democratic government. That traditional attitude of blessing toward union of European countries is now strengthened by the fact that the projected union would be a buttress of defense for Western Europe and us against aggression by Russian Communism.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Nimitz Commission

Among President Truman's plans that failed is the Nimitz Commission, which was to have had supervision over the entire question of loyalty, or rather, disloyalty.

Because of Admiral Nimitz's deserved reputation, much confusion concerning this commission exists, the assumption generally being that the Admiral's loyalty or that of other members of the commission was brought into question. Actually, that was never so.

The issue at stake was the "conflict-of-interest" statutes as they applied to the members of the Nimitz Commission. If they were only advisers to the President, this principle would not apply; if they were to be officers of the United States, it did apply. The President may appoint any advisers he desires, but such advisers have limited authority. The President may accept or reject their advice. However, what the President desired was that members of this commission should be officers of the United States and yet be made exempt from the "conflict-of-interest" statutes. In a word, they should be given authority without responsibility.

In fact, if the Nimitz Commission were given such an exemption by act of Congress, the commission would have come into possession of authority which Congress never intended it should have. The President really wanted one kind of legislation to accomplish altogether another kind of purpose. In this he was defeated.

The President of the United States has, in our history, appointed many commissions and groups, advisory to the President. This is a satisfactory procedure for getting the best citizens, efficient and capable men and women, to serve for specific purposes without requiring them to give up their own businesses or affairs. The Nimitz Commission was the first instance of any President requesting legislation to exempt members of such commissions from "conflict-of-interest" statutes.

Senator Pat McCarran wrote President Truman to explain the law:

"The statutes which this bill would suspend have been a part of the criminal law for many years. Congress, in revising and codifying the criminal law, has had ample opportunity to delete these statutes from the law, but it has never done so. Members of the commission who appeared before the committee and the subcommittee acknowledged that these statutes constitute a necessary and desirable safeguard, and I think there can be no question on that score. I have heard no one state that these statutes ought to be removed from the body of the law. Yet the effect of repeated legislative exemptions of persons from the operation of the law serves only as a piecemeal destruction of the statutes. Continued erosion of a worthwhile statute by successive exemptions does not of itself justify other and further exemptions. . ."

Here is not a criticism of Admiral Nimitz but another conflict between the President and the Congress over authority. More and more, it would appear that the President and his advisers favor the parliamentary form of government in vogue in Great Britain.

Under that system, there is no written constitution and the will of parliament is paramount. The prime minister, actual head of the British government, is the leader of his party in the House of Commons. He does not run for the position of prime minister; he runs as a member of the House of Commons, the same as any other member.

Our form of government is very different. We have a written constitution with a vast body of decisions of the United States Supreme Court interpreting acts of Congress, as to their suitability, by the yardstick of the Constitution. Neither the Congress nor the President is a free agent. Enormous limitations have been placed upon them by the Constitution.

These limitations apparently Mr. Truman finds irksome. During his administration all sorts of devices have been used to evade Constitutional limitations upon the executive. One of those devices placed an American army in a war in Korea without the consent of Congress. That device called the Korean War a "police action," and gave the United Nations a control over American policy to which the Congress never agreed. It was never asked.

Of course, if the people of the United States want a parliamentary government, or a Fascist government, they can pass a Constitutional amendment making the necessary changes. That was done with the Income Tax Amendment (the 16th), which turned this country toward socialism. But if the people do not amend or abolish our written constitution, it is up to public officials to abide by it, as they were sworn to do.

That was the issue involved in the failure of the Nimitz Commission.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman had an opportunity to strike while the iron was hot—to reflect the indignation of the country over the tax scandals. But he chose instead to adopt at his press conference a defensive mood — the same attitude which he has exhibited often in the past toward charges of wrongdoing leveled at his appointees.

The President has promised a new "clean-up" plan. Until he was ready to announce it, he would have been better advised not to argue the merits of the criticism that has been directed at various persons in his administration. The hint he has given that he will set up a special agency to ferret out corruption in the government and that it will be an agency of the executive branch of the government reporting to him will inevitably arouse suspicion that Mr. Truman wants to control such an investigating and prosecuting process.

But in all probability what is bothering Mr. Truman is the difficulty of punishing wrongdoing when there have been indiscretions and improprieties that are not actual violations of law.

It isn't a violation of law for an official of the government to have as his friends persons of questionable character.

It isn't a violation of law to mingle socially with persons who ask favors from the government. In fact, it isn't unlawful to let persons of influence come to government offices and give them time to discuss tax cases or anything else.

Neglect Of Duty

But it is, of course, improper, and, where there is a question of failure to prosecute where wrongdoing or tax frauds have been involved, neglect of duty is plain. Inefficiency and stupidity, however, and even failure to do a duty are not in themselves a violation of law that can be proved in a court and conviction obtained. These cases call for removal or dismissal, but they do not necessarily permit prosecution.

So when Mr. Truman talks of setting up a special agency with a board or commission of prominent men, he is thinking no doubt not only of some way to bring about prosecutions where there has been wrongdoing but of a way to ferret out the much larger group of persons who have been engaged in unethical, though lawful conduct.

Such an inquiry, if applied to th whole government, would tak months, if not years, to get goin What is important to the Dem cratic administration is that some thing be done to offset the bad im pression being created daily by th headlines and dispatches reportin the testimony before the congres sional investigating committees.

Set Up Commissions

When Congress, through th House Un-American Activities Com mittee, exposed Communism insid the government, Mr. Truman set u a Loyalty Review Board and De partmental Loyalty Boards in re sponse to a congressional mandate He has hinted that he has some thing of the same kind of machin ery in mind with respect to recen scandals.

But the Congress will have some thing to say about all this if th proposal is not satisfactory to pub lic opinion. It would not seem plaus ible for the President to appoint commission with power to investi gate the White House itself, for in stance, nor does it seem likely tha such a commission would want th job of examining all the activitie of officials with access to the Whit House and how they have perform ed their duties.

So, all in all, the proposed com mission will probably have a limit ed task. The President evidently ha determined to fight it out as if i were just another political battl and to point to the proposed boar or committee or commission as a answer to those who feel that th administration should do somethin to clean house.

Mr. Truman is ready to prosecut anyone who has been guilty of la violation and he is ready to fir anyone proved to be engaging i activities outside the governmen that are of a compromising nature But he isn't ready to fire politica associates just because of the in nuendoes contained in congressiona testimony. Whether he can get awa with such an attitude politically and whether he has taken the ver course that will insure headline harmful to his party all through th campaign months of 1952, remain to be seen. But that's the risk M Truman has assumed.

1951 Recreation Participation Sets Record

Participation in the municipal recreation program this year far exceeded the 1950 record, City Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey said yesterday.

In releasing the annual report of his department, Hoey said no figures have yet been compiled. He indicated, however, that they would be well above those for 1950, when 262,000 persons used the city's 15 playgrounds during the 10-weeks season.

The report, which lists accomplishments of various phases of the city program, also explains recreation finances.

Low Per Capita Cost

Based on an estimated population of 38,000 this year's $21,000 recreation budget cost Cumberlanders 55.3 cents per capita. The total estimated income from appropriation and other sources, however, was $39,000, which brings the per capita cost nearer to $1.03.

The report notes that the National Recreation Association recommends a per capita cost of $1.50 annually.

Another interesting feature shows the distribution of the recreation dollar.

Because of the supervisory nature of most of the department's work, 55 cents of each dollar goes for salaries and wages. Another 27 cents is used for capital expenditures (major improvements, etc.), and supplies and expenses account for 10 cents.

Budget Supplies Half

The report also shows that only 53 per cent of the department's revenue comes from direct appropriation. The city recreation tax brings in 23 per cent of the total, and Constitution Park and Pennsylvania Avenue receipts account for 12 per cent each.

Besides its daily seasonal activities, the department this year sponsored six intracity events, six intracity tournaments and seven special summer activities, and operated several baseball, softball and basketball leagues.

Picnic kits supplied by the department were used 90 times, the free motion picture service, 87 times, and the public address system, 56 times.

1951 Recreation Participation Sets Record

Participation in the municipal recreation program this year far exceeded the 1950 record, City Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey said yesterday.

In releasing the annual report of his department, Hoey said no figures have yet been compiled. He indicated, however, that they would be well above those for 1950, when 262,000 persons used the city's 15 playgrounds during the 10-weeks season.

The report, which lists accomplishments of various phases of the city program, also explains recreation finances.

Low Per Capita Cost

Based on an estimated population of 38,000 this year's $21,000 recreation budget cost Cumberlanders 55.3 cents per capita. The total estimated income from appropriation and other sources, however, was $39,000, which brings the per capita cost nearer to $1.03.

The report notes that the National Recreation Association recommends a per capita cost of $1.50 annually.

Another interesting feature shows the distribution of the recreation dollar.

Because of the supervisory nature of most of the department's work, 55 cents of each dollar goes for salaries and wages. Another 27 cents is used for capital expenditures (major improvements, etc.), and supplies and expenses account for 10 cents.

Budget Supplies Half

The report also shows that only 53 per cent of the department's revenue comes from direct appropriation. The city recreation tax brings in 23 per cent of the total, and Constitution Park and Pennsylvania Avenue receipts account for 12 per cent each.

Besides its daily seasonal activities, the department this year sponsored six intracity events, six intracity tournaments and seven special summer activities, and operated several baseball, softball and basketball leagues.

Picnic kits supplied by the department were used 90 times, the free motion picture service, 87 times, and the public address system, 56 times.

Conference Slaps Football Boycott On Maryland, Clemson

Colleges Put On Probation For One Year

By ROBERT MOORE

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 14 (AP)—The Southern Conference tonight put the University of Maryland and Clemson College on probation for one year and, with two exceptions, slapped a football schedule boycott against them.

Maryland and Clemson can play other conference grid teams in games required by state statutes. And they may play each other under special concession made shortly after the probation vote was taken.

The vote placing the two schools on probation and inflicting the football schedule boycott was 12-5. The action was taken because Maryland and Clemson violated conference regulations by accepting football bowl invitations without the league's approval.

Earlier today, the conference voted 14-3 against granting permission to Maryland to play in the Sugar Bowl New Year's afternoon. Only South Carolina strung along with Maryland and Clemson in the voting. Afterwards, however, Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, said his school planned to keep the engagement with Tennessee just the same.

Clemson polled the conference when it received an invitation to meet Miami of Florida in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. The request was denied. Clemson accepted the bid any way.

The schedule boycott applies only to football and runs for the period of probation only.

Maryland's 1952 grid schedule, already completed, includes contests with six conference teams, North Carolina, West Virginia, George Washington, Washington and Lee, North Carolina State and South Carolina.

The Clemson-South Carolina game is an annual feature of the South Carolina State fair and highlights "big Thursday." The game is fixed by the state legislature, and under terms of the resolution, it may continue to be played.

Wilson, Berry Score Winning Baskets

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., Dec. 14—Baskets by Wilson and "Doc" Berry in the final minute of play gave Bruce High's cagers a thrilling 29-26 victory over Fort Ashby here tonight.

A twin-pointer by Berry put the Westernport team ahead at 25-24 with three minutes to go but Franklin countered with a goal to give the Eagles a temporary one-point lead at 26-25. Wilson and Berry then pulled the game out of the fire for Bruce.

The loss was the first in three starts for Fort Ashby while it marked the opening game for Bruce. The Eagles led all the way throuh the game until the final moments. Quarter scores were 9-5, 14-11 and 22-19.

Berry was high point man for the winners with 10 markers while Franklin and Bennett each had seven for Fort Ashby. The Bruce Jayvees made it a clean sweep with a 28-10 verdict over the Eagles Jayvees in the preliminary. The lineups:

Cards Consider Terry Brennan As New Mentor

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (INS)—The Chicago Cardinals today said they are considering a former Notre Dame star, Terry Brennan—who is only 23 years old—for the position of head coach left vacant by the resignation-dismissal of Curly Lambeau.

Walter Wolfner, managing director of the club who fired Lambeau the day after the veteran coach served notice that he was resigning, said the former halfback for the Irish "is under consideration."

Brennan now is the coach of Mt. Carmel High School, Chicago city champions the last two seasons.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Eliminates Swedish Netmen

MELBOURNE, Dec. 15 (Saturday) (AP)—The American Davis Cup team aimed for a shutout of Sweden in the interzone finals today after a doubles win by Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert clinched a berth in the challenge round against Australia.

With a 3-0 lead over Sweden, the American team could afford to look on the two remaining singles as little more than exhibitions.

However, they couldn't risk losing their competitive edge with the finals less than two weeks away.

Frank Shields, captain of the U. S. team, planned to stick with Schroeder and Trabert who won both the opening singles Thursday and yesterday's doubles, 10-12, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

Gunnar Galin, Swedish captain, was not positive of his lineup for the singles but indicated he might switch from Lennart Bergelin and Sven Davidsson, who lost the three earlier matches.

With the interzone finals out of the way, Shields is expected to name his team this weekend for the challenge at Sydney Dec. 26-27-28. It almost certainly will be Schroeder, Trabert, Vic Seixas and Dick Savitt.

SEC Favors Bowl Football Games, Spring Training

Reduces Scholarships, Changes Freshman Rule

NEW ORDEANS, Dec. 14 (INS)—Members of the Southeastern Conference today voted to inaugurate a mild football de-emphasis program that is not expected to seriously interefere with existing conditions.

Drastic measures such as elimination of post-season bowl games and the abolition of spring training were overwhelmingly defeated by the conference chiefs.

The SEC college presidents did vote to limit spring training to 20 practice sessions, to put a limitation on the number of athletic scholarships granted yearly and to exclude freshman from varsity football.

The number of athletic scholarships permitted will remain at 140, but the number of new scholarships granted will be held to 30 per year.

The change in the freshman rule was one of the chief de-emphasis moves taken by the conference. Freshmen will become ineligible for varsity play after this year. Then the conference will go back to the old rule which allows frosh to play only on freshmen teams.

When it came time to consider the elimination of bowl competition, the conference members showed a reluctance to make any move in that direction. An amendment that would end football competition at the finish of the regular season was not even seconded by the 12-member group.

An amendment that would permit the televising of football games if the home team sanctioned it was also defeated. Under the existing rule, SEC schools are not permitted to televise their games directly.

Kid Gavilan Stops Cartier

Welter Champ Wins In 10th At Garden

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (INS)—Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan spent nine rounds tonight methodically setting up heavier Walter Cartier for the kill and then stopped him with a wild flurry of left hooks in the tenth.

Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the non-title affair at Madison Square Garden at 1:31 of the final round. Cartier, whose nose had bled profusely since the first round, was too dazed and tired to continue.

Gavilan gave away eight and one half pounds, coming in at 151 to Cartier's 159½.

It was a slow fight most of the way, with Gavilan showing respect for Cartier's jarring left but piling up a big edge in points.

Barnum And Furgol Set Pace At Havana

HAVANA, Dec. 14 (AP) — John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., were tied for first place today at the half-way mark of Havana's 72-hole invitation golf tournament.

Barnum shot a seven-under-par 65 today to give him 135 strokes for the first 36 holes. He had 70 yesterday.

Furgol went six-under par for a 66 but his 69 yesterday gave him 135 to tie with Barnum for the lead among 28 top United States professional golfers.

In third place was Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who had a 68—his second in two days—for 136 total. Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., also had a 68 today for a two-round total of 137.

Alfred Tennyson's poem Enoch Arden has been used to name a divorce statute.

Barnhill Opposes Bar On Bowl Games

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., De 14 (AP)—A veteran of seven football bowl games spoke out today against abolishment of post-season gridiron contests.

Said John Barnhill, athletic director at the University of Arkansas and former coach here and at his alma mater, the University of Tennessee:

"Bowls are a part of American life. They have never been involved in scandal."

As an assistant coach under Gen. Bob Neyland at Tennessee and later as head coach there, he participated in four Vol appearances in bowl games, including the Rose Bowl. At Arkansas, Barnhill's teams played in the Cotton Bowl and Dixie Bowl in successive years.

Other Kentucky Cagers In Fixes, O'Connor Says

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 14 (AP) — There are other University of Kentucky players involved in basketball fixes, Vincent O'Connor, assistant district attorney from New York, said tonight.

O'Connor did not name any players, games or dates. But he called on the players to give him their full cooperation.

O'Connor conferred with two Lexington attorneys, who are representing the players, for three hours this afternoon. The attorneys have advised O'Connor he cannot talk to the players except in their presence.

O'Connor said the lawyers, John Young Brown and Elmer Drake, are the first to show legal resistance to the questioning of college basketball players involved in point-shaving.

O'Connor said he has given Gov. Lawrence Wetherby details of the situation.

The investigation now underway indicates the Kentucky players are involved in a scandal "more extensive" than the one to which Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable, former U. S. stars, confessed, O'Connor said.

Groza, Beard and Barnstable have admitted taking bribes in a point-fixing deal in the Kentucky- Loyola Game in the National Invitation Tournament in New York in 1949.

Deer Mystery Solved, Slain Does Are Bucks

The mystery of the slaying of what game officials thought were five doe deer on Monday evening in Green Ridge State Forest has been solved, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional warden.

A thorough investigation of the five carcasses proved that the five deer covered by leaves were legal bucks instead of does, which are illegal during the open season in Maryland, Minke announced last night. The slain animals represented about 450 pounds of venison.

Minke explained that the heads of the deer were cut off and somewhat mutilated and it was thought this was done to make it difficult to identify the carcasses. However, after the animals were carefully checked they were found to be male deer.

It is understood that a group of hunters apparently held their deer too long last week during the six-day open season and due to the warm weather the meat spoiled and they decided to discard it in the forest.

Names of the hunters are not yet known, Minke said.

Barton Hands LaSalle First Defeat, 45-37

Ackerman And Harris Star For Losers As Braves Win Second

By JOHN KNOWLTON

A scrappy band of Barton Braves outshot and outfought LaSalle High's Explorers last night for a 45-37 victory before a small gathering on the SS. Peter and Paul court. It was LaSalle's first loss in three starts and gave Barton two wins in four games.

Barton hopped off to a quick lead in the first quarter and except for a 7-7 tie in the initial stanza and a brief moment in the third period when the score changed hands four times the Braves were ahead all the way.

Explorers Pull Close

On numerous occasions the Explorers pulled within one or two points of Barton, trailing 28-27 and 30-29 —late in the third period and climbing within four points at 41-37 with two minutes to go in the last quarter, but Coach Art Slocum's charges just couldn't find the key to success.

Baskets by Sonny Kyle and Bud Bailey as the fourth quarter opened gave Barton its biggest margin of the evening at 39-30. After Bobby Christ of LaSalle and Johnny Russell traded twin-pointers the Explorers made their last effort to get back into the game. Ricky Harris banged in a rebound and Paul Ackerman connected while driving under the hoop on a neat pass from Marty Mullaney. Harris then potted a foul to make it 41-37 with two minutes to go, but that was the extent of the Explorers' scoring. Bob Kirk sandwiched a basket between charity tosses by Junior Kyle and Sonny Kyle to pull Barton farther ahead at the whistle.

Shuck Leaves Game

LaSalle's diminutive playmaker, Denny Shuck, left the game on personals midway in the second period and his loss seemed to hurt the Slocummen. Bill Hyde of Barton, exited the game via the foul route with only seconds remaining in the contest.

The scoring was evenly divided between the Barton players with Sonny Kyle and John Russell collecting nine markers apiece, followed closely by Kirk and Bailey with eight each. Best for LaSalle was Ackerman with 10 tallies. Ricky Harris played another outstanding floor game for the losers. The lineups:

Conference Slaps Football Boycott On Maryland, Clemson

By ROBERT MOORE

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 14 (AP)—The Southern Conference tonight put the University of Maryland and Clemson College on probation for one year and, with two exceptions, slapped a football schedule boycott against them.

Maryland and Clemson can play other conference grid teams in games required by state statutes. And they may play each other under special concession made shortly after the probation vote was taken.

The vote placing the two schools on probation and inflicting the football schedule boycott was 12-5. The action was taken because Maryland and Clemson violated conference regulations by accepting football bowl invitations without the league's approval.

Earlier today, the conference voted 14-3 against granting permission to Maryland to play in the Sugar Bowl New Year's afternoon. Only South Carolina strung along with Maryland and Clemson in the voting. Afterwards, however, Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, said his school planned to keep the engagement with Tennessee just the same.

Clemson polled the conference when it received an invitation to meet Miami of Florida in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. The request was denied. Clemson accepted the bid any way.

The schedule boycott applies only to football and runs for the period of probation only.

Maryland's 1952 grid schedule, already completed, includes contests with six conference teams, North Carolina, West Virginia, George Washington, Washington and Lee, North Carolina State and South Carolina.

The Clemson-South Carolina game is an annual feature of the South Carolina State fair and highlights "big Thursday." The game is fixed by the state legislature, and under terms of the resolution, it may continue to be played.

Bruce Rally Nips Ft. Ashby, 29-26

Wilson, Berry Score Winning Baskets

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., Dec. 14—Baskets by Wilson and "Doc" Berry in the final minute of play gave Bruce High's cagers a thrilling 29-26 victory over Fort Ashby here tonight.

A twin-pointer by Berry put the Westernport team ahead at 25-24 with three minutes to go but Franklin countered with a goal to give the Eagles a temporary one-point lead at 26-25. Wilson and Berry then pulled the game out of the fire for Bruce.

The loss was the first in three starts for Fort Ashby while it marked the opening game for Bruce. The Eagles led all the way throuh the game until the final moments. Quarter scores were 9-5, 14-11 and 22-19.

Berry was high point man for the winners with 10 markers while Franklin and Bennett each had seven for Fort Ashby. The Bruce Jayvees made it a clean sweep with a 28-10 verdict over the Eagles Jayvees in the preliminary. The lineups:

Cards Consider Terry Brennan As New Mentor

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (INS)—The Chicago Cardinals today said they are considering a former Notre Dame star, Terry Brennan—who is only 23 years old—for the position of head coach left vacant by the resignation-dismissal of Curly Lambeau.

Walter Wolfner, managing director of the club who fired Lambeau the day after the veteran coach served notice that he was resigning, said the former halfback for the Irish "is under consideration."

Brennan now is the coach of Mt. Carmel High School, Chicago city champions the last two seasons.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Eliminates Swedish Netmen

MELBOURNE, Dec. 15 (Saturday) (AP)—The American Davis Cup team aimed for a shutout of Sweden in the interzone finals today after a doubles win by Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert clinched a berth in the challenge round against Australia.

With a 3-0 lead over Sweden, the American team could afford to look on the two remaining singles as little more than exhibitions.

However, they couldn't risk losing their competitive edge with the finals less than two weeks away.

Frank Shields, captain of the U. S. team, planned to stick with Schroeder and Trabert who won both the opening singles Thursday and yesterday's doubles, 10-12, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

Gunnar Galin, Swedish captain, was not positive of his lineup for the singles but indicated he might switch from Lennart Bergelin and Sven Davidsson, who lost the three earlier matches.

With the interzone finals out of the way, Shields is expected to name his team this weekend for the challenge at Sydney Dec. 26-27-28. It almost certainly will be Schroeder, Trabert, Vic Seixas and Dick Savitt.

SEC Favors Bowl Football Games, Spring Training

Reduces Scholarships, Changes Freshman Rule

NEW ORDEANS, Dec. 14 (INS)—Members of the Southeastern Conference today voted to inaugurate a mild football de-emphasis program that is not expected to seriously interefere with existing conditions.

Drastic measures such as elimination of post-season bowl games and the abolition of spring training were overwhelmingly defeated by the conference chiefs.

The SEC college presidents did vote to limit spring training to 20 practice sessions, to put a limitation on the number of athletic scholarships granted yearly and to exclude freshman from varsity football.

The number of athletic scholarships permitted will remain at 140, but the number of new scholarships granted will be held to 30 per year.

The change in the freshman rule was one of the chief de-emphasis moves taken by the conference. Freshmen will become ineligible for varsity play after this year. Then the conference will go back to the old rule which allows frosh to play only on freshmen teams.

When it came time to consider the elimination of bowl competition, the conference members showed a reluctance to make any move in that direction. An amendment that would end football competition at the finish of the regular season was not even seconded by the 12-member group.

An amendment that would permit the televising of football games if the home team sanctioned it was also defeated. Under the existing rule, SEC schools are not permitted to televise their games directly.

Kid Gavilan Stops Cartier

Welter Champ Wins In 10th At Garden

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (INS)—Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan spent nine rounds tonight methodically setting up heavier Walter Cartier for the kill and then stopped him with a wild flurry of left hooks in the tenth.

Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the non-title affair at Madison Square Garden at 1:31 of the final round. Cartier, whose nose had bled profusely since the first round, was too dazed and tired to continue.

Gavilan gave away eight and one half pounds, coming in at 151 to Cartier's 159½.

It was a slow fight most of the way, with Gavilan showing respect for Cartier's jarring left but piling up a big edge in points.

Barnum And Furgol Set Pace At Havana

HAVANA, Dec. 14 (AP) — John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., were tied for first place today at the half-way mark of Havana's 72-hole invitation golf tournament.

Barnum shot a seven-under-par 65 today to give him 135 strokes for the first 36 holes. He had 70 yesterday.

Furgol went six-under par for a 66 but his 69 yesterday gave him 135 to tie with Barnum for the lead among 28 top United States professional golfers.

In third place was Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who had a 68—his second in two days—for 136 total. Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., also had a 68 today for a two-round total of 137.

Alfred Tennyson's poem Enoch Arden has been used to name a divorce statute.

Barnhill Opposes Bar On Bowl Games

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., De 14 (AP)—A veteran of seven football bowl games spoke out today against abolishment of post-season gridiron contests.

Said John Barnhill, athletic director at the University of Arkansas and former coach here and at his alma mater, the University of Tennessee:

"Bowls are a part of American life. They have never been involved in scandal."

As an assistant coach under Gen. Bob Neyland at Tennessee and later as head coach there, he participated in four Vol appearances in bowl games, including the Rose Bowl. At Arkansas, Barnhill's teams played in the Cotton Bowl and Dixie Bowl in successive years.

Other Kentucky Cagers In Fixes, O'Connor Says

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 14 (AP) — There are other University of Kentucky players involved in basketball fixes, Vincent O'Connor, assistant district attorney from New York, said tonight.

O'Connor did not name any players, games or dates. But he called on the players to give him their full cooperation.

O'Connor conferred with two Lexington attorneys, who are representing the players, for three hours this afternoon. The attorneys have advised O'Connor he cannot talk to the players except in their presence.

O'Connor said the lawyers, John Young Brown and Elmer Drake, are the first to show legal resistance to the questioning of college basketball players involved in point-shaving.

O'Connor said he has given Gov. Lawrence Wetherby details of the situation.

The investigation now underway indicates the Kentucky players are involved in a scandal "more extensive" than the one to which Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable, former U. S. stars, confessed, O'Connor said.

Groza, Beard and Barnstable have admitted taking bribes in a point-fixing deal in the National Invitation Tournament in New York in 1949.

Deer Mystery Solved, Slain Does Are Bucks

The mystery of the slaying of what game officials thought were five doe deer on Monday evening in Green Ridge State Forest has been solved, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional warden.

A thorough investigation of the five carcasses proved that the five deer covered by leaves were legal bucks instead of does, which are illegal during the open season in Maryland, Minke announced last night. The slain animals represented about 450 pounds of venison.

Minke explained that the heads of the deer were cut off and somewhat mutilated and it was thought this was done to make it difficult to identify the carcasses. However, after the animals were carefully checked they were found to be male deer.

It is understood that a group of hunters apparently held their deer too long last week during the six-day open season and due to the warm weather the meat spoiled and they decided to discard it in the forest.

Names of the hunters are not yet known, Minke said.

Barton Hands LaSalle First Defeat, 45-37

Ackerman And Harris Star For Losers As Braves Win Second

By JOHN KNOWLTON

A scrappy band of Barton Braves outshot and outfought LaSalle High's Explorers last night for a 45-37 victory before a small gathering on the SS. Peter and Paul court. It was LaSalle's first loss in three starts and gave Barton two wins in four games.

Barton hopped off to a quick lead in the first quarter and except for a 7-7 tie in the initial stanza and a brief moment in the third period when the score changed hands four times the Braves were ahead all the way.

Explorers Pull Close

On numerous occasions the Explorers pulled within one or two points of Barton, trailing 28-27 and 30-29 —late in the third period and climbing within four points at 41-37 with two minutes to go in the last quarter, but Coach Art Slocum's charges just couldn't find the key to success.

Baskets by Sonny Kyle and Bud Bailey as the fourth quarter opened gave Barton its biggest margin of the evening at 39-30. After Bobby Christ of LaSalle and Johnny Russell traded twin-pointers the Explorers made their last effort to get back into the game. Ricky Harris banged in a rebound and Paul Ackerman connected while driving under the hoop on a neat pass from Marty Mullaney. Harris then potted a foul to make it 41-37 with two minutes to go, but that was the extent of the Explorers' scoring. Bob Kirk sandwiched a basket between charity tosses by Junior Kyle and Sonny Kyle to pull Barton farther ahead at the whistle.

Shuck Leaves Game

LaSalle's diminutive playmaker, Denny Shuck, left the game on personals midway in the second period and his loss seemed to hurt the Slocummen. Bill Hyde of Barton, exited the game via the foul route with only seconds remaining in the contest.

The scoring was evenly divided between the Barton players with Sonny Kyle and John Russell collecting nine markers apiece, followed closely by Kirk and Bailey with eight each. Best for LaSalle was Ackerman with 10 tallies. Ricky Harris played another outstanding floor game for the losers. The lineups:

Conference Slaps Football Boycott On Maryland, Clemson

By ROBERT MOORE

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 14 (AP)—The Southern Conference tonight put the University of Maryland and Clemson College on probation for one year and, with two exceptions, slapped a football schedule boycott against them.

Maryland and Clemson can play other conference grid teams in games required by state statutes. And they may play each other under special concession made shortly after the probation vote was taken.

The vote placing the two schools on probation and inflicting the football schedule boycott was 12-5. The action was taken because Maryland and Clemson violated conference regulations by accepting football bowl invitations without the league's approval.

Earlier today, the conference voted 14-3 against granting permission to Maryland to play in the Sugar Bowl New Year's afternoon. Only South Carolina strung along with Maryland and Clemson in the voting. Afterwards, however, Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, said his school planned to keep the engagement with Tennessee just the same.

Clemson polled the conference when it received an invitation to meet Miami of Florida in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. The request was denied. Clemson accepted the bid any way.

The schedule boycott applies only to football and runs for the period of probation only.

Maryland's 1952 grid schedule, already completed, includes contests with six conference teams, North Carolina, West Virginia, George Washington, Washington and Lee, North Carolina State and South Carolina.

The Clemson-South Carolina game is an annual feature of the South Carolina State fair and highlights "big Thursday." The game is fixed by the state legislature, and under terms of the resolution, it may continue to be played.

Bruce Rally Nips Ft. Ashby, 29-26

Wilson, Berry Score Winning Baskets

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., Dec. 14—Baskets by Wilson and "Doc" Berry in the final minute of play gave Bruce High's cagers a thrilling 29-26 victory over Fort Ashby here tonight.

A twin-pointer by Berry put the Westernport team ahead at 25-24 with three minutes to go but Franklin countered with a goal to give the Eagles a temporary one-point lead at 26-25. Wilson and Berry then pulled the game out of the fire for Bruce.

The loss was the first in three starts for Fort Ashby while it marked the opening game for Bruce. The Eagles led all the way throuh the game until the final moments. Quarter scores were 9-5, 14-11 and 22-19.

Berry was high point man for the winners with 10 markers while Franklin and Bennett each had seven for Fort Ashby. The Bruce Jayvees made it a clean sweep with a 28-10 verdict over the Eagles Jayvees in the preliminary. The lineups:

Cards Consider Terry Brennan As New Mentor

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (INS)—The Chicago Cardinals today said they are considering a former Notre Dame star, Terry Brennan—who is only 23 years old—for the position of head coach left vacant by the resignation-dismissal of Curly Lambeau.

Walter Wolfner, managing director of the club who fired Lambeau the day after the veteran coach served notice that he was resigning, said the former halfback for the Irish "is under consideration."

Brennan now is the coach of Mt. Carmel High School, Chicago city champions the last two seasons.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Eliminates Swedish Netmen

MELBOURNE, Dec. 15 (Saturday) (AP)—The American Davis Cup team aimed for a shutout of Sweden in the interzone finals today after a doubles win by Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert clinched a berth in the challenge round against Australia.

With a 3-0 lead over Sweden, the American team could afford to look on the two remaining singles as little more than exhibitions.

However, they couldn't risk losing their competitive edge with the finals less than two weeks away.

Frank Shields, captain of the U. S. team, planned to stick with Schroeder and Trabert who won both the opening singles Thursday and yesterday's doubles, 10-12, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

Gunnar Galin, Swedish captain, was not positive of his lineup for the singles but indicated he might switch from Lennart Bergelin and Sven Davidsson, who lost the three earlier matches.

With the interzone finals out of the way, Shields is expected to name his team this weekend for the challenge at Sydney Dec. 26-27-28. It almost certainly will be Schroeder, Trabert, Vic Seixas and Dick Savitt.

SEC Favors Bowl Football Games, Spring Training

Reduces Scholarships, Changes Freshman Rule

NEW ORDEANS, Dec. 14 (INS)—Members of the Southeastern Conference today voted to inaugurate a mild football de-emphasis program that is not expected to seriously interefere with existing conditions.

Drastic measures such as elimination of post-season bowl games and the abolition of spring training were overwhelmingly defeated by the conference chiefs.

The SEC college presidents did vote to limit spring training to 20 practice sessions, to put a limitation on the number of athletic scholarships granted yearly and to exclude freshman from varsity football.

The number of athletic scholarships permitted will remain at 140, but the number of new scholarships granted will be held to 30 per year.

The change in the freshman rule was one of the chief de-emphasis moves taken by the conference. Freshmen will become ineligible for varsity play after this year. Then the conference will go back to the old rule which allows frosh to play only on freshmen teams.

When it came time to consider the elimination of bowl competition, the conference members showed a reluctance to make any move in that direction. An amendment that would end football competition at the finish of the regular season was not even seconded by the 12-member group.

An amendment that would permit the televising of football games if the home team sanctioned it was also defeated. Under the existing rule, SEC schools are not permitted to televise their games directly.

Kid Gavilan Stops Cartier

Welter Champ Wins In 10th At Garden

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (INS)—Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan spent nine rounds tonight methodically setting up heavier Walter Cartier for the kill and then stopped him with a wild flurry of left hooks in the tenth.

Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the non-title affair at Madison Square Garden at 1:31 of the final round. Cartier, whose nose had bled profusely since the first round, was too dazed and tired to continue.

Gavilan gave away eight and one half pounds, coming in at 151 to Cartier's 159½.

It was a slow fight most of the way, with Gavilan showing respect for Cartier's jarring left but piling up a big edge in points.

Barnum And Furgol Set Pace At Havana

HAVANA, Dec. 14 (AP) — John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., were tied for first place today at the half-way mark of Havana's 72-hole invitation golf tournament.

Barnum shot a seven-under-par 65 today to give him 135 strokes for the first 36 holes. He had 70 yesterday.

Furgol went six-under par for a 66 but his 69 yesterday gave him 135 to tie with Barnum for the lead among 28 top United States professional golfers.

In third place was Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who had a 68—his second in two days—for 136 total. Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., also had a 68 today for a two-round total of 137.

Alfred Tennyson's poem Enoch Arden has been used to name a divorce statute.

Barnhill Opposes Bar On Bowl Games

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., De 14 (AP)—A veteran of seven football bowl games spoke out today against abolishment of post-season gridiron contests.

Said John Barnhill, athletic director at the University of Arkansas and former coach here and at his alma mater, the University of Tennessee:

"Bowls are a part of American life. They have never been involved in scandal."

As an assistant coach under Gen. Bob Neyland at Tennessee and later as head coach there, he participated in four Vol appearances in bowl games, including the Rose Bowl. At Arkansas, Barnhill's teams played in the Cotton Bowl and Dixie Bowl in successive years.

Other Kentucky Cagers In Fixes, O'Connor Says

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 14 (AP) — There are other University of Kentucky players involved in basketball fixes, Vincent O'Connor, assistant district attorney from New York, said tonight.

O'Connor did not name any players, games or dates. But he called on the players to give him their full cooperation.

O'Connor conferred with two Lexington attorneys, who are representing the players, for three hours this afternoon. The attorneys have advised O'Connor he cannot talk to the players except in their presence.

O'Connor said the lawyers, John Young Brown and Elmer Drake, are the first to show legal resistance to the questioning of college basketball players involved in point-shaving.

O'Connor said he has given Gov. Lawrence Wetherby details of the situation.

The investigation now underway indicates the Kentucky players are involved in a scandal "more extensive" than the one to which Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable, former U. S. stars, confessed, O'Connor said.

Groza, Beard and Barnstable have admitted taking bribes in a point-fixing deal in the Kentucky- Loyola Game in the National Invitation Tournament in New York in 1949.

Deer Mystery Solved, Slain Does Are Bucks

The mystery of the slaying of what game officials thought were five doe deer on Monday evening in Green Ridge State Forest has been solved, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional warden.

A thorough investigation of the five carcasses proved that the five deer covered by leaves were legal bucks instead of does, which are illegal during the open season in Maryland, Minke announced last night. The slain animals represented about 450 pounds of venison.

Minke explained that the heads of the deer were cut off and somewhat mutilated and it was thought this was done to make it difficult to identify the carcasses. However, after the animals were carefully checked they were found to be male deer.

It is understood that a group of hunters apparently held their deer too long last week during the six-day open season and due to the warm weather the meat spoiled and they decided to discard it in the forest.

Names of the hunters are not yet known, Minke said.

Barton Hands LaSalle First Defeat, 45-37

Ackerman And Harris Star For Losers As Braves Win Second

By JOHN KNOWLTON

A scrappy band of Barton Braves outshot and outfought LaSalle High's Explorers last night for a 45-37 victory before a small gathering on the SS. Peter and Paul court. It was LaSalle's first loss in three starts and gave Barton two wins in four games.

Barton hopped off to a quick lead in the first quarter and except for a 7-7 tie in the initial stanza and a brief moment in the third period when the score changed hands four times the Braves were ahead all the way.

Explorers Pull Close

On numerous occasions the Explorers pulled within one or two points of Barton, trailing 28-27 and 30-29 —late in the third period and climbing within four points at 41-37 with two minutes to go in the last quarter, but Coach Art Slocum's charges just couldn't find the key to success.

Baskets by Sonny Kyle and Bud Bailey as the fourth quarter opened gave Barton its biggest margin of the evening at 39-30. After Bobby Christ of LaSalle and Johnny Russell traded twin-pointers the Explorers made their last effort to get back into the game. Ricky Harris banged in a rebound and Paul Ackerman connected while driving under the hoop on a neat pass from Marty Mullaney. Harris then potted a foul to make it 41-37 with two minutes to go, but that was the extent of the Explorers' scoring. Bob Kirk sandwiched a basket between charity tosses by Junior Kyle and Sonny Kyle to pull Barton farther ahead at the whistle.

Shuck Leaves Game

LaSalle's diminutive playmaker, Denny Shuck, left the game on personals midway in the second period and his loss seemed to hurt the Slocummen. Bill Hyde of Barton, exited the game via the foul route with only seconds remaining in the contest.

The scoring was evenly divided between the Barton players with Sonny Kyle and John Russell collecting nine markers apiece, followed closely by Kirk and Bailey with eight each. Best for LaSalle was Ackerman with 10 tallies. Ricky Harris played another outstanding floor game for the losers. The lineups:

Eastern College Group Votes Ban On Bowl Games

Makes School Heads Responsible For Acts

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (INS) — The giant Eastern College Athletic Conference jumped aboard the "cleanup" bandwagon today by disapproving bowl games and making presidents of nearly 100 member colleges responsible for their schools' athletic purity.

The sweeping action followed similar moves by the Pacific Coast and Big Seven conferences. It came less than a day behind the anti-bowl games recommendation of a committee of college presidents seeking to correct the abuses in intercollegiate sports.

And almost simultaneous to today's ECAC decision, the Southern Conference denied Maryland permission to participate in the big Sugar Bowl game New Year's Day.

The ECAC also voted for adoption of a national program of supervised television for football games and agreed not to schedule games with any school not in compliance with whatever television plan the National Collegiate Athletic Association may decide upon.

Meeting in New York today, the ECAC agreed that presidents of member institutions should submit an annual "declaration of principles" and a report of their colleges' programs governing financial aid to students.

This was an even more inclusive piece of legislation than the Pacific Coast Conference's decision to turn reported violations of its athletic recruiting code over to the president of the member school involved.

The resolution against bowl games followed by five days the Big Seven's similar move.

Neyland Hopeful Terps Will Play

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14 (AP)—Gen. Bob Neyland, football coach at Tennessee University, said here tonight "I certainly would hate to think that Tennessee will be denied the honor of playing Maryland."

The comment was made when Neyland was informed that the Southern Conference today refused to grant the University of Maryland permission to play in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans on New Year's Day

Tennessee and Maryland have accepted invitations to play here.

"I hope Maryland can work itself out of its difficulty and play Tennessee New Year's Day," Neyland said.

Charles Zatarain, president of the Sugar Bowl Association, was not immediately available for comment. Recently, after Maryland accepted the Sugar Bowl bid without polling the conference, Zatarain said that matter was a family affair between Maryland and the conference.

Antonelli Is Fit For Military Duty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Johnny Antonelli, former pitcher for the Boston Braves, has been found fit by a military medical board for general army duty.

The military district of Washington said the 22-year-old left-handed pitcher would return to duty as a private at nearby Fort Myer, Va.

The district said Antonelli has suffered from a sinus condition for some time. His frequent medical attention prompted a board of medical officers at Fort Myer to recommend his appearance before a physical evaluation board.

Interim Council Asked To Study Hospital Costs

The Legislative Council was asked Thursday in Baltimore to make a fact-finding survey to determine if it is possible to make a "realistic readjustment of state and local contributions" to hospitals throughout Maryland which have been caught in a financial squeeze.

In a letter to the Council—interim standing committee of the General Assembly—Delegate Jerome Robinson (D-Fourth Baltimore) said:

"It would appear it is desirable for a study to be made of the contributions of state and local governments towards the per diem costs of indigent patients.

"We all recognize, of course, that Maryland is among the most progressive and enlightened states from the point of view of contributions to hospitals for the care of indigent patients.

"However, the general rise in costs and the financial plight of the hospitals would indicate that a reappraisal be made of the state's obligation in this matter."

The state allows a maximum of $10 per day for the care of each medical indigent treated by a hospital.

The Maryland Hospital Association has asked that this be raised to $12 per day.

Harvey Weiss, director of Sinai Hospital and chairman of the association's committee on governmental relations, said Monday that the hospitals will ask the state to pay the "full cost" of treatment of indigents. Weiss is a former Cumberlander.

County Orders Bonus Paid

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday ordered paid half of the $100 cost of living bonus to county employes making less than $3,000 annually.

There are about 190 persons eligible for the payment of the $50 bonus paid yesterday. There was one item which detracts from the bonus—the federal government withholding tax of $10 was deducted first.

It was explained that some of the workers who have several dependents may benefit when they file their income taxes next year by receiving a return of some or all of the $10 deducted.

A total of $9,500 was paid out yesterday and a similar amount will be paid to county workers next June 30 under the plan of the commissioners. The $19,000 necessary to carry out provisions of the cost of living bonus was included in the budget passed last spring.

Survives Being Run Over By Bulldozer

SIDCUP, Eng., Dec. 14 (AP) — A massive bulldozer ran over F. W. Hobday, 30, a week ago. Today his doctors at Queen Mary's Hospital said not a bone was broken and that Hobday soon will be walking again.

He was driving the bulldozer when a terrific lurch of the machine tossed him out and then ran over him. The ground was soft, and Hobday's rescuers noticed a neat impression of his body as they pried him out. The bulldozer kept going and knocked down an eight-foot stone wall.

Ships Still "Missing"

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Dec. 14 (AP)—Those two ice breakers Russia promised to return to the United States last weekend haven't shown up yet.

Capt. Charles F. M. Quinby, U. S. naval commander here, said he had been in radio contact with the ships, the North Wind and West Wind, but added: "I have not the slightest idea what is keeping them."

Eastern College Group Votes Ban On Bowl Games

Makes School Heads Responsible For Acts

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (INS) — The giant Eastern College Athletic Conference jumped aboard the "cleanup" bandwagon today by disapproving bowl games and making presidents of nearly 100 member colleges responsible for their schools' athletic purity.

The sweeping action followed similar moves by the Pacific Coast and Big Seven conferences. It came less than a day behind the anti-bowl games recommendation of a committee of college presidents seeking to correct the abuses in intercollegiate sports.

And almost simultaneous to today's ECAC decision, the Southern Conference denied Maryland permission to participate in the big Sugar Bowl game New Year's Day.

The ECAC also voted for adoption of a national program of supervised television for football games and agreed not to schedule games with any school not in compliance with whatever television plan the National Collegiate Athletic Association may decide upon.

Meeting in New York today, the ECAC agreed that presidents of member institutions should submit an annual "declaration of principles" and a report of their colleges' programs governing financial aid to students.

This was an even more inclusive piece of legislation than the Pacific Coast Conference's decision to turn reported violations of its athletic recruiting code over to the president of the member school involved.

The resolution against bowl games followed by five days the Big Seven's similar move.

Neyland Hopeful Terps Will Play

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14 (AP)—Gen. Bob Neyland, football coach at Tennessee University, said here tonight "I certainly would hate to think that Tennessee will be denied the honor of playing Maryland."

The comment was made when Neyland was informed that the Southern Conference today refused to grant the University of Maryland permission to play in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans on New Year's Day

Tennessee and Maryland have accepted invitations to play here.

"I hope Maryland can work itself out of its difficulty and play Tennessee New Year's Day," Neyland said.

Charles Zatarain, president of the Sugar Bowl Association, was not immediately available for comment. Recently, after Maryland accepted the Sugar Bowl bid without polling the conference, Zatarain said that matter was a family affair between Maryland and the conference.

ROMNEY, W. Va., Dec. 14—Coach Emery Anderson's Davis High School Wildcats made it three in a row tonight by taking Romney High School's Pioneers into camp to the tune of 49-37. It was the third successive setback for Coach Allen Swick's floormen.

Warmath Will Coach At Mississippi State

STARKVILLE, Miss., Dec. 14 (AP)—Murray Warmath, line coach at West Point, was named head football coach at Mississippi State College today. He succeeds Coach Arthur (Slick) Morton who resigned last week.

Warmath is a graduate of Tennessee where he was an All-Southeastern lineman. He served as assistant coach at Tennessee after graduation and came to Mississippi State as line coach in 1939 and served until 1942.

During the war, Warmath was a lieutenant commander in the navy and following his discharge returned to Tennessee as assistant coach in 1946 and remained through the 1948 season.

For the past two years he has served with Coach Red Blaik at Army.

Antonelli Is Fit For Military Duty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Johnny Antonelli, former pitcher for the Boston Braves, has been found fit by a military medical board for general army duty.

The military district of Washington said the 22-year-old left-handed pitcher would return to duty as a private at nearby Fort Myer, Va.

The district said Antonelli has suffered from a sinus condition for some time. His frequent medical attention prompted a board of medical officers at Fort Myer to recommend his appearance before a physical evaluation board.

Interim Council Asked To Study Hospital Costs

The Legislative Council was asked Thursday in Baltimore to make a fact-finding survey to determine if it is possible to make a "realistic readjustment of state and local contributions" to hospitals throughout Maryland which have been caught in a financial squeeze.

In a letter to the Council—interim standing committee of the General Assembly—Delegate Jerome Robinson (D-Fourth Baltimore) said:

"It would appear it is desirable for a study to be made of the contributions of state and local governments towards the per diem costs of indigent patients.

"We all recognize, of course, that Maryland is among the most progressive and enlightened states from the point of view of contributions to hospitals for the care of indigent patients.

"However, the general rise in costs and the financial plight of the hospitals would indicate that a reappraisal be made of the state's obligation in this matter."

The state allows a maximum of $10 per day for the care of each medical indigent treated by a hospital.

The Maryland Hospital Association has asked that this be raised to $12 per day.

Harvey Weiss, director of Sinai Hospital and chairman of the association's committee on governmental relations, said Monday that the hospitals will ask the state to pay the "full cost" of treatment of indigents. Weiss is a former Cumberlander.

Eastern College Group Votes Ban On Bowl Games

Makes School Heads Responsible For Acts

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (INS) — The giant Eastern College Athletic Conference jumped aboard the "cleanup" bandwagon today by disapproving bowl games and making presidents of nearly 100 member colleges responsible for their schools' athletic purity.

The sweeping action followed similar moves by the Pacific Coast and Big Seven conferences. It came less than a day behind the anti-bowl games recommendation of a committee of college presidents seeking to correct the abuses in intercollegiate sports.

And almost simultaneous to today's ECAC decision, the Southern Conference denied Maryland permission to participate in the big Sugar Bowl game New Year's Day.

The ECAC also voted for adoption of a national program of supervised television for football games and agreed not to schedule games with any school not in compliance with whatever television plan the National Collegiate Athletic Association may decide upon.

Meeting in New York today, the ECAC agreed that presidents of member institutions should submit an annual "declaration of principles" and a report of their colleges' programs governing financial aid to students.

This was an even more inclusive piece of legislation than the Pacific Coast Conference's decision to turn reported violations of its athletic recruiting code over to the president of the member school involved.

The resolution against bowl games followed by five days the Big Seven's similar move.

Neyland Hopeful Terps Will Play

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14 (AP)—Gen. Bob Neyland, football coach at Tennessee University, said here tonight "I certainly would hate to think that Tennessee will be denied the honor of playing Maryland."

The comment was made when Neyland was informed that the Southern Conference today refused to grant the University of Maryland permission to play in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans on New Year's Day

Tennessee and Maryland have accepted invitations to play here.

"I hope Maryland can work itself out of its difficulty and play Tennessee New Year's Day," Neyland said.

Charles Zatarain, president of the Sugar Bowl Association, was not immediately available for comment. Recently, after Maryland accepted the Sugar Bowl bid without polling the conference, Zatarain said that matter was a family affair between Maryland and the conference.

Warmath Will Coach At Mississippi State

STARKVILLE, Miss., Dec. 14 (AP)—Murray Warmath, line coach at West Point, was named head football coach at Mississippi State College today. He succeeds Coach Arthur (Slick) Morton who resigned last week.

Warmath is a graduate of Tennessee where he was an All-Southeastern lineman. He served as assistant coach at Tennessee after graduation and came to Mississippi State as line coach in 1939 and served until 1942.

During the war, Warmath was a lieutenant commander in the navy and following his discharge returned to Tennessee as assistant coach in 1946 and remained through the 1948 season.

For the past two years he has served with Coach Red Blaik at Army.

Antonelli Is Fit For Military Duty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Johnny Antonelli, former pitcher for the Boston Braves, has been found fit by a military medical board for general army duty.

The military district of Washington said the 22-year-old left-handed pitcher would return to duty as a private at nearby Fort Myer, Va.

The district said Antonelli has suffered from a sinus condition for some time. His frequent medical attention prompted a board of medical officers at Fort Myer to recommend his appearance before a physical evaluation board.

Interim Council Asked To Study Hospital Costs

The Legislative Council was asked Thursday in Baltimore to make a fact-finding survey to determine if it is possible to make a "realistic readjustment of state and local contributions" to hospitals throughout Maryland which have been caught in a financial squeeze.

In a letter to the Council—interim standing committee of the General Assembly—Delegate Jerome Robinson (D-Fourth Baltimore) said:

"It would appear it is desirable for a study to be made of the contributions of state and local governments towards the per diem costs of indigent patients.

"We all recognize, of course, that Maryland is among the most progressive and enlightened states from the point of view of contributions to hospitals for the care of indigent patients.

"However, the general rise in costs and the financial plight of the hospitals would indicate that a reappraisal be made of the state's obligation in this matter."

The state allows a maximum of $10 per day for the care of each medical indigent treated by a hospital.

The Maryland Hospital Association has asked that this be raised to $12 per day.

Harvey Weiss, director of Sinai Hospital and chairman of the association's committee on governmental relations, said Monday that the hospitals will ask the state to pay the "full cost" of treatment of indigents. Weiss is a former Cumberlander.

County Orders Bonus Paid

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday ordered paid half of the $100 cost of living bonus to county employes making less than $3,000 annually.

There are about 190 persons eligible for the payment of the $50 bonus paid yesterday. There was one item which detracts from the bonus—the federal government withholding tax of $10 was deducted first.

It was explained that some of the workers who have several dependents may benefit when they file their income taxes next year by receiving a return of some or all of the $10 deducted.

A total of $9,500 was paid out yesterday and a similar amount will be paid to county workers next June 30 under the plan of the commissioners. The $19,000 necessary to carry out provisions of the cost of living bonus was included in the budget passed last spring.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14—(INS)—Audrey Hepburn, the most exciting new personality on Broadway this season, has been cast for the lead in "Rosalind," a Sir James Barrie play. But between you and me and the gatepost, when "Rosalind" reaches the screen it will bear no resemblance whatsoever to the original Barrie play.

Philip and Julius Epstein, the twins, have scripted it, brought it up to date, and will direct it. The idea of Pat Duggan, the producer, was to start "Rosalind" immediately, but the Hepburn girl is such a hit in "Gigi" and she keeps building up new admirers, so it's decided to wait a few months before going into production.

The young Miss Hepburn plays a girl who keeps changing her name everytime she has a stage failure. Consequently she's saddled with four or five different monikers.

Just a week before Rita Hayworth did her big walkout at Columbia she gave this studio a two-year extension on her contract. Whatever happened to upset her came so suddenly the studio is still in a dither.

All hands were working to find stories for her and one of them was "Pal Joey," which Harry Cohn facetiously said "for Rita we'd have to call it 'Pal Josephine' and make the hero a girl."

Money had been spent, too, on research for "Salome," which Rita was to have done following the ill fated "Affair In Trinidad."

Interesting to hear that "Pick Up," the Hugo Haas independent bought by Columbia for $125,000 has made $950,000 in this country alone and will make possibly another half million in the world market. Very good for a picture that cost under $100,000 to make.

Haas makes "adult" pictures and in February he starts his fourth, "Fascination," about a cynical pianist. As usual, he'll write the screenplay, direct, produce, star and do everything but his own piano playing, I suppose.

Chatter in Hollywood: We might say they walked right in, turned around, and walked right out again in the case of Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Wilding.

They flew back to town from Las Vegas with Jean Simmons and Stewart Granger Tuesday night, and flew right back. They came back again last night and unless there is another change of plans they'll fly to Acapulco today.

The rumor that they plan to get married apparently frightened Liz and Mike, but there's one thing certain — they can't get married without the whole world knowing it. Liz has promised her mother that she won't do anything foolish, and her studio has stepped in and said "no, no," too.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hedy Lamarr flew in from Acapulco. It's a movie that brings her here. She was at the Mocambo with a man who no one seemed to recognize.

Groucho Marx and Kathleen Hughes, the actress, are getting around.

Oliver Hardy has been discovered by the kids in Van Nuys who see the old Laurel and Hardy comedies on TV, and they visit him. "Babe" (as Oliver is called) is recovering from a leg infection.

One of Marie Wilson's wedding gifts is a mink coat — now hold everything — for her dog, Hobbs! It's the gift of Sam Mannix, TV auxtioneer.

Steve Hannagan arrived in town yesterday to spend the holidays with the girl of his dreams. Yes, she's still Ann Sheridan.

Edmond O'Brien and the two children leave the end of next week to spend Christmas with Mrs. O'Brien (Olga San Juan) in New York.

The feeling in our town against a certain well known commentator is getting hotter and hotter and is due to flare in the open soon. A reporter, who is now working on inside material, has had some dillies dropped in his lap.

The cast and crew of "Clash By Night" presented Barbara Stanwyck with a small portable radio with a gold plate reading "To Our Miss." Barbara's gift to her director, Fritz Lang, was a gold lighter, and to her producer, Harriet Parsons, she gave gold and pearl earrings.

That's all today. See you Monday.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14—(INS)—Audrey Hepburn, the most exciting new personality on Broadway this season, has been cast for the lead in "Rosalind," a Sir James Barrie play. But between you and me and the gatepost, when "Rosalind" reaches the screen it will bear no resemblance whatsoever to the original Barrie play.

Philip and Julius Epstein, the twins, have scripted it, brought it up to date, and will direct it. The idea of Pat Duggan, the producer, was to start "Rosalind" immediately, but the Hepburn girl is such a hit in "Gigi" and she keeps building up new admirers, so it's decided to wait a few months before going into production.

The young Miss Hepburn plays a girl who keeps changing her name everytime she has a stage failure. Consequently she's saddled with four or five different monikers.

Just a week before Rita Hayworth did her big walkout at Columbia she gave this studio a two-year extension on her contract. Whatever happened to upset her came so suddenly the studio is still in a dither.

All hands were working to find stories for her and one of them was "Pal Joey," which Harry Cohn facetiously said "for Rita we'd have to call it 'Pal Josephine' and make the hero a girl."

Money had been spent, too, on research for "Salome," which Rita was to have done following the ill fated "Affair In Trinidad."

• — • — •

Interesting to hear that "Pick Up," the Hugo Haas independent bought by Columbia for $125,000 has made $950,000 in this country alone and will make possibly another half million in the world market. Very good for a picture that cost under $100,000 to make.

Haas makes "adult" pictures and in February he starts his fourth, "Fascination," about a cynical pianist. As usual, he'll write the screenplay, direct, produce, star and do everything but his own piano playing, I suppose.

Chatter in Hollywood: We might say they walked right in, turned around, and walked right out again in the case of Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Wilding.

They flew back to town from Las Vegas with Jean Simmons and Stewart Granger Tuesday night, and flew right back. They came back again last night and unless there is another change of plans they'll fly to Acapulco today.

The rumor that they plan to get married apparently frightened Liz and Mike, but there's one thing certain — they can't get married without the whole world knowing it. Liz has promised her mother that she won't do anything foolish, and her studio has stepped in and said "no, no," too.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hedy Lamarr flew in from Acapulco. It's a movie that brings her here. She was at the Mocambo with a man who no one seemed to recognize.

Groucho Marx and Kathleen Hughes, the actress, are getting around.

Oliver Hardy has been discovered by the kids in Van Nuys who see the old Laurel and Hardy comedies on TV, and they visit him. "Babe" (as Oliver is called) is recovering from a leg infection.

One of Marie Wilson's wedding gifts is a mink coat — now hold everything — for her dog, Hobbs! It's the gift of Sam Mannix, TV auxtioneer.

Steve Hannagan arrived in town yesterday to spend the holidays with the girl of his dreams. Yes, she's still Ann Sheridan.

Edmond O'Brien and the two children leave the end of next week to spend Christmas with Mrs. O'Brien (Olga San Juan) in New York.

The feeling in our town against a certain well known commentator is getting hotter and hotter and is due to flare in the open soon. A reporter, who is now working on inside material, has had some dillies dropped in his lap.

The cast and crew of "Clash By Night" presented Barbara Stanwyck with a small portable radio with a gold plate reading "To Our Miss N" Barbara's gift to her director, Fritz Lang, was a gold lighter, and to her producer, Harriet Parsons, she gave gold and pearl earrings.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Radio And Television

Songwriters In The Dark

I don't, as usual, know what the public is up to these days but "Sin," according to the Hit Parade people, is still the nation's favorite tune for the fourth week in a row. This deplorable state of affairs has led me to conduct a partial, completely unscientific survey to find out what the songwriters were thinking about. I like to keep a finger on the pulse of the songwriters, feeling that these minnesingers pretty accurately reflect the state of mind of the rest of us.

John Crosby

I don't know whether it means anything or not but most of the songsmiths are all lymning the virtues of slumber, of night, of dreams. "And So To Sleep Again," "A Kiss To Build A Dream On," "My Dream Christmas," "We Kiss In A Shadow," "Deep Night," "In The Cool Cool Cool Of The Evening," "Lovelight Night Of The Year"—those are just a few of the titles among the most popular network favorites. Frankly, I think this preoccupation with darkness is an unhealthy thing for Tin Pan Alley. Come on, lads—get out of bed. The world is waiting for the sunrise.

* * *

Milton Berle, as I suppose everyone now knows, has been signed up by NBC for roughly the next 112 years, a form of annuity or some such thing. I'm all for the comedian getting all the social security he can wring out of NBC, but I think the network is making a mistake trying to wring so much out of Berle. Berle is all over the place now. Very difficult to turn on any NBC-TV program without suddenly encountering Mr. Television—sometimes, as on the Kate Smith show, with disastrous results. It was on that show that Berle and Ted Collins, Miss Smith's mentor, locked horns in a personal vendetta that, I imagine, left a poor tsate in everyone's mouth.

Just yesterday, Mr. Berle popped up as guest on Howdy Doody's first radio program. Since this is written in advance of the event, I can't say how well Howdy fared at the hands of Mr. Berle who plays awfully rough both with his guests and his hosts on programs. (Howdy, I guess, is the first puppet to invade radio. Had lots of dummies on radio, but no puppets.)

* * *

The purpose of shooting Berle all over the place, as I gather it, is to hypo the rating of the other shows, Berle presumably having the same effect as adrenalin. Just the same, Berle is a expendable as anyone else, and I should think the network would try to husband his popularity a little more carefully. Not long ago, Berle dipped for the first time in years to No. 2 in the Neilsen ratings, second to Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts.

This is at least partly attributable to the fact that the Frank Sinatra show slotted opposite Berle on CBS has taken away a pretty husky slice of his audience. But a large part of the blame must rest on the Berle show itself. It's been pretty dreadful this year. Uncle Miltie is not entirely to blame either. He is an enormously energetic and gifted fellow; several times he has done wonders of improvisation with terriby tired material; he has worn at least as many wigs, baggy pants and funny jackets as last year—perhaps a few more. Still, some sort of spark is missing.

The Berle show needs not only some fresh gags it needs a heart.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD DIRECTING DOUBLE

A WEAPON of tremendous value when used at the right time, but of great danger to its wielder otherwise, is the lead-directing double of a No Trump game contract. The chief hazard comes from trying it when your partner doesn't know the meaning you attach to it and therefore fails to lead the suit you desire. In that case, your double only presents a bunch of extra points to the declarer. But if your partner knows the double asks him to open the dummy's first-bid suit, it may afford the only means of assuring the contract's defeat.

	♠ J 7 4 3 2 ♥ Q 8 ♦ A 10 2 ♣ A J 10
♠ 9 5 ♥ J 10 9 4 ♦ 7 5 4 ♣ K 9 3 2	N W E S	♠ A K Q 10 ♥ 7 6 3 2 ♦ K 9 ♣ 8 7 5
	♠ 8 6 ♥ A K 5 ♦ Q J 8 6 3 ♣ Q 6 4

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

If West had not known East meant his double of a No Trump game was calling for a lead of the dummy's spade suit, he would have treated it as having its natural meaning and would have opened his own suit, leading the heart J. That would have paved an easy road for South, who could have won that trick, given up one with the diamond finesse and assured himself all the tricks he required no matter whether East then scored his highest three spades or not, since the club finesse was "on."

But West knew exactly what his partner meant. He accordingly opened his highest spade, the 9. This put trousers on East's 10, guaranteeing four tricks in that suit. And since South couldn't find as many as nine except by getting several in diamonds, the K of that suit constituted the eventual contract-beater. So East's double caused defeat of the contract and prolonged the rubber, which his side then won by making a game on the next deal. Without his double, there would have been no next deal in that rubber.

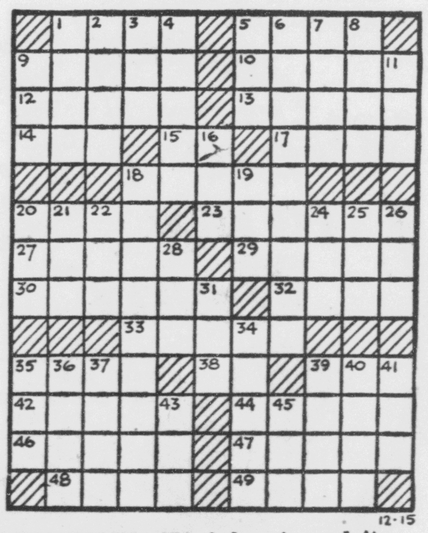
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Songwriters In The Dark

I don't, as usual, know what the public is up to these days but "Sin," according to the Hit Parade people, is still the nation's favorite tune for the fourth week in a row. This deplorable state of affairs has led me to conduct a partial, completely unscientific survey to find out what the songwriters were thinking about. I like to keep a finger on the pulse of the songwriters, feeling that these minnesingers pretty accurately reflect the state of mind of the rest of us.

John Crosby

I don't know whether it means anything or not but most of the songsmiths are all lymning the virtues of slumber, of night, of dreams. "And So To Sleep Again," "A Kiss To Build A Dream On," "My Dream Christmas," "We Kiss In A Shadow," "Deep Night," "In The Cool Cool Cool Of The Evening," "Lovelight Night Of The Year"—those are just a few of the titles among the most popular network favorites. Frankly, I think this preoccupation with darkness is an unhealthy thing for Tin Pan Alley. Come on, lads—get out of bed. The world is waiting for the sunrise.

• • •

Milton Berle, as I suppose everyone now knows, has been signed up by NBC for roughly the next 112 years, a form of annuity or some such thing. I'm all for the comedian getting all the social security he can wring out of NBC, but I think the network is making a mistake trying to wring so much out of Berle. Berle is all over the place now. Very difficult to turn on any NBC-TV program without suddenly encountering Mr. Television—sometimes, as on the Kate Smith show, with disastrous results. It was on that show that Berle and Ted Collins, Miss Smith's mentor, locked horns in a personal vendetta that, I imagine, left a poor taste in everyone's mouth.

Just yesterday, Mr. Berle popped up as guest on Howdy Doody's first radio program. Since this is written in advance of the event, I can't say how well Howdy fared at the hands of Mr. Berle who plays awfully rough both with his guests and his hosts on programs. (Howdy, I guess, is the first puppet to invade radio. Had lots of dummies on radio, but no puppets.)

• • •

The purpose of shooting Berle all over the place, as I gather it, is to hypo the rating of the other shows. Berle presumably having the same effect as adrenalin. Just the same, Berle is a expendable as anyone else, and I should think the network would try to husband his popularity a little more carefully. Not long ago, Berle dipped for the first time in years to No. 2 in the Neilsen ratings, second to Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts.

This is at least partly attributable to the fact that the Frank Sinatra show slotted opposite Berle on CBS has taken away a pretty husky slice of his audience. But a large part of the blame must rest on the Berle show itself. It's been pretty dreadful this year. Uncle Miltie is not entirely to blame either. He is an enormously energetic and gifted fellow; several times he has done wonders of improvisation with terribly tired material; he has worn at least as many wigs, baggy pants and funny jackets as last year—perhaps a few more. Still, some sort of spark is missing.

The Berle show needs not only some fresh gags it needs a heart.

LEAD DIRECTING DOUBLE

A WEAPON of tremendous value when used at the right time, but of great danger to its wielder otherwise, is the lead-directing double of a No Trump game contract. The chief hazard comes from trying it when your partner doesn't know the meaning you attach to it and therefore fails to lead the suit you desire. In that case, your double only presents a bunch of extra points to the declarer. But if your partner knows the double asks him to open the dummy's first-bid suit, it may afford the only means of assuring the contract's defeat.

	♠ J 7 4 3 2 ♥ Q 8 ♦ A 10 2 ♣ A J 10
♠ 9 5 ♥ J 10 9 4 ♦ 7 5 4 ♣ K 9 3 2	N W E S	♠ A K Q 10 ♥ 7 6 3 2 ♦ K 9 ♣ 8 7 5
	♠ 8 6 ♥ A K 5 ♦ Q J 8 6 3 ♣ Q 6 4

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

If West had not known East meant his double of a No Trump game was calling for a lead of the dummy's spade suit, he would have treated it as having its natural meaning and would have opened his own suit, leading the heart J. That would have paved an easy road for South, who could have won that trick, given up one with the diamond finesse and assured himself all the tricks he required no matter whether East then scored his highest three spades or not, since the club finesse was "on."

But West knew exactly what his partner meant. He accordingly opened his highest spade, the 9. This put trousers on East's 10, guaranteeing four tricks in that suit. And since South couldn't find as many as nine except by getting several in diamonds, the K of that suit constituted the eventual contract-beater. So East's double caused defeat of the contract and prolonged the rubber, which his side then won by making a game on the next deal. Without his double, there would have been no next deal in that rubber.

Songwriters In The Dark

I don't, as usual, know what the public is up to these days but "Sin," according to the Hit Parade people, is still the nation's favorite tune for the fourth week in a row. This deplorable state of affairs has led me to conduct a partial, completely unscientific survey to find out what the songwriters were thinking about. I like to keep a finger on the pulse of the songwriters, feeling that these minnesingers pretty accurately reflect the state of mind of the rest of us.

John Crosby

I don't know whether it means anything or not but most of the songsmiths are all lymning the virtues of slumber, of night, of dreams. "And So To Sleep Again," "A Kiss To Build A Dream On," "My Dream Christmas," "We Kiss In A Shadow," "Deep Night," "In The Cool Cool Cool Of The Evening," "Lovelight Night Of The Year"—those are just a few of the titles among the most popular network favorites. Frankly, I think this preoccupation with darkness is an unhealthy thing for Tin Pan Alley. Come on, lads—get out of bed. The world is waiting for the sunrise.

* * *

Milton Berle, as I suppose everyone now knows, has been signed up by NBC for roughly the next 112 years, a form of annuity or some such thing. I'm all for the comedian getting all the social security he can wring out of NBC, but I think the network is making a mistake trying to wring so much out of Berle. Berle is all over the place now. Very difficult to turn on any NBC-TV program without suddenly encountering Mr. Television—sometimes, as on the Kate Smith show, with disastrous results. It was on that show that Berle and Ted Collins, Miss Smith's mentor, locked horns in a personal vendetta that, I imagine, left a poor tsate in everyone's mouth.

Just yesterday, Mr. Berle popped up as guest on Howdy Doody's first radio program. Since this is written in advance of the event, I can't say how well Howdy fared at the hands of Mr. Berle who plays awfully rough both with his guests and his hosts on programs. (Howdy, I guess, is the first puppet to invade radio. Had lots of dummies on radio, but no puppets.)

The purpose of shooting Berle all over the place, as I gather it, is to hypo the rating of the other shows, Berle presumably having the same effect as adrenalin. Just the same, Berle is a expendable as anyone else, and I should think the network would try to husband his popularity a little more carefully. Not long ago, Berle dipped for the first time in years to No. 2 in the Neilsen ratings, second to Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts.

This is at least partly attributable to the fact that the Frank Sinatra show slotted opposite Berle on CBS has taken away a pretty husky slice of his audience. But a large part of the blame must rest on the Berle show itself. It's been pretty dreadful this year. Uncle Miltie is not entirely to blame either. He is an enormously energetic and gifted fellow; several times he has done wonders of improvisation with terribly tired material; he has worn at least as many wigs, baggy pants and funny jackets as last year—perhaps a few more. Still, some sort of spark is missing.

The Berle show needs not only some fresh gags it needs a heart.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Dr. M. E. B. Owens wishes to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their friends for their kindness and sympathy extended during the recent sad bereavement. They wish also to thank those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. We especially thank the minister, Rev. Kenneth Hayes.

THE FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my beloved son, John William (Bill) Spriggs, who was fatally injured 4 years ago, Dec. 15, 1947.

YOUR MEMORY IS AS FRESH TODAY AS IN THE HOUR YOU PASSED AWAY.

Sadly missed by his mother, MRS. JOSEPH SPRIGGS

In loving memory of our son and brother, Pfc. Charles Lou Fleegle, who was killed in the Battle of Rollesbroich, Germany, December 15, 1944.

We had a little treasure once,
He was our joy and pride,
We loved him ah perhaps too well,
For soon he slept and died.
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever passed away.

Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER and BROTHER.

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Dr. M. E. B. Owens wishes to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their friends for their kindness and sympathy extended during the recent sad bereavement. They wish also to thank those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. We especially thank the minister, Rev. Kenneth Hayes.

THE FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my beloved son, John William (Bill) Spriggs, who was fatally injured 4 years ago, Dec. 15, 1947.

YOUR MEMORY IS AS FRESH TODAY AS IN THE HOUR YOU PASSED AWAY.

Sadly missed by his mother,
MRS. JOSEPH SPRIGGS

In loving memory of our son and brother, Pfc. Charles Lou Fleegle, who was killed in the Battle of Rollesbroich, Germany, December 15, 1944.

We had a little treasure once,
He was our joy and pride,
We loved him ah perhaps too well,
For soon he slept and died
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever passed away.

Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER and BROTHER.

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Dr. M. E. B. Owens wishes to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their friends for their kindness and sympathy extended during the recent sad bereavement. They wish also to thank those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. We especially thank the minister, Rev. Kenneth Hayes.

THE FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my beloved son, John William (Bill) Spriggs, who was fatally injured 4 years ago, Dec. 15, 1947.

YOUR MEMORY IS AS FRESH TODAY AS IN THE HOUR YOU PASSED AWAY.

Sadly missed by his mother, MRS. JOSEPH SPRIGGS

In loving memory of our son and brother, Pfc. Charles Lou Fleegle, who was killed in the Battle of Rollesbroich, Germany, December 15, 1944.

We had a little treasure once,
He was our joy and pride,
We loved him ah perhaps too well,
For soon he slept and died.
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever passed away.

Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER and BROTHER.

Wills Admitted For Probate

Judges of the Orphans Court had a busy session yesterday morning with four wills being admitted to probate in addition to the routine procedures of the court.

The will of Bernadena Nutt Kiefer, this city, was admitted to probate with a nephew, William F Goetz and his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Goetz as executors. Bond of $10,000 was set for the executors. Mr. Goetz was named principal beneficiary.

The sum of $500 was left to SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church for masses for the Kiefer family.

The will of Virgie Montrose Dennison of Frostburg, was probated with Lona Mauk, a sister, and Helen D. Syers, a niece, being named executors. The two executors were bequeathed $500 each and Virgie Pearl Hawks was also left $500.

The will of Laurence E. McKenzie names his daughter, Bessie W. McKenzie, as executrix. The estate is to be divided between the executrix, Genevieve M. McKenzie and Phyllis A. McKenzie, two other daughters of the deceased, and Rose Ann Newhouse, a granddaughter.

The will of Alice Twigg Schneider names Edward J. Ryan and the Liberty Trust Company as executors. Ryan was the principal beneficiary.

$50,000 Suit Is Filed In Court

Suit was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday morning by a Hyndman, Pa., man for $50,000 as a result of a two-car crash in which he states he lost his left arm.

Lloyd J. Martz, of Hyndman, docketed the suit through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan, against Harold Turner, of Schellsburg, Pa., who is listed as a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

The declaration states Martz was driving towards Cumberland on July 13, 1950 about 11 p. m. when a machine operated by Turner in the opposite direction crashed into him headon.

Martz claims that Turner was operating his car in a negligent manner and was on the left hand side of the road at a point known as "Stair's Hill" when the crash took place.

Martz said the impact caused his machine to upset and as a result his left arm was torn loose at the shoulder. Heavy medical and hospital expenses and permanent injuries are listed by Martz.

Sing Feature Set By Church

Stock Market Unchanged By Overall Sluggishness

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—There was good demand for a fairly broad group of leading issues today in the stock market, but an overall sluggishness left the list as a whole little better than steady.

In a featured position on the upside were air lines, utilities, motors, chemicals, and aircrafts.

Sluggishness was apparent in steels, rubbers, merchandising shares, radio-television, rails, and metals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchange at $97.90, the third time this week that the average hasn't moved. Only on one day was there a major movement and that was down.

Detroit Edison provided the first feature of the day by opening on a block of 10,000 shares up one, and it closed up 1⅛ at 23⅝.

Packard late in the session traded in a couple of blocks amounting to 17,100 shares up ¼ and closed up ⅜ at 4⅞.

At the top of the most active list was the Milwaukee Road up 1⅛ at 21½ with 48,100 shares traded.

With the Associated Press average unchanged at $97.90, the industrial component ended unchanged, rails were down 20 cents, and utilities were up 10 cents.

Volume amounted to 1,360,000 shares as compared with yesterday's 1,380,000 shares.

To flatter your foot, do you know which designs you should choose? The answers are given today.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Because of better nutrition and more athletic pursuits, the foot of today's woman is sizes bigger than her grandmother's. But does that mean that the trim, neat foot has slipped on the list of feminine charms in the eyes of the male? Definitely not. Still, in the main, the feminine feet that one observes these days are less than charming. But size is no alibi. Shoes today are marvelously designed to proportion the present woman's "footage" to her build. The trouble is that too few women take advantage of this fact.

Shoe Flattery

More care in selecting your shoes for their flattery, instead of merely their style, will go a long way toward minimizing the size of your foot. A plain, medium, or high-heeled pump cut in a low V at the instep and slim in the toe shortens and slenderizes the foot. At the moment, this vamp is high in fashion for general and evening wear and therefore easy to find.

Be careful of your shoe's detailing if you wish to camouflage its size and shape. For all types of wear, choose vertical or diagonal stitching to minimize width. A bow or a narrow strap across the instep will break length. But an ankle strap dangerously foreshortens both the foot and leg.

Shoes for sports and sturdy wear —flats, walkers, loafers and workers —are apt to make your feet look bigger. For this reason, select those with slenderizing details and make sure that they fit neatly.

If most of the time you wish you could hide your feet, never be tempted by flimsy, fancy or loud-colored gear. Stick to conservative styles and colors in shoes and to medium-dark shades of hose.

Foot Work

After collecting a flattering shoe wardrobe, keep it groomed to perfection. Try cleaning your shoes when you take them off instead of when you're in a rush to put them on. If you have to ponder as to whether a heel needs straightening, it does!

Part of any foot's beauty depends on its disposal. Never make a sprawling spectacle of your extremities. There are a dozen or more positions in which to show them prettily. (For exact instructions, see the box below.) Any position is graceful if you keep your feet close together, pulled in toward your body, and with the knees just touching.

It's just as easy to make your feet an eyeful as an eye sore!

Wills Admitted For Probate

Judges of the Orphans Court had a busy session yesterday morning with four wills being admitted to probate in addition to the routine procedures of the court.

The will of Bernadena Nutt Kiefer, this city, was admitted to probate with a nephew, William F Goetz and his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Goetz as executors. Bond of $10,000 was set for the executors. Mr. Goetz was named principal beneficiary.

The sum of $500 was left to SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church for masses for the Kiefer family.

The will of Virgie Montrose Dennison of Frostburg, was probated with Lona Mauk, a sister, and Helen D. Syers, a niece, being named executors. The two executors were bequeathed $500 each and Virgie Pearl Hawks was also left $500.

The will of Laurence E. McKenzie names his daughter, Bessie W. McKenzie, as executrix. The estate is to be divided between the executrix, Genevieve M. McKenzie and Phyllis A. McKenzie, two other daughters of the deceased, and Rose Ann Newhouse, a granddaughter.

The will of Alice Twigg Schneider names Edward J. Ryan and the Liberty Trust Company as executors. Ryan was the principal beneficiary.

$50,000 Suit Is Filed In Court

Suit was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday morning by a Hyndman, Pa., man for $50,000 as a result of a two-car crash in which he states he lost his left arm.

Lloyd J. Martz, of Hyndman, docketed the suit through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan, against Harold Turner, of Schellsburg, Pa., who is listed as a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

The declaration states Martz was driving towards Cumberland on July 13, 1950 about 11 p. m. when a machine operated by Turner in the opposite direction crashed into him headon.

Martz claims that Turner was operating his car in a negligent manner and was on the left hand side of the road at a point known as "Stair's Hill" when the crash took place.

Martz said the impact caused his machine to upset and as a result his left arm was torn loose at the shoulder. Heavy medical and hospital expenses and permanent injuries are listed by Martz.

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant from the Respondent and to have the permanent custody, guardianship, and control of Charles Owen Smith to be awarded unto the Complainant herein.

The Bill states that the parties were married on March 17, 1947, and that they lived together until the 24th day of April, 1950; that one child was born to the parties, namely, Charles Owen Smith, who is in the custody of the Complainant; and that the Respondent has deserted and abandoned the Complainant, which abandonment has continued for more than 18 months; and the Complainant prays for a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII and the custody of the said infant child, Charles Owen Smith.

Stock Market Unchanged By Overall Sluggishness

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—There was good demand for a fairly broad group of leading issues today in the stock market, but an overall sluggishness left the list as a whole little better than steady.

In a featured position on the upside were air lines, utilities, motors, chemicals, and aircrafts.

Sluggishness was apparent in steels, rubbers, merchandising shares, radio-television, rails, and metals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchange at $97.90, the third time this week that the average hasn't moved. Only on one day was there a major movement and that was down.

Detroit Edison provided the first feature of the day by opening on a block of 10,000 shares up one, and it closed up 1⅛ at 23⅜.

Packard late in the session traded in a couple of blocks amounting to 17,100 shares up ¼ and closed up ⅜ at 4⅞.

At the top of the most active list was the Milwaukee Road up 1⅛ at 21½ with 48,100 shares traded.

With the Associated Press average unchanged at $97.90, the industrial component ended unchanged, rails were down 20 cents, and utilities were up 10 cents.

Volume amounted to 1,360,000 shares as compared with yesterday's 1,380,000 shares.

To flatter your foot, do you know which designs you should choose? The answers are given today.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Because of better nutrition and more athletic pursuits, the foot of today's woman is sizes bigger than her grandmother's. But does that mean that the trim, neat foot has slipped on the list of feminine charms in the eyes of the male? Definitely not. Still, in the main, the feminine feet that one observes these days are less than charming. But size is no alibi. Shoes today are marvelously designed to proportion the present woman's "footage" to her build. The trouble is that too few women take advantage of this fact.

Shoe Flattery

More care in selecting your shoes for their flattery, instead of merely their style, will go a long way toward minimizing the size of your foot. A plain, medium, or high-heeled pump cut in a low V at the instep and slim in the toe shortens and slenderizes the foot. At the moment, this vamp is high in fashion for general and evening wear and therefore easy to find.

Be careful of your shoe's detailing if you wish to camouflage its size and shape. For all types of wear, choose vertical or diagonal stitching to minimize width. A bow or a narrow strap across the instep will break length. But an ankle strap dangerously foreshortens both the foot and leg.

Shoes for sports and sturdy wear—flats, walkers, loafers and workers—are apt to make your feet look bigger. For this reason, select those with slenderizing details and make sure that they fit neatly.

If most of the time you wish you could hide your feet, never be tempted by flimsy, fancy or loud-colored gear. Stick to conservative styles and colors in shoes and to medium-dark shades of hose.

Foot Work

After collecting a flattering shoe wardrobe, keep it groomed to perfection. Try cleaning your shoes when you take them off instead of when you're in a rush to put them on. If you have to ponder as to whether a heel needs straightening, it does!

Part of any foot's beauty depends on its disposal. Never make a sprawling spectacle of your extremities. There are a dozen or more positions in which to show them prettily. (For exact instructions, see the box below.) Any position is graceful if you keep your feet close together, pulled in toward your body, and with the knees just touching.

It's just as easy to make your feet an eyeful as an eye sore!

P S. from J. R. P.

Wills Admitted For Probate

Judges of the Orphans Court had a busy session yesterday morning with four wills being admitted to probate in addition to the routine procedures of the court.

The will of Bernadena Nutt Kiefer, this city, was admitted to probate with a nephew, William F Goetz and his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Goetz as executors. Bond of $10,000 was set for the executors. Mr. Goetz was named principal beneficiary.

The sum of $500 was left to SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church for masses for the Kiefer family.

The will of Virgie Montrose Dennison of Frostburg, was probated with Lona Mauk, a sister, and Helen D. Syers, a niece, being named executors. The two executors were bequeathed $500 each and Virgie Pearl Hawks was also left $500.

The will of Laurence E. McKenzie names his daughter, Bessie W. McKenzie, as executrix. The estate is to be divided between the executrix, Genevieve M. McKenzie and Phyllis A. McKenzie, two other daughters of the deceased, and Rose Ann Newhouse, a granddaughter.

The will of Alice Twigg Schneider names Edward J. Ryan and the Liberty Trust Company as executors. Ryan was the principal beneficiary.

$50,000 Suit Is Filed In Court

Suit was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday morning by a Hyndman, Pa., man for $50,000 as a result of a two-car crash in which he states he lost his left arm.

Lloyd J. Martz, of Hyndman, docketed the suit through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan, against Harold Turner, of Schellsburg, Pa., who is listed as a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

The declaration states Martz was driving towards Cumberland on July 13, 1950 about 11 p. m. when a machine operated by Turner in the opposite direction crashed into him headon.

Martz claims that Turner was operating his car in a negligent manner and was on the left hand side of the road at a point known as "Stair's Hill" when the crash took place.

Martz said the impact caused his machine to upset and as a result his left arm was torn loose at the shoulder. Heavy medical and hospital expenses and permanent injuries are listed by Martz.

Stock Market Unchanged By Overall Sluggishness

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—There was good demand for a fairly broad group of leading issues today in the stock market, but an overall sluggishness left the list as a whole little better than steady.

In a featured position on the upside were air lines, utilities, motors, chemicals, and aircrafts.

Sluggishness was apparent in steels, rubbers, merchandising shares, radio-television, rails, and metals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchange at $97.90, the third time this week that the average hasn't moved. Only on one day was there a major movement and that was down.

Detroit Edison provided the first feature of the day by opening on a block of 10,000 shares up one, and it closed up 1⅛ at 23⅜.

Packard late in the session traded in a couple of blocks amounting to 17,100 shares up ¼ and closed up ⅜ at 4⅞.

At the top of the most active list was the Milwaukee Road up 1⅛ at 21½ with 48,100 shares traded.

With the Associated Press average unchanged at $97.90, the industrial component ended unchanged, rails were down 20 cents, and utilities were up 10 cents.

Volume amounted to 1,360,000 shares as compared with yesterday's 1,380,000 shares.

To flatter your foot, do you know which designs you should choose? The answers are given today.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Because of better nutrition and more athletic pursuits, the foot of today's woman is sizes bigger than her grandmother's. But does that mean that the trim, neat foot has slipped on the list of feminine charms in the eyes of the male? Definitely not. Still, in the main, the feminine feet that one observes these days are less than charming. But size is no alibi. Shoes today are marvelously designed to proportion the present woman's "footage" to her build. The trouble is that too few women take advantage of this fact.

Shoe Flattery

More care in selecting your shoes for their flattery, instead of merely their style, will go a long way toward minimizing the size of your foot. A plain, medium, or high-heeled pump cut in a low V at the instep and slim in the toe shortens and slenderizes the foot. At the moment, this vamp is high in fashion for general and evening wear and therefore easy to find.

Be careful of your shoe's detailing if you wish to camoufl

Snow Blankets Tri-State

Traffic Halted By Worst Storm In Many Years

All Roads Open But Dangerous

BULLETIN

All westbound bus transportation from the Baltimore-Washington—area to Cumberland was temporarily cancelled late last night due to traffic tieups in the two cities.

A Blue Ridge Bus Company spokesman here said he expected trips to be resumed early this morning. He said the stoppage affected all trips west of Hagerstown.

The worst winter weather in years smothered the Tri-State area under six to 12 inches of snow yesterday, all but paralyzing traffic and turning broad highways into slippery, drifted lanes.

State Police throughout Maryland and nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania were urging motorists not to travel unless absolutely necessary.

No Western Maryland roads were considered passable without chains last night, although State Roads Commission plow and cinder crews worked all day to clear the highways.

By nightfall, snow which had been falling since 10:40 a. m. had turned to freezing rain, forming an icy crust over the five to six inches of snow on Cumberland streets and sidewalks.

Forecasters predicted the snow might go deeper than a foot in rugged Garrett County, which already had two inches on the ground when the storm hit.

No serious highway accidents had been reported by late last night, but a host of minor, fender-crumpling collisions was laid to slippery streets and roads.

City buses in Cumberland were running 15 minutes to near an hour behind schedule. Intercity buses were as much as an hour and a half late, but trains were only slightly affected.

Traffic on most local streets slowed to a virtual halt at the evening rush hour. In many sections of the city, cars went out of control, turned sideways and blocked main thoroughfares for several minutes.

Everywhere in the area, traffic was paralyzed by the suddenness of the storm, which caught many drivers without chains. The snow piled up quickly, falling at about an inch an hour.

Long lines of cars were bogged down on hills, and several carloads of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory workers were delayed about 80 minutes after an auto skidded and blocked Pinto Road at the bridge near the Post Office.

Everywhere, highways were dangerous. The State Roads Commission called out all available plow and cinder crews. Some 150 to 200 men worked against time to clear Allegany and Garrett County roads before dark.

At Frostburg, four plow crews and two cinder trucks were still battling over six inches of snow late last night.

Temperatures in nearly all Tri-State sections were in the 20s and thermometers were still dropping. Freezing rain was falling at Altamont, Terra Alta, W. Va., Oakland, Thomas, Kingwood, Romney and Keyser, W. Va., and the mercury was below 20 degrees at Rockwood and Deal, Pa.

By late last night, all major highways were open, but most were considered dangerous. There seemed no hope of early relief from hazardous highway conditions, with temperatures expected to drop even lower today.

Games Cancelled, Schools Closed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Snow became rain in much of West Virginia late Friday, turning roads into layers of slush, but Highways remained hazardous in the Northern and Eastern Panhandle as snow continued to fall.

In those snow-hit areas sports events were cancelled and many schools were closed. There were few major accidents reported.

Road Commission officials at Moundsville said snow reached depths of five and six inches in Ohio and Marshall counties. Three and one-half inches fell on Wheeling. All schools in Wheeling were closed.

Snow had turned to rain in most of the North-Central area except in Monongalia and Preston counties, where three to four inches of snow fell.

The Road Commission office at Keyser said it was snowing very hard in the vicinity, with depths up to three inches. Officials urged the use of chains throughout the area.

Temperatures there dropped to 27 degrees.

The Road Commission said driving remained dangerous in the Elkins area, where rain followed snow late in the day.

Beerman Named To Scrap Drive Committee Here

Old Metal Report Given By Chamber

Michael Beerman, 106 Luteman Road, has been named to the Scrap Mobilization Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, Anthony Saeli, manager, announced yesterday.

Beerman will head the auto wreckers division of the committee and accelerate the flow of auto scrap into channels of production. Allegany, Garrett and Mineral counties are included in the drive for scrap metal in an effort to alleviate the critical shortage of raw materials prevalent in area steel mills.

John A. Jones, chairman of the current campaign, said yesterday a total of 373 tons of scrap metal has been reported turned in by area industries last month. Crystal Laundry reported turning in 4,000 pounds and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke turned in 184,000 pounds.

The highest amount of scrap was reported turned in by the Celanese Corporation with a total of 464,495 pounds. The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company gave a figure of 95,300 pounds. Other area industries which turned in scrap are Union Firebrick Company at Jennings, Georges Creek Coal Company, and Livingstone Machinery and Tool Company at Frostburg.

A total of over 40,000 pounds of scrap has been reported turned in at Mineral County and farmers of that county have been cooperative in collecting worn out farm implements and equipment in an effort to swell the stock piles of steel mills.

Types of metals being collected include iron, steel, copper, brass, stainless steel as well as non-ferrous and miscellaneous metals. Saeli declared yesterday that "steel mills are operating on a dangerously short supply of scrap with some operating on a hand-to-mouth, day-to-day basis." Area industries are asked to submit their scrap reports, he said.

Christmas Program Is Set At Bowling Green

On Wednesday, December 19, at 7 p. m., the annual Christmas party for the children of the Bowling Green community will be held at St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The party is being sponsored by the church school, volunteer firemen and Women's Auxiliary. On Friday evening the community Christmas tree on the lawn of the church will be lighted. A carol sing will be held at 7:30 p. m. around the tree. The Youth Fellowship will go caroling afterward and return to the parsonage for refreshments.

Firemen Extinguish Two Unusual Blazes

Two unusual fires occurred in Cumberland yesterday. At 8:08 a. m. South End firemen answered a call at 115 West First Street. Ashes from a furnace were placed near a wooden coal bin and the partition caught fire.

Last evening at 6:52 o'clock Central firemen went to 428 North Centre Street. Children had been melting some candles in the kitchen of that residence and the wax caught fire. No damage was reported in either fire.

Two LaSalle Seniors Enter Science Talent Competition

Two LaSalle High School seniors have entered the 11th annual Science Talent Search, in which $11,000 in scholarships will be awarded.

The local contestants are John Stevens, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stevens, 809 Louisiana Avenue, and Eugene May, also 17, son of Rev. and Mrs. Eugene May of Flintstone.

As part of the preliminary examinations which they took Thursday under supervision of Brother G. Nicholas, LaSalle Science instructor, both boys submitted reports titled "My Scientific Project."

Stevens wrote his experiments in the internal dissection of the Japanese Beetle. He is trying to find a way to exterminate beetle grubs, which nest underground during the winter.

May has been experimenting with homemade rockets. In his report, he said some types he has developed have attained heights of 70 to 100 feet. He makes his own powder.

The Science Talent Search has been conducted annually since 1942 by Westinghouse Corporation to find exceptional scientific talent in high school students.

Forty boys and girls who lead in preliminary examinations will be given expenses-paid trips to Washington next spring to attend the Science Talent Institute. While there, they will take the final scholarship examinations.

One $2,800 scholarship and one $2,000 grant will be awarded. Eight contestants will be awarded $400 scholarships, and another $3,000 in awards will be granted.

Md. Residents Named To National Resolutions Group

Maryland has two members on the National Resolutions committee of the National Farm Bureau Federation. They are Wilson Heaps, Harford county, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau; and Mrs. John Flook, Boonsboro, president of the Associated Women.

Yesterday, the closing day of the week long convention, the committee passed a resolution working against the Brannon plan for farm subsidies, and a "Free America as in the Bill of Rights."

Miss Ruth Clauson, Hazen Road, president of the Allegany County Association, Mrs. Charles Harvey, Shaft; Mrs. Marshal Porter, Eckhart; and Mrs. Marian Appel, North Branch, joined the Maryland members attending the convention of the National Federation Farm Bureau held in The Hilton Hotel, Chicago, this week. Delegates represented 46 states.

Among prominent speakers was Dr. George F. Bond, Valley Clinic and Hospital, Bat Cove, N. C., who spoke on "The Modern Country Doctor." He stressed that the country does not need socialized medicine, but rather doctors trained to be country doctors with country hospitals to enable them to care for more patients.

Three professors from the Department of Agricultural Economics, Michigan State College, East Lansing, spoke on Capitalism, Communism and Socialism.

Emphasizing that the Farm Bureau is a family organization, the youth had speakers, programs and folk dancing while the adults met.

Potomac Park Christmas Plans Set By Committees

Christmas plans at Potomac Park are nearing completion. The annual community tree has been placed along McMullen Highway and arrangements are being made to install the lights on the 30-foot fir.

The tree which was obtained by a group of men from Potomac Park at Canaan Valley Sunday has been placed in a stand by a Potomac Edison Company maintenance crew.

This year holiday plans are sponsored jointly by the Improvement Association and the Evangelical United Brethren Church. A Nativity scene is being placed in front of the church and upon completion, appropriate tree lighting ceremonies will be held.

A committee will be appointed at the Monday night meeting to make detailed arrangements and set a date for the banquet, sometime in January. Corps Vice-President Joseph Macon will call the meeting to order promptly.

Each year the corps stages the banquet to honor the 1929 corps which won the National VFW championship that year.

Two Applicants For Rec Post Are Interviewed

Board Will Delay Decision

The Recreation Board yesterday interviewed two applicants for the position of city recreation director, but voted to postpone any recommendation until it can talk to other applicants.

Five applicants were scheduled to appear before the board yesterday, but inclement weather was believed responsible for the failure of two to appear. Another wrote that Christmas plans in his city would prevent his coming here before the holidays.

A member of the board said not all applicants had been expected yesterday, since notices were mailed only Sunday.

He said a field of several applicants will be screened carefully before the board makes any recommendation to the Mayor and Council for appointment.

Further interviews, he said, are expected to be held in a week or 10 days.

The board decided last week to send offers to prospective applicants after meeting with J. W. Faust, New York area field director of the National Recreation Association.

Meanwhile, the present director, Edmund F. Hoey, wound up his last day of work yesterday.

Hoey, who has resigned effective December 31, will begin a two-weeks vacation Monday before reporting for work in a new position in Baltimore County.

Property Sold

James G. McKee and Marjorie R. McKee have sold property at Allegany Grove to Charles F. Schelble, Jr., and Corrinne Marthalee Schelble for about $9,000, according to a deed filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court.

Committee Backs 12 Practices For County Farmers

PMA Will Offer Two New Plans

Twelve practices, including two never before tried here and two others not on the 1951 program, were recommended for the County Production and Marketing Administration Committee for 1952 at a meeting yesterday morning of the County Agricultural Resources Committee.

These recommendations will be forwarded to the State PMA Committee at College Park and if approved, as anticipated, will be included in a handbook which the PMA Committee will send to the more than 900 county farmers early in January.

Sub-Soiling

One of the new recommended practices, according to Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, PMA committee clerk, is sub-soiling to permit better penetration of water. A committee member explained that through constant tillage and plowing the sub-soil, some eight to 20 inches below the surface, becomes hard and water seeping into the soil will not pentrate it. The objective of the practice is to get farmers to break up this hard sub-soil so that the water can penetrate it to full advantage.

Another brand new practice is the establishment of permanent sod waterways to dispose of excess water without causing erosion.

Two other practices endorsed by the committee for 1952 were not on the PMA list during 1951. These are improving stands of forest trees and establishment of permanent pastures.

Eight Others

The other eight practices, all of which were operative this year, include permanent open drainage ditches, tile drainage ditches, contour strip cropping, terracing, constructing permanent fences to protect farm woodland from grazing, winter cover crops, liming materials and phosphate and potash.

Members of the Agricultural Resources Conservation Committee who attended yesterday morning's meeting were Albert O'Neal, chairman; James H. Weimer and L. B. Shaw, all members of the County PMA Committee; County Agent Ralph F. McHenry, Soil Conservationist William Nace, Soil Conservation Aides Martin Gordon and Stuart Delbrook; District Forester William H. Johnson, Ernest Slider, member of the Allegany Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, and Richard Carson, field representative of the State PMA Committee in College Park, and Miss Hoover.

The PMA office at 37 Washington Street will be closed both on December 24, and December 31. To make up for these Monday holidays the office will be open on the following Saturdays, December 29 and January 5.

Arbitration Hearing Held At Court House

An arbitration hearing was held in the auxiliary court room at the Court House yesterday in a dispute involving Local No. 1874, Textile Workers of America, and Celanese Corporation of America.

The dispute involved an alleged contract violation in the Acetone Recovery Department at Amcelle. Samuel H. Jaffee of Washington, D. C., the arbitrator, will announce his decision in about a month.

Resident Is Attending Linoleum Convention

Robert L. Schubert, Baltimore Pike, of the firm of Felix Half & Brother, Inc., is attending the 30th annual convention of wholesale distributors of the Armstrong Cork Company Line of linoleum at Lancaster, Pa.

The two-day convention program includes dramatic presentations and talks by Armstrong executives on current merchandising and production activity.

Lions Christmas Treat Planned For Wednesday

The annual Lions Club Christmas party and treat for underpriveleged children of Cumberland will be held Wednesday in the gymnasium of Central YMCA.

The affair will get underway at 12 noon, according to J. K. Snyder, chairman of arrangements. Santa will be on hand to give out candy, nuts and gifts to the children. During the turkey dinner music will be provided by the Fort Hill High School Band and the choral group from Allegany High School will sing several selections appropriate to the Christmas season. Chairman Snyder asks as many Lions as possible to be at Central YMCA Tuesday to assist in preliminary work.

Allegany High Plans Christmas Assemblies

Pageants Scheduled For Wednesday

Christmas preparations at Allegany High School will reach the high musical note when pageants are presented at both the junior and senior high school assemblies next Wednesday morning.

The same pageant will be offered at the junior high assembly at 10 a. m. and again at the senior assembly at 10:45 a. m. Miss Dorothy Willison, vocal music teacher at Allegany, said the chief difference in the two assemblies will be that the singers will be from different organizations.

Vested Choir

Miss Willison's senior high choir, vested in blue and white robes, will sing traditional Christmas carols from the auditorium balcony while pantomimes are enacted on the stage. Each pantomime will be introduced with a brief scripture reader by Bernard Beerman from off stage.

As the choir sings "Down Through The Chimney" the curtains will part showing Santa Claus and a little girl. Bells will be rung while the singers present "The Carol of The Bells."

Segments of the choir will sing other carols. "The First Noel" will be sung by an octet of four girls and four boys. Nine girls, forming "The Musettes," will sing "Glory To God." The boys will offer "O Holy Night." Solo parts will be sung by Patricia Roberson and Ann Dixon while the choir sings "I Wonder As I Wander."

Carry Candles

After "Silent Night" is sung the choir members, all carrying lighted candles, will proceed to the stage for the finale, "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Accompaniment will be provided by the Allegany orchestra, directed by S. Lua Sykes.

For the junior high assembly, five different musical units, directed by Morris C. O'Neill, will blend their talents. These groups are the junior gleemen, the junior glee club, junior choral club, treble clef club and junior choir.

The public is invited to attend both Wednesday assemblies.

The treble clef club will sing at Allegany Hospital and Queen City Station Friday, December 21.

Mr. Owens operated his shop until 1934 when he moved to Oakland. During this time he had become very active in politics with the Democratic party. At Oakland, he served four years as deputy sheriff of Garrett County. Later he was elected Garrett County's sheriff and served for three years.

In 1941, Mr. Owens resigned as sheriff and went to Baltimore to work in the ship yards during World War II. Returning to Kitzmiller in 1945, Mr. Owens reopened his barber business in the old Kitzmiller Post Office building. He remained in this business until his death.

Answer Filed In Condemnation

An answer denying the necessity for the Board of Education to acquire 4.7 acres of land adjacent to the new Central High School property near Lonaconing, has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court for the Maryland Fuel Company by Walter C. Capper, attorney, and James Jenkins, company president.

William L. Wilson, Jr., attorney for the Board of Education, filed a condemnation suit against the Maryland Fuel Company November 15, seeking 4.7 acres of land.

The defendant's answer contends it is not necessary for the Board of Education to acquire all of the property in question for public school purposes. The defendant also denies that the Board of Education had made any attempt to purchase the property and has no right to condemn the property. The school is being constructed about three-quarters of a mile southwest of Lonaconing, on the road to Barton.

Beerman Named To Scrap Drive Committee Here

Old Metal Report Given By Chamber

Michael Beerman, 106 Luteman Road, has been named to the Scrap Mobilization Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, Anthony Saeli, manager, announced yesterday.

Beerman will head the auto wreckers division of the committee and accelerate the flow of auto scrap into channels of production. Allegany, Garrett and Mineral counties are included in the drive for scrap metal in an effort to alleviate the critical shortage of raw materials prevalent in area steel mills.

John A. Jones, chairman of the current campaign, said yesterday a total of 373 tons of scrap metal has been reported turned in by area industries last month. Crystal Laundry reported turning in 4,000 pounds and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke turned in 184,000 pounds.

The highest amount of scrap was reported turned in by the Celanese Corporation with a total of 464,495 pounds. The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company gave a figure of 95,300 pounds. Other area industries which turned in scrap are Union Firebrick Company at Jennings, Georges Creek Coal Company, and Livingstone Machinery and Tool Company at Frostburg.

A total of over 40,000 pounds of scrap has been reported turned in at Mineral County and farmers of that county have been cooperative in collecting worn out farm implements and equipment in an effort to swell the stock piles of steel mills.

Types of metals being collected include iron, steel, copper, brass, stainless steel as well as non-ferrous and miscellaneous metals. Saeli declared yesterday that "steel mills are operating on a dangerously short supply of scrap with some operating on a hand-to-mouth, day-to-day basis." Area industries are asked to submit their scrap reports, he said.

Two LaSalle Seniors Enter Science Talent Competition

Two LaSalle High School seniors have entered the 11th annual Science Talent Search, in which $11,000 in scholarships will be awarded.

The local contestants are John Stevens, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stevens, 809 Louisiana Avenue, and Eugene May, also 17, son of Rev. and Mrs. Eugene May of Flintstone.

As part of the preliminary examinations which they took Thursday under supervision of Brother G. Nicholas, LaSalle Science instructor, both boys submitted reports titled "My Scientific Project."

Stevens wrote his experiments in the internal dissection of the Japanese Beetle. He is trying to find a way to exterminate beetle grubs, which nest underground during the winter.

May has been experimenting with homemade rockets. In his report, he said some types he has developed have attained heights of 70 to 100 feet. He makes his own powder.

The Science Talent Search has been conducted annually since 1942 by Westinghouse Corporation to find exceptional scientific talent in high school students.

Forty boys and girls who lead in preliminary examinations will be given expenses-paid trips to Washington next spring to attend the Science Talent Institute. While there, they will take the final scholarship examinations.

One $2,800 scholarship and one $2,000 grant will be awarded. Eight contestants will be awarded $400 scholarships, and another $3,000 in awards will be granted.

Two Applicants For Rec Post Are Interviewed

Board Will Delay Decision

The Recreation Board yesterday interviewed two applicants for the position of city recreation director, but voted to postpone any recommendation until it can talk to other applicants.

Five applicants were scheduled to appear before the board yesterday, but inclement weather was believed responsible for the failure of two to appear. Another wrote that Christmas plans in his city would prevent his coming here before the holidays.

A member of the board said not all applicants had been expected yesterday, since notices were mailed only Sunday.

He said a field of several applicants will be screened carefully before the board makes any recommendation to the Mayor and Council for appointment.

Further interviews, he said, are expected to be held in a week or 10 days.

The board decided last week to send offers to prospective applicants after meeting with J. W. Faust, New York area field director of the National Recreation Association.

Meanwhile, the present director, Edmund F. Hoey, wound up his last day of work yesterday.

Hoey, who has resigned effective December 31, will begin a two-weeks vacation Monday before reporting for work in a new position in Baltimore County.

Committee Backs 12 Practices For County Farmers

PMA Will Offer Two New Plans

Twelve practices, including two never before tried here and two others not on the 1951 program, were recommended for the County Production and Marketing Administration Committee for 1952 at a meeting yesterday morning of the County Agricultural Resources Committee.

These recommendations will be forwarded to the State PMA Committee at College Park and if approved, as anticipated, will be included in a handbook which the PMA Committee will send to the more than 900 county farmers early in January.

Sub-Soiling

One of the new recommended practices, according to Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, PMA committee clerk, is sub-soiling to permit better penetration of water. A committee member explained that through constant tillage and plowing the sub-soil, some eight to 20 inches below the surface, becomes hard and water seeping into the soil will not pentrate it. The objective of the practice is to get farmers to break up this hard sub-soil so that the water can penetrate it to full advantage.

Another brand new practice is the establishment of permanent sod waterways to dispose of excess water without causing erosion.

Two other practices endorsed by the committee for 1952 were not on the PMA list during 1951. These are improving stands of forest trees and establishment of permanent pastures.

Eight Others

The other eight practices, all of which were operative this year, include permanent open drainage ditches, tile drainage ditches, contour strip cropping, terracing, constructing permanent fences to protect farm woodland from grazing, winter cover crops, liming materials and phosphate and potash.

Members of the Agricultural Resources Conservation Committee who attended yesterday morning's meeting were Albert O'Neal, chairman; James H. Weimer and L. B. Shaw, all members of the County PMA Committee; County Agent Ralph F. McHenry, Soil Conservationist William Nace, Soil Conservation Aides Martin Gordon and Stuart Delbrook; District Forester William H. Johnson, Ernest Slider, member of the Allegany Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, and Richard Carson, field representative of the State PMA Committee in College Park, and Miss Hoover.

The PMA office at 37 Washington Street will be closed both on December 24, and December 31. To make up for these Monday holidays the office will be open on the following Saturdays, December 29 and January 5.

Allegany High Plans Christmas Assemblies

Pageants Scheduled For Wednesday

Christmas preparations at Allegany High School will reach the high musical note when pageants are presented at both the junior and senior high school assemblies next Wednesday morning.

The same pageant will be offered at the junior high assembly at 10 a. m. and again at the senior assembly at 10:45 a. m. Miss Dorothy Willison, vocal music teacher at Allegany, said the chief difference in the two assemblies will be that the singers will be from different organizations.

Vested Choir

Miss Willison's senior high choir, vested in blue and white robes, will sing traditional Christmas carols from the auditorium balcony while pantomimes are enacted on the stage. Each pantomime will be introduced with a brief scripture reader by Bernard Beerman from off stage.

As the choir sings "Down Through The Chimney" the curtains will part showing Santa Claus and a little girl. Bells will be rung while the singers present "The Carol of The Bells."

Segments of the choir will sing other carols. "The First Noel" will be sung by an octet of four girls and four boys. Nine girls, forming "The Musettes," will sing "Glory To God." The boys will offer "O Holy Night." Solo parts will be sung by Patricia Roberson and Ann Dixon while the choir sings "I Wonder As I Wander."

Carry Candles

After "Silent Night" is sung the choir members, all carrying lighted candles, will proceed to the stage for the finale, "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Accompaniment will be provided by the Allegany orchestra, directed by S. Lua Syckes.

For the junior high assembly, five different musical units, directed by Morris C. O'Neill, will blend their talents. These groups are the junior gleemen, the junior glee club, junior choral club, treble clef club and junior choir.

The public is invited to attend both Wednesday assemblies.

Allegany musical organizations will sing at a number of Christmas programs in town. The senior high glee club will sing at the Lions Club Christmas party at noon Wednesday and at the community Christmas celebration Sunday, December 23, at Riverside Park.

The treble clef club will sing at Allegany Hospital and Queen City Station Friday, December 21.

Mr. Owens operated his shop until 1934 when he moved to Oakland. During this time he had become very active in politics with the Democratic party. At Oakland, he served four years as deputy sheriff of Garrett County. Later he was elected Garrett County's sheriff and served for three years.

In 1941, Mr. Owens resigned as sheriff and went to Baltimore to work in the ship yards during World War II. Returning to Kitzmiller in 1945, Mr. Owens reopened his barber business in the old Kitzmiller Post Office building. He remained in this business until his death.

Answer Filed In Condemnation

An answer denying the necessity for the Board of Education to acquire 4.7 acres of land adjacent to the new Central High School property near Lonaconing, has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court for the Maryland Fuel Company by Walter C. Capper, attorney, and James Jenkins, company president.

William L. Wilson, Jr., attorney for the Board of Education, filed a condemnation suit against the Maryland Fuel Company November 15, seeking 4.7 acres of land.

The defendant's answer contends it is not necessary for the Board of Education to acquire all of the property in question for public school purposes. The defendant also denies that the Board of Education had made any attempt to purchase the property and has no right to condemn the property. The school is being constructed about three-quarters of a mile southwest of Lonaconing, on the road to Barton.

Snow Blankets Tri-State

All Roads Open But Dangerous

BULLETIN

All westbound bus transportation from the Baltimore-Washington—area to Cumberland was temporarily cancelled late last night due to traffic tieups in the two cities.

A Blue Ridge Bus Company spokesman here said he expected trips to be resumed early this morning. He said the stoppage affected all trips west of Hagerstown.

The worst winter weather in years smothered the Tri-State area under six to 12 inches of snow yesterday, all but paralyzing traffic and turning broad highways into slippery, drifted lanes.

State Police throughout Maryland and nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania were urging motorists not to travel unless absolutely necessary.

No Western Maryland roads were considered passable without chains last night, although State Roads Commission plow and cinder crews worked all day to clear the highways.

By nightfall, snow which had been falling since 10:40 a. m. had turned to freezing rain, forming an icy crust over the five to six inches of snow on Cumberland streets and sidewalks.

Forecasters predicted the snow might go deeper than a foot in rugged Garrett County, which already had two inches on the ground when the storm hit.

No serious highway accidents had been reported by late last night, but a host of minor, fender-crumpling collisions was laid to slippery streets and roads.

City buses in Cumberland were running 15 minutes to near an hour behind schedule. Intercity buses were as much as an hour and a half late, but trains were only slightly affected.

Traffic on most local streets slowed to a virtual halt at the evening rush hour. In many sections of the city, cars went out of control, turned sideways and blocked main thoroughfares for several minutes.

Everywhere in the area, traffic was paralyzed by the suddenness of the storm, which caught many drivers without chains. The snow piled up quickly, falling at about an inch an hour.

Long lines of cars were bogged down on hills, and several carloads of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory workers were delayed about 80 minutes after an auto skidded and blocked Pinto Road at the bridge near the Post Office.

Everywhere, highways were dangerous. The State Roads Commission called out all available plow and cinder crews. Some 150 to 200 men worked against time to clear Allegany and Garrett County roads before dark.

At Frostburg, four plow crews and two cinder trucks were still battling over six inches of snow late last night.

Temperatures in nearly all Tri-State sections were in the 20s and thermometers were still dropping. Freezing rain was falling at Altamont, Terra Alta, W. Va., Oakland, Thomas, Kingwood, Romney and Keyser, W. Va., and the mercury was below 20 degrees at Rockwood and Deal, Pa.

By late last night, all major highways were open, but most were considered dangerous. There seemed no hope of early relief from hazardous highway conditions, with temperatures expected to drop even lower today.

Games Cancelled, Schools Closed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Snow became rain in much of West Virginia late Friday, turning roads into layers of slush, but Highways remained hazardous in the Northern and Eastern Panhandle as snow continued to fall.

In those snow-hit areas sports events were cancelled and many schools were closed. There were few major accidents reported.

Road Commission officials at Moundsville said snow reached depths of five and six inches in Ohio and Marshall counties. Three and one-half inches fell on Wheeling. All schools in Wheeling were closed.

Snow had turned to rain in most of the North-Central area except in Monongalia and Preston counties, where three to four inches of snow fell.

The Road Commission office at Keyser said it was snowing very hard in the vicinity, with depths up to three inches. Officials urged the use of chains throughout the area.

Temperatures there dropped to 27 degrees.

The Road Commission said driving remained dangerous in the Elkins area, where rain followed snow late in the day.

Committee Backs 12 Practices For County Farmers

PMA Will Offer Two New Plans

Twelve practices, including two never before tried here and two others not on the 1951 program, were recommended for the County Production and Marketing Administration Committee for 1952 at a meeting yesterday morning of the County Agricultural Resources Committee.

These recommendations will be forwarded to the State PMA Committee at College Park and if approved, as anticipated, will be included in a handbook which the PMA Committee will send to the more than 900 county farmers early in January.

Sub-Soiling

One of the new recommended practices, according to Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, PMA committee clerk, is sub-soiling to permit better penetration of water. A committee member explained that through constant tillage and plowing the sub-soil, some eight to 20 inches below the surface, becomes hard and water seeping into the soil will not pentrate it. The objective of the practice is to get farmers to break up this hard sub-soil so that the water can penetrate it to full advantage.

Another brand new practice is the establishment of permanent sod waterways to dispose of excess water without causing erosion.

Two other practices endorsed by the committee for 1952 were not on the PMA list during 1951. These are improving stands of forest trees and establishment of permanent pastures.

Eight Others

The other eight practices, all of which were operative this year, include permanent open drainage ditches, tile drainage ditches, contour strip cropping, terracing, constructing permanent fences to protect farm woodland from grazing, winter cover crops, liming materials and phosphate and potash.

Members of the Agricultural Resources Conservation Committee who attended yesterday morning's meeting were Albert O'Neal, chairman; James H. Weimer and L. B. Shaw, all members of the County PMA Committee; County Agent Ralph F. McHenry, Soil Conservationist William Nace, Soil Conservation Aides Martin Gordon and Stuart Delbrook; District Forester William H. Johnson, Ernest Slider, member of the Allegany Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, and Richard Carson, field representative of the State PMA Committee in College Park, and Miss Hoover.

The PMA office at 37 Washington Street will be closed both on December 24, and December 31. To make up for these Monday holidays the office will be open on the following Saturdays, December 29 and January 5.

Allegany High Plans Christmas Assemblies

Pageants Scheduled For Wednesday

Christmas preparations at Allegany High School will reach the high musical note when pageants are presented at both the junior and senior high school assemblies next Wednesday morning.

The same pageant will be offered at the junior high assembly at 10 a. m. and again at the senior assembly at 10:45 a. m. Miss Dorothy Willison, vocal music teacher at Allegany, said the chief difference in the two assemblies will be that the singers will be from different organizations.

Vested Choir

Miss Willison's senior high choir, vested in blue and white robes, will sing traditional Christmas carols from the auditorium balcony while pantomimes are enacted on the stage. Each pantomime will be introduced with a brief scripture reader by Bernard Beerman from off stage.

As the choir sings "Down Through The Chimney" the curtains will part showing Santa Claus and a little girl. Bells will be rung while the singers present "The Carol of The Bells."

Segments of the choir will sing other carols. "The First Noel" will be sung by an octet of four girls and four boys. Nine girls, forming "The Musettes," will sing "Glory To God." The boys will offer "O Holy Night." Solo parts will be sung by Patricia Roberson and Ann Dixon while the choir sings "I Wonder As I Wander."

Carry Candles

After "Silent Night" is sung the choir members, all carrying lighted candles, will proceed to the stage for the finale, "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Accompaniment will be provided by the Allegany orchestra, directed by S. Lua Syckes.

For the junior high assembly, five different musical units, directed by Morris C. O'Neill, will blend their talents. These groups are the junior gleemen, the junior glee club, junior choral club, treble clef club and junior choir.

The public is invited to attend both Wednesday assemblies.

Allegany musical organizations will sing at a number of Christmas programs in town. The senior high glee club will sing at the Lions Club Christmas party at noon Wednesday and at the community Christmas celebration Sunday, December 23, at Riverside Park.

The treble clef club will sing at Allegany Hospital and Queen City Station Friday, December 21.

Mr. Owens operated his shop until 1934 when he moved to Oakland. During this time he had become very active in politics with the Democratic party. At Oakland, he served four years as deputy sheriff of Garrett County. Later he was elected Garrett County's sheriff and served for three years.

In 1941, Mr. Owens resigned as sheriff and went to Baltimore to work in the ship yards during World War II. Returning to Kitzmiller in 1945, Mr. Owens reopened his barber business in the old Kitzmiller Post Office building. He remained in this business until his death.

Answer Filed In Condemnation

An answer denying the necessity for the Board of Education to acquire 4.7 acres of land adjacent to the new Central High School property near Lonaconing, has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court for the Maryland Fuel Company by Walter C. Capper, attorney, and James Jenkins, company president.

William L. Wilson, Jr., attorney for the Board of Education, filed a condemnation suit against the Maryland Fuel Company November 15, seeking 4.7 acres of land.

The defendant's answer contends it is not necessary for the Board of Education to acquire all of the property in question for public school purposes. The defendant also denies that the Board of Education had made any attempt to purchase the property and has no right to condemn the property. The school is being constructed about three-quarters of a mile southwest of Lonaconing, on the road to Barton.
